FARLEY CALLED ON CARPET OVER BALK AT PURGE

Summoned to Hyde Park Conference.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt hastily summoned Postmaster General James A. Farley to the summer White House today. The President was said to be perturbed by reports that the boss of the Democratic party had told intimates he is against the attempted Roosevelt purge of the Democratic party, which has extended thus far to the states of Georgia, Maryland, and New York.

Although Boss Farley has been neglected of late by the President, his advice and opinions have great weight. It was believed that the sudden and unexpected summons from the President would result in a plea from Mr. Roosevelt to Farley that he join in the effort to "purify" the Democratic party of those senators and representatives who have not supported the President's proposals without reservation.

Has Other Worries, Too.

In addition to Mr. Roosevelt's alarm about his party chief's objections to the purge other developments have caused him to turn to the man who helped make him President, according to reports.

The first of these developments was the report from New York that the Workers' Alliance, a union of WPA workers, had started to collect a $50,000 fund from relief workers to assist in the purge of John J. O'Connor, house rules committee chairman. This action was considered harmful to the New Deal cause by the President.

The second was the possible reaction to the President's denunciation yesterday of Republicans who enter Democratic primaries. Mr. Roosevelt was said to want a practical politican near him to deal with the consequences of this attack.

Treasury Aid Resigns.

The resignation of Roswell Magill, undersecretary of the treasury, was accepted for the second time today. Once before Magill's retirement was acknowledged, but he agreed to serve a short time longer. On this occasion, Mr. Roosevelt wrote Magill that he would keep him on call.

Magill has been credited with fathering most of the tax legislation of the last two years. His successor has not been named.

"The attainment of the ideals of a fair and adequate federal tax system, coördinated with the revenue system of the states, and of a tax administration organized to determine the citizens' liability promptly and economically is a complex task, requiring planning on a broad front and coöperation among many governmental agencies and officials," Magill wrote to the President in his letter of resignation.

ENLIST ROPER IN PURGE

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Unable to get any help from Postmaster General James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee, the White House purge promoters today looked elsewhere. They obtained the services of "Uncle Dan" Roper, secretary of commerce, in the campaign to drive Senator Millard E. Tydings [D., Md.], from public office. "Uncle Dan" accused Senator Tydings of favoring a Baltimore scrap iron firm which purchased 124 laid up vessels from the old United States shipping board under the Hoover administration.

Representative David J. Lewis [D., Md.], the 100 per center who was handpicked by President Roosevelt to run against Senator Tydings, first made the scrap iron charge in a radio address Sunday night. He said Tydings abused Secretary Roper for abrogating the contract for the sale of the ships to the Boston Iron and Metal works of Baltimore. He also said that the president of this company recently contributed $5,000 to Tydings' campaign.

Tells of Protests.

Secretary Roper said that Senator Tydings "repeatedly came to my desk during the spring of 1934 and took the position that I had no right to abrogate the contract." Roper said the contract which he abro-

HUNGARY SAFE FROM INVASION, HITLER PLEDGES

Horthy Ties Up with Rome-Berlin Axis.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 24.—Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler tonight pledged the inviolability of Hungary, Germany's neighbor and world war ally. Speaking before 200 persons at a state banquet in honor of Admiral Nicholas Horthy, Hungarian regent, the Fuehrer told his guest: "We as neighbors have found our final historical borders."

Through references to Italy, Hitler broadened the Rome-Berlin axis to include Hungary. He pointed to the friendship and coöperation of centuries between the old Austro-Hungarian empire and Germany.

Sees Value to Both Nations.

"This firmly founded community, based on a mutually unshakable trust," he said, "will be of special value to both peoples now that we as neighbors through historic events [the union of Germany and Austria] have found our final historical borders.

"This coöperation not only serves the interests of our countries alone but also, in close collaboration with our befriended Italy, is a pledge of a dignified and just general peace."

Horthy in his reply took his cue from Hitler's warm words. He, too stressed the friendship binding Hungary with Italy and Germany.

"The wish for continuation of peaceful reconstruction which animates us and our friends is safe insurance that our people can pursue successfully the high aim of peace based on mutual good will and justice through further close collaboration, thereby serving best their own interests and those of the rest of the world," the regent asserted.

Recalls War Alliance.

Like Hitler, Horthy recalled the ideals for which, he said, Germany and Hungary fought "shoulder to shoulder" in the world war. He spoke of the "common desire for fair peace" animating Hungary, Italy, and Germany.

Premier Bela Imredi and Foreign Minister Kolomon von Kanya of Hungary and high Nazi officials attended the banquet. It was held in the "marble hall" of the chancellery. At the banquet for the first time women used the new authorized salute in Hitler's presence at social functions. In this salute the right hand is raised shoulder high, elbow bent, with the head inclined slightly forward.

The banquet climaxed Horthy's first day in Berlin. Hitler, the regent and his wife, and their official party reached the capital by special train from Hamburg late in the afternoon.

Get Military Reception.

The German and Hungarian rulers were greeted with a snappy military reception at the railway station. Among the official greeters were Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, minister of air; Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda, and many Nazi officials and military officers. All wore the bright green band of their new Hungarian decoration.

Boys clad in the uniforms of the Hungarian youth organization, with feathers in their caps, saluted. They stood behind Hitler's crack bodyguard.

Hitler and Horthy, wearing a full admiral's uniform with gold braid on his cocked hat, reviewed a guard of honor. Then the two drove to the former presidential palace. They passed through Brandenburg gate and Unter Den Linden, where they admired the floodlighting and pillars erected in honor of the Hungarian visitor. Thousands cheered Hitler and the regent.

Horthy and his entourage will live in the German white house until Friday.

To See Land and Air Forces.

In the last two days Horthy saw Germany's new navy in a parade at Kiel. He inspected the fortifications on the naval stronghold, Helgoland, which is being turned into a naval base. Tomorrow the regent will inspect the nation's land and air forces.

Thousands of troops will march down the newly built "festival street." The procession has been ad-

Extra Woman Chills Hearts in Lovers' Lane

Strong hearts missed a beat. Strong hands patted dainty wrists as reassuringly as possible. Romantic young men said, "Courage, little girl. I'll protect you!" when they saw the woman in black lying in the lovers' lane east of Joliet.

But strong voices faded to a whisper in the midnight stillness early yesterday when a grisly looking man sprang from behind the trees, pointed at the motionless figure in the roadway, and gasped:

"There's been a murder here. A murder! Turn off to the right if you want a chance to come out alive."

Whew! What's Next?

Couple after couple took the right turn—and found themselves in a dead end road. They parked and waited in terror for further orders, for most of them recalled, when they thought it over, that the fiendish stranger brandished a gun. The night got darker.

At last John Rossi drove along. He was alone, on his way home to 606 Elwood street, Joliet. He saw the woman in black, heard the man tell about the murder, and raced straight on, avoiding the victim and the dead end lane.

They Find the Femme.

The policemen hurried to the lovers' lane, in Pilcher park. They found the woman in black, but the man had vanished. They picked the woman up and found she was an attractively dressed department store dummy.

In the dead end lane they found fifteen couples in fifteen parked cars.

The policemen explained that it must have been a hoax. And fifteen strong hands patted fifteen dainty wrists while fifteen romantic young men said they knew all the time it was just a g-g-g-gag. Police, however, said that Rossi's action upset the bold plans of a lone bandit for a mass holdup.

MASHING PROPOSED AS MEANS OF RAISING GERMAN BIRTH RATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 24.—Mashing as an officially approved means of encouraging marriages and thus increasing Germany's birth rate was proposed today by Dr. Paul Danzer in the Nazi periodical, The Will to Have Children.

He deplored that young persons desiring to marry lack sufficient chances to get acquainted with one another. He opposed marriage bureaus. "Even if the bureaus were controled by the state, they have a disagreeable taste for the more sensitive young people," Dr. Danzer said. "On the other hand, one can imagine that a harmless way of getting acquainted would be to make things much easier. No special measures are needed to enable a decent young man to accost a girl provided the girl offers no resistance."

German papers announced that marriages in Austria have multiplied as a result of the Nazi campaign for more babies. In July, 1938, there were 4,126 marriages in Austria, compared with 1,092 in July 1937.

WIFE DEMANDS TRUCK SO SHE CAN WORK AGAIN

Mrs. Lucille Abrams of 409 South Leavitt street drove a very profitable truck. She made a clear profit of $10 a day hauling and shoveling coal. She even carried it in, when that was necessary. Then, when she and her husband, Frank, separated last June 27, he took the truck. She stated all this yesterday in a suit in Circuit court for divorce. She also asked a writ to prevent him from moving the business, known as the F-L Coal company, which she organized and operated, she says. But most of all she wants the truck back so she can start making money again.

BOYS RIDE BIKES 142 MILES IN DAY TO SICK MOTHER

At 6 a. m. yesterday Thomas Grinspad, 15 years old, and Edward Neverman, 17, mounted their bicycles in their home at Watertown, Wis., and started for Chicago. They wanted to visit Thomas' mother, Mrs. Mary B. Grinspad, a world war nurse, who is ill at the Hines hospital in Maywood. At 10 p. m. last night the weary lads stopped at the gate of the hospital. They had pedaled 142 miles. The watchman explained that they were too late for visiting hours. But the Maywood police put the boys up for the night and this morning they will be allowed to see Mrs. Grinspad.

MOTORISTS ARE FOOLED, FUELED, AND DE-FUELED

When it rains duck soup these fellows'll be there—with forks: The motorists who seized the fuel cans from an overturned oil truck at 17th street and Western avenue yesterday and poured their contents into their gasoline tanks. The cans contained naphtha instead of gasoline, and firemen made the motorists empty their tanks, thus losing the gasoline they already had, on the theory that the naphtha might explode. Experts said later it wouldn't.

A Dude Ranch, Promoter and $5,000 Vanish

Gone is the thrill that passed over Du Page, Kane, and De Kalb counties when Al D. Young promised to make old New Lebanon village into a frontier town and dude ranch. Gone is Al D. Young, who wore a three gallon hat and called himself "colonel." Gone is Young's bride of three months. Likewise gone are $5,000 of tax anticipation warants of the Lombard village schools.

Young, a former theatrical man, appeared on the New Lebanon horizon in March. He looked over the old town. It had four houses and only one resident family. He contracted to buy it. He also contracted to buy 240 acres of the Hartman estate land surrounding it.

Splendid Plans Drawn.

Then he went into Elgin and engaged an elaborate suite in the Fox hotel. He drew up some splendid maps. They showed old New Lebanon transformed into a frontier village and covering 125 acres. The rest of the land was to be just a dude ranch, where city folk could gallop about on horses and pretend to rustle cows.

Some people from Elgin went out to view the place, which is twenty-one miles west of the city on route 72. They reported the land was there and New Lebanon also. They could picture what it would all be if Young got his plans over.

Next "Col." Young married Mrs. Mae Peterson. She had been secretary of the Lombard school board for ten years and she had just divorced her husband.

It's a Going Business.

Numerous Elgin restaurateurs and tavern men purchased concessions for the New Lebanon Dude ranch from Young. He ran up a bill of several hundred dollars at the hotel. And all the while the work of duding up the ranch lagged.

Yesterday it was disclosed that warants charging Mrs. Young and the promoter with the larceny of the $5,000 of tax warants were issued some time ago. Allan Meyers, chief investigator for the state's attorney of Du Page county, said the warants had been sold to a Chicago bank, but that the money was missing.

Nobody in the three counties, so far as could be learned, knows the whereabouts of the couple.

Quincy, Ill., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Beckmann, who have been married more than thirty years, saw their first motion picture here today. They won a pair of tickets in a contest.

Gambling Ring Squirms; Axes Cut Into Cash

More squads and more axes to smash more of Chicago's 9,000 gambling houses came as an unverified forecast from State's Attorney Courtney's office yesterday. As a result the investment in gambling was reported to be gradually growing weaker. Losses due to property destruction are falling heavily on landlords. The Capone headline syndicate which coöperates with politicians in controling the resorts is said to be worried.

Yesterday the Courtney raiders crashed into two places. One, at 2144 South Pulaski road, is in the 23d ward, where Sherif John Toman is Democratic committeeman. As a squad under Lieut. Thomas Kelly chopped through the frame of a steel door a voice inside inquired: "Have you a warant?"

"I have a warant of destruction," replied the sergeant, taking another swing with his ax.

Once inside the choppers smashed the tables, chairs, and other furniture.

Smash Devon Avenue Resort.

A much more elaborate resort, at 2406 Devon avenue, was also splintered. This place is in the 50th ward. City Collector Louis Rixmann is ward committeeman. These raids were the eighth and ninth in the prosecutor's campaign to rid Chicago of open gambling joints.

Observers familiar with Courtney's views believe he will, in a short time, assign larger numbers of policemen to the raiding work, and hit four places a day instead of one and two as at present.

The syndicate apparently is willing to concede his sincerity and earnestness. Its heads used to close down all gambling houses temporarily when raiding began. Their theory was that "the heat" would be lessened soon and things would go on as they were. Now they let them all stay open. They take the necessary losses. Their theory is better business under difficulties than no business at all.

Seek to Please Women.

Equipment and furnishings for a first class gambling resort cost thousands of dollars. The surroundings now necessary are more genteel than they once were. Women are steady patrons of many places. For their comfort the proprietors have installed good furniture. More attention has been paid to decorations. In many cases air conditioning units have been installed.

Many landlords have coöperated in this splendorizing. Some of them have paid for decorating. In one instance, in the loop, it was specified that the gambling house would surrender title to its furniture to the lessor if the place went out of business. Ironically enough, the state's attorney's men went in. The furniture they cracked up was the landlord's. This incident and the regularity of Courtney's raids has sickened the landlords on leasing to gamblers even in these hard times.

Canny real estate owners are now demanding several months' rent in advance, when dealing with agents

BOODLE PAYOFF DENIAL CAUSES COURT HUBBUB

Huge Sums to Swing Election Traced.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on back page.)

William C. Dodge. [Linked to racket payments.]

The outburst came just after George Weinberg, payoff man for the gang headed by the late Dutch Schultz, had completed eight and a half hours of testimony linking Hines to the racket and telling of numerous payments of underworld cash to the Democratic boss.

"You know you lie!" Hines broke out, the words coming through clenched teeth.

Silenced by Court.

In the ensuing hubbub Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora pounded his gavel and admonished the defendant. He told the Tammany boss that he was represented by counsel who would do the talking for him.

Hines, a big framed man with the build of an athlete at 61 years of age, dropped back into his seat.

The stage was set for this episode by Attorney Lloyd Paul Stryker, chief counsel for Hines and lawyer for other Tammany chieftains who have had brushes with the law. District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey had finished his direct examination of Weinberg and turned the witness over to the defense for cross-examination.

Meet in Front of Home.

Weinberg had testified he handed Hines money for protecting the policy game racketeers from police and the courts in the late spring and early summer of 1932. The meetings took place, he said, in front of the apartment house in which Hines lived at 444 Central Park West, and also in his apartment.

"Don't you know Hines never moved into that apartment until October of 1932?" bellowed Stryker.

Stryker picked up a lease which indicated Hines had not rented the apartment until Oct. 1, 1932. Waving the paper under the witness' nose, he asked whether he still swore to his testimony.

"Yes," replied Weinberg.

The defendant got to his feet.

"Look Mr. Hines in the face," Stryker commanded Weinberg, "and tell him if you ever saw him in that apartment in the spring of 1932."

Whole Courtroom Hears.

As the witness nodded Hines lashed out at him. His voice was filled with anger and the whole courtroom heard him.

Weinberg, a stocky individual with an oily skin and a crooked smile, said nothing.

For the better part of an hour before court adjourned, Stryker continued to rip into the witness. Pointing out Weinberg's police record and court appearances in which he had lied on the stand, Stryker called the witness a "gangster," a "crook," and a "perjurer."

"Would you lie to get your liberty?" asked Stryker.

"I wouldn't commit perjury if it would harm any one else," remarked Weinberg.

Next the defense counsel attempted to draw from the witness an admission that his story had been cooked up in conversations with J. Richard [Dixie] Davis, Schultz lawyer, and Harry [Big Harry] Schoenhaus, gang bookkeeper. Weinberg and the other two have pleaded guilty to the same indictment upon which Hines is being tried.

Insists He's Telling Truth.

The witness insisted the story was his own and that it was the truth. Cross-examination will continue tomorrow.

In winding up the direct examination of Weinberg, Prosecutor Dewey brought to light two new incidents of reputed alliance between the politician and the Schultz gang.

One of these stories dealt with a chummy little meeting in a lawyer's office at which William C. Dodge, Democratic candidate for district attorney of New York county, witnessed the payment of $3,000 in gang money to further his campaign.

The other was that Hines, after journeying to Bridgeport, Conn., to call on Schultz in a hotel room, agreed to accept a cut in his $500 weekly salary from the racketeers when the gang leader pleaded he was in desperate need of funds to fight an income tax evasion case brought against him by the federal government.

Salary Cut in Half.

According to Weinberg's best recollection, the trip to Bridgeport occurred in June of 1935. Weinberg said he and Davis picked up Hines at his home and the three drove up to Connecticut.

Arriving in Bridgeport, the three went to the Stratfield hotel, where they met Schultz and "Lulu" Rosencrantz, one of his strong arm men, in a suite. Schultz spoke to Hines.

"I guess you know things are getting pretty tough," Weinberg quoted the gang leader as saying.

"Hines said 'If things are tough, I'll have to take the cut,'" Weinberg said.

After this meeting Hines was paid an average of $250 a week instead of the $500 salary he had been getting from the gang, Weinberg said.

Pre-Election Payment.

The payment in Dodge's presence took place about a month before the election in November of 1933, Weinberg testified. Davis, the Schultz lawyer, who has pleaded guilty to the conspiracy indictment, called up Weinberg.

"He said the old man [gang nickname for Hines] needed some money," related Weinberg, "and to run down to Shalleck's office and give it to him."

Weinberg obediently filled his pockets with cash and set off for the offices of Joseph Shalleck, Hines' attorney. Shalleck, sitting at the defense table, reddened slightly and began scribbling notes on a memorandum pad.

In Shalleck's office, Weinberg said, he saw Dodge talking with Hines. He greeted Hines and told him he had the money. Hines introduced the Schultz lieutenant to the Democratic candidate for district attorney, the witness testified next.

"One of Schultz's Boys."

"You know George," Weinberg quoted Hines as saying. "He is one of the Dutch Schultz boys. That's where I'm getting money for the campaign."

"Did Dodge say anything?" asked Dewey.

"He just stuck out his hand and grinned," said Weinberg.

It was after this introduction that Weinberg paid over the $3,000 to Hines, the witness said.

Altogether, Weinberg estimated, between $32,000 and $33,000 in gang funds went into the Dodge campaign. The funds were set down as "expenses" on the books and pro-rated among the four largest policy banks.

Reached outside the court, former District Attorney Dodge branded Weinberg's story "an absolute lie." He said he never had met Weinberg and never had spoken to him. Dodge said he had been in Shalleck's office only once, and that was when it opened in 1932. He could not recall whether Hines was present.

$275,000 Profits to Schultz.

Weinberg testified that over a period of years Schultz took approximately $275,000 from the policy game profits for his own use, and in 1934, when there was not enough cash on hand to pay off on winning numbers, the "combination" began to fall apart, the various bankers setting up independent operations.

Weinberg testified that in the fall of 1932, one Otto Berman, known as "Avasek" or "Abadaba," came to Schultz and proposed a scheme whereby the pari-mutuel figures, on which the numbers game winnings were based, be changed daily through placing a bet at the last minute. "Abadaba" was an official handicapper at several tracks and had access to the pari-mutuel machine room.

Schultz kept the numbers game on the level until a year later, when he was in need of funds for his litigation. Thereafter "Abadaba," who was a lightning calculator, changed the numbers at the tracks. Weinberg would call him on the long distance telephone and tell him which numbers had been heavily played that day and "Abadaba" would see to it that the last digit was changed to some number upon which little had been bet.

"Abadaba" was killed with Schultz in a Newark saloon in 1935.

S. C. CAMPAIGN PROVES OLD SAW ABOUT POLITICS

Columbia, S. C., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Politics makes strange platform companions in South Carolina. Despite animosity caused by the Roosevelt purge and a heated campaign, opposing candidates appear together in their speechmaking tours under a rule in effect here. They travel together and stay in the same hotels, sometimes in small towns in the same room.

This is true in the senatorial race in South Carolina in which three candidates denounce each other daily from the same rostrum. The candidates are Senator E. D. [Cotton Ed] Smith, the veteran marked by the President for defeat; Gov. Olin D. Johnston, and Edgar Brown, a state senator.

The appearance of the candidates in small towns provides a field day for country folk. They gather around the campaign truck and sit in the shade calmly listening to the burning oratory directed at them. When the speeches are over they drive slowly home, marveling over the oratory of the candidates.

Find Rescuer of Explorers Shot to Death in Office

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Olaf Swenson, 55 years old, arctic fur trader who rescued eleven members of the Stefansson expedition from Wrangel Island in 1914, was found shot to death today in his office. Detectives said it appeared a rifle near the body had been discharged accidentally while Swenson was cleaning it.

2 TVA QUIZZERS PROTEST ACTION OF U. S. COUNSEL

Challenge Biddle's Right on Phase of Inquiry.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Chattanooga, Tenn., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Two members of the congressional committee investigating TVA protested at today's hearing that Francis Biddle, committee counsel, has exceeded his authority in digging into a three year old referendum on public power operation here. The complaints were made by Representatives Charles Wolverton [R., N. J.] and Thomas Jenkins [R., O.].

Jenkins and Wolverton brusquely demanded to know how long the Chattanooga hearings would continue. Biddle told them that tomorrow he will have testimony concerning newspaper subsidies in the 1935 battle over whether Chattanooga should have its own electric system, using TVA power.

Raises Issue of Fairness.

One of the principal witnesses at today's hearing was L. J. Wilhoite, head of Chattanooga's power board which is erecting a distribution system to provide TVA current in competition with a privately owned company. His testimony brought a sharp rejoinder from Jenkins.

"Isn't this an unfair battle," Jenkins asked, "for the United States government to come here and say the PWA will give you 45 per cent and lend you 55 per cent to build a distribution system which will make the system of the private utilities, said to furnish sufficient power, not worth more than a nuisance value?"

Wilhoite replied that the private utilities would not negotiate the sale of their local properties and that Chattanooga was going ahead with the duplicating system. He said it was small concern to Chattanooga that Director David E. Lilienthal of TVA and Wendell Willkie of the Commonwealth and Southern corporation are carrying on negotiations for possible state-wide acquisition of private electric properties by TVA.

Tells of Vote Petitions.

The committee also delved into the efforts of Chattanooga citizens to block erection of public owned power facilities. Harold Humphreys, a young lawyer, testified he circulated two recent petitions for a referendum on bond issues for establishing the public power project. He said the petitions were financed by small subscriptions. He declined to answer questions as to his income.

Humphreys said some of his notes at Chattanooga banks had been indorsed by Roy McDonald, publisher of the Chattanooga Free Press, which has opposed public power.

McDonald indorsed his note for $2,500, Humphreys testified, when he bought sixty-five shares of stock in the Chattanooga News, which editorially has favored public power. Questioning by Biddle failed to bring out that public utilities had played any part in the transaction.

TWO YOUNG WIVES ARE JAILED; DENY SLAYING FARMER

Answer Description Given by His Son.

Fairfield, Ill., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Two young women hitch-hikers were held in jail here today in connection with the slaying of Felix Shannon, 56 years old. The victim, a farmer, was shot to death Sunday night in his home near Mount Erie.

The women were arrested last night by Sherif Ernest Burkett, who trailed them through three states.

They gave their names as Jean Brooks, 23 years old, of Elizabethton, Tenn., and Beulah Honeycutt, 25, of Johnson City, Tenn. Both said they are married.

Mrs. Brooks is red haired and Mrs. Honeycutt is stockily built. This tallies with the description given by Shannon's son of the two women the farmer picked up in his car Sunday. The boy, 8 years old, said the red haired woman was known as "Jean."

Deny Being in State.

Both women denied any connection with the killing, Sherif Burkett said, and also denied they ever had been in Illinois. The officer said, however, he believed he had learned their complete itinerary and that they had fled from the vicinity of Mount Erie Sunday night.

The Shannon boy said his father picked up two women hitch-hikers at Princeton, Ind. Shannon was driving his son, who had visited him, back to Somerville, Ind., where the boy lives with his mother. Shannon and his wife were separated.

The boy said his father sought to engage the women as housekeepers. He left them at a tavern in Oakland City, Ind., and said he would return for them. The sherif was told at the tavern that a man in a car with an Illinois license later picked up the women.

Traces Suspects' Trail.

In following the suspects' trail the sherif said he learned that a young farmer living near Mount Erie picked up two women early Monday and took them to Albion.

Later, the officer said, the women hired a boy to get them bus tickets to Princeton, Ind. From Princeton they hitch-hiked to Henderson, Ky., and then went to Hopkinsville, Ky., where they were seized by police.

Sherif Burkett said he believed robbery was the motive for the slaying. Shannon's brother, Perry, who found the body Monday, said the farmer usually carried a substantial sum of money. There was only 13 cents in his clothes when his nude body was found in his bedroom.

MAID'S MEMORY MEANS JAIL FOR BURGLAR TEAM

Sol Miller, 305 South Clark street, and Leo Barnett, 4189 Clarendon avenue, were seized by Town Hall police yesterday and charged with burglary. They were arrested at Buena and Clarendon avenues after Miss Erma Kuether, a nursemaid, pointed them out as the men who had taken $6 in the home of her employer, Mrs. Violet Grossman, 652 Buena avenue.

Mrs. Marian Dusey, 452 Belden avenue, later said the men were the prospective furniture buyers who visited her home on Monday. After they left, $88 and a $25 money order was missing from her purse.

Sergts. Martin Walsh, Everett Mullaney and Michael Bieschke, who made the arrest, said Barnett was carrying a loaded .38 caliber revolver in a briefcase. The police said the two men visited homes where rooms were advertised for rent or furniture for sale. While Miller kept the attention of the women, they said, Barnett rifled drawers and desks in search of money.

PUSHES ARM THROUGH DOOR.

Patsy Gombas, 9 years old, 5637 South Campbell avenue, was cut yesterday when she pushed her right arm through a glass door at 5601 South Campbell avenue. She was taken to the Evangelical hospital.

FORMER GENNA GANGSTER SLAIN BY EXECUTIONERS

Tenth Ride Victim in Last Ten Weeks.

Gangland executioners dumped another ride victim in a west side alley last night. He was the tenth gang victim in the last ten weeks. As in all the other cases, police said they were without a clew to the killers.

Paul Battaglia.

The latest victim was Paul Battaglia, 43 years old, of 831 Cabrini street. Sergt. Francis Donohue of the coroner's office said he was a minor figure in the underworld and once a member of the old Genna gang.

Battaglia was a brother of August Battaglia, who was slain by gangland assassins at Roosevelt road and Halsted street on Jan. 4, 1931. Two days after that murder Patsy Tardi, another gangster, was slain.

Brother's Slaying Unsolved.

At that time the police thought that Tardi may have been the killer of August Battaglia. They questioned August's brother, Paul, in the Tardi killing, but were unable to learn anything from him.

Three youths stumbled across Paul Battaglia's body as it lay sprawled in a weed patch beside an alley in the rear of 5115 West Monroe street. There were two bullet holes in his head.

The police believe that Battaglia had been shot elsewhere and his body dumped from a moving automobile. Tire tracks led in from Leamington avenue and turned out again at Laramie avenue.

Known as Handbook Tout.

Battaglia had been working off and on as a West Madison street bartender. Previously he had been a bondsman in the Desplaines street police court. But more recently he had been serving as a tout for several handbooks.

Some of the handbooks, controled by the Capone syndicate, are reported to have been robbed within the last few months of sizable sums. Police suggested that Paul Battaglia may have tipped off the robbers and in turn met his death at the hands of syndicate gunmen.

Police records revealed that Battaglia had been arrested in 1923 with Angelo Genna, head of the lethal gang of bootleggers, who later was killed. Although arrested as a robber, burglar, receiver of stolen property, and gun toter in 1923 and 1927, Battaglia escaped imprisonment.

Paul was a cousin of Sam Battaglia, a notorious west side hoodlum with a long police record. Sam's brother, Frank, was slain by gangsters in 1932.

Chicago Music Lovers

(Story in adjoining column.)

ALEC TEMPLETON MIMICS MASTERS, MODERNS, TOO

Intersperses Caricature with Serious Works.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Alec Templeton for a time last night forsook his rôle of legitimate pianist and displayed before a huge lake front audience in Grant park his remarkable gift for caricature.

The blind young Britisher burlesqued Wagnerian opera, using for this purpose his skill as a pianist and his remarkably adaptable voice. In the piano part were the grandiose pronouncements typical of the "Ring" operas.

Burlesques Singers.

Vocally, Alec reproduced successfully the laryngitic "Ich's" of a strangling German tenor, the choked shouts which Wagnerian basses are forced to emit periodically, and the frightened and windy shrieks of a soprano.

Following the Wagnerian bit came a takeoff on a present day rhumba singer. Both the maddening rhythm of the instruments and the immoderate shouts of the vocalist were recognizable.

Mozart in swing style—a delicate little melody tricked out in blue notes, metrical vulgarities, and sudden fortes—gave still further proof of Alec's amazing ear and keen sense of style. So did "The Lost Chord," done in mile-a-minute Gilbert and Sullivan style.

Welds Diverse Melodies.

Templeton prefaced all this with one of his famous improvisations in which he welded together "Little Old Lady," the Bolero, the Rachmaninoff prelude in C sharp minor, and Beethoven's "Moonlight" sonata.

Earlier in the evening came a performance with the Walter H. Steindel orchestra of the Rachmaninoff C minor piano concerto. In his playing of this taxing work, with its magnificently querulous melodies and its majestic emotional curve, he demonstrated the progress he is making as a serious musician. Besides accuracy and technical adroitness, his playing has a new flexibility. Consequently, it has a greater personal and expressive quality. In the slow movement there was an approach to a melting legato and a luminous melody line.

Mr. Steindel was alert on the conductor's stand for exquisite turns of phrase and for royally beautiful dynamic effects.

U. S. Engineers Indicate They Favor City's Subway Plans

BY WILLIAM BROMAGE.

Members of the federal engineering board studying Chicago's subway plans indicated for the first time yesterday that they look with favor on the city's proposal to build three downtown transit tunnels.

The board held a hearing in the Civic Opera building at which downtown business men and property owners strongly supported the plans and urged approval by the federal engineers. The board was appointed by the Public Works administration last month to investigate the plans. Its findings will determine whether the city gets a PWA grant of 45 per cent of the cost.

Sees Merit in Plan.

Col. Henry M. Waite of Cincinnati, chairman of the four man committee, said he believed that a State street subway would greatly relieve trafic in the loop and save time for car riders. The present plan, he said, can be considered part of a comprehensive subway program to be carried out as the city has the money.

"This is a start," Col. Waite said. "Because of changes bound to occur, it would be a mistake to go too far. There will be changes in architectural methods and nc one can tell what the unified operation of traction lines here will do."

The other board members by their questions and comment indicated that the committee considers the present plans a real move to improve transit facilities and that it will fit in with future developments. The other members are Joshua D'Esposito, Chicago, and Henry M. Brinckerhoff and Robert Ridgway of New York.

Advantages of Tubes Cited.

D'Esposito during a discussion of the two proposed street car tunnels in Washington and Jackson streets in the central business district, pointed out that these tubes would eliminate all east-west street car lines in the loop. The business representatives agreed this was a highly desirable improvement.

Brinckerhoff said subway construction goes hand in hand with general trafic betterment and that the subway plans fit in with improved motor highways. All of the board members agreed that improvement of west side trafic and transit arteries was a necessity and that the subways would contribute to that objective.

The business representatives were vigorous in urging the subway improvement. They supported the plans as a beginning of a comprehensive rapid transit program which would help business and property values throughout the central district.

Subway Called Vital.

Although some favored a larger subway in State street than the proposed two track tunnel, they declared that they considered subway construction vital to the downtown area. They urged an immediate start on the work.

The business delegation represented the Greater Central District association and other downtown organizations. It included Philip F. W. Peck, president of the association; Rainor F. Starr of Marshall Field & Co.; O. Goodson, representing the Marshall Field estate; William F. Krahl, president of the Stevens Hotel corporation; James Haynes, executive vice president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, who said he was speaking also for John T. Pirie Sr.; Robert H. McCormick, a director of the Greater Central District association; Harold G. Sperling, president of the Wabash Avenue association, and Wallace J. Stebbins, vice president of the Van Buren Street Property Owners' association.

200 MEET TODAY ON CONSTITUTION DAY PLANNING

More than two hundred members of the Constitution day committee will meet at noon today in the Palmer house to make plans for Chicago's observance of the occasion on Sept. 17. A patriotic program will be held in the Chicago Civic Opera house that night.

The Constitution day celebrations were originated here in 1934 by Julius H. Miner, executive director of the committee. President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern university is chairman of the committee, which has a membership of more than 970 outstanding citizens of Illinois.

This year the committee is engaged in an added task—the creation of a Young American Patriots movement throughout the country.

INSTALL NEW TYPE BEACON LIGHT AT CHICAGO AIRPORT

A new and greatly improved revolving beacon light for Chicago airport was put into service for the first time last night. The new light according to John Casey, manager of the field, has 50 per cent more power than the old and a distinctive eccentric motion which identifies it instantly as the Chicago field beacon.

The new light has a 36 inch lens as compared to the 24 inch lens of the old. It gives six green flashes and six white flashes each minute. It was necessary to have two of the older lights to obtain both the green and white flashes. The new beacon has a 1,500 watt bulb, whereas the older light had a 1,000 watt bulb.

The light, instead of turning on one plane, dips and rolls on an eccentric cam. This cam changes the direction of the flashes through a range of about 15 degrees. The light is the latest type approved for airports, and no other field in the middle west has such a beacon, said Casey.

TELLS HOW BOYS OF U. S. ARE PUT IN ITALY'S ARMY

Students Recruited in New York Schools.

New York, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—A New York Fascist organization recruits students of Italian descent for military training in Italy, Girolamo Valenti, chairman of an anti-Fascist committee, charged today. He said another seeks to undermine American principles with Fascist cultural propaganda.

Girolamo Valenti.

Valenti's accusations were made in a statement prior to testifying as the first witness called by a subcommittee of the house committee investigating un-American activities which convened in closed session today in the federal courthouse.

Witness Is Silenced.

Amplification of Valenti's charges was prevented by John C. Metcalfe, chief investigator for the house committee, of which Representative Martin Dies [D., Tex.] is chairman. Metcalfe halted his statement with the warning to remember "that you are a witness and under subpena."

Valenti, one time editor of the defunct La Stampa Libera, anti-Fascist daily, said he could show that there is in the United States an organized movement of Mussolini agents to undermine our democracy and enroll Italians living in America. He said he had a photograph of Gaetano Vecchiotti, Italian consul in New York, picturing the consul when participating in a Fascist celebration in Morristown, N. J.

Valenti said the Fascist organization that sends children to Italy was the Lictor federation.

School Children Enrolled.

"They take children from the parochial schools and send them to Italy for two or three months. There they have military drill with the Ballila, a Fascist Youth organization, and they come back in Fascist uniforms saluting Fascisti style."

The cultural propaganda of Italy was directed, Valenti said, by Prof. Mario Giani, whose offices were in the Pallazo d'Italia, Rockefeller center.

Valenti charged that officials in the political life of the nation—assemblymen, congressmen and judges—had contributed and aided Mussolini's African conquest and that he was prepared to give the subcommittee their names.

Three members of the Dies committee arrived here to investigate in closed hearings certain matters which were described as sizzling hot and too dangerous to talk about at this time.

Japan Bestows Its Highest Decoration Upon Mussolini

FUND SHORTAGE BARS QUIZ INTO RECRUITING FOR SPANISH ARMIES

Oglesby, Ill., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—The Dies congressional committee investigating un-American activities should inquire into the enlistment of Americans in the Spanish civil war and would do so if it had sufficient funds. Congressman Noah M. Mason [R.,] made this statement here today when he returned home after attending sessions for two weeks in Washington.

"Our committee acknowledges that an investigation of the methods by which Americans are recruited both for Franco and for the loyalists in Spain is a task that rightfully belongs to it," Mason said. "The members would insist upon it if we had the money.

"When our committee was authorized by congress, we asked for a $100,000 appropriation. We got only $25,000 and were told that investigators and general counsel—two of the heavy expense items—would be made available by the department of justice and other government departments. No assistance ever has been given."

FREIGHT TRAIN KILLS FARMER.

Hudson, Mich., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—The body of Herman Vinaske, 43 years old, a farmer, was found last Thursday on the New York Central tracks about 100 feet from a street crossing. Justice Bert Winn, acting as coroner, decided Vinaske today had been struck by a freight train.

CHARGE MURDER TO 2 GUARDS IN STEAM KILLINGS

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Two prison guards were arrested on homicide charges today in connection with the deaths of four hunger striking convicts at the Philadelphia county prison Sunday night. The men were seized on orders from Mayor S. Davis Wilson and held without bail.

Coroner Charles H. Hersch expressed surprise at the action. He had been conducting his own investigation and had said earlier five guards might be arrested before the end of the day. The two arrested are Alfred W. Brough and Francis Smith.

Meantime, two investigators attributed the prisoners' deaths to suffocation and scalding. They said the four died in punishment cells that were heated to the suffocation point by steam radiators.

Warden William B. Mills, who had first clamped a news censorship on the prison and later suggested the men killed each other fighting, admitted that steam had been turned on in the prisoners' cell house.

French Air Boat Reaches the Azores on Hop to U. S.

Two Young Burglars Seized While Seeking Medical Aid

Two burglars, a young man and a boy, were captured yesterday when they sought treatment for gunshot wounds at the West North Avenue hospital. They are Raymond Riedy, 20 years old, 2011 Potomac avenue, and Leo Roclawski, 14, of 2024 Division street. They had been fired upon by Policemen John Connell and Harry Kraus early in the day as they fled from a shoe store at 2612 Division street. Both are in the Bridewell hospital.

VICTIM REVEALS $11,000 LOSS TO EXTORTION GANG

Four men were sought by police yesterday on charges of extorting $11,000 from Norman C. Bradish, partner in the firm of Durand, Bradish & Fusch, industrial consultants at 120 South La Salle street. At the bureau of identification Bradish recognized pictures of three of the men. They are Theodore Sels, Frank Kogut, and Charles Meyer, who have records for similar extortions. Bradish said he met Sels at the Oak street beach on Aug. 9 and they later encountered Kogut and the unidentified man who posed as police officers and threatened him with arrest. He turned over the $11,000 to Kogut, Meyers, and the unidentified man on Aug. 10 and 12, he said.

Assistant Prosecutor's Missing Wallet Returns

Assistant State's Attorney Roy A. McCarthy will get his billfold back today. A pickpocket stole it while he was at the American Legion convention in Rockford. Yesterday it was found in a mail box at Belvidere, where the thief had deposited it. Postmaster William McIntire of Belvidere forwarded it last night to McCarthy, whose home is in Lemont.

HORNER IGNORES ROOSEVELT VIEW ON PARTY SWITCH

Jarecki, Who Won by Plan, Also Is Silent.

BY PARKE BROWN.

President Roosevelt's denunciation of political party switching fell on deaf ears yesterday among Illinois Democrats. Last spring they appealed to Republicans to aid them in their primary battle.

"No comment," said Gov. Horner's secretary to a request for an interview on the text of the President's dissertation on party regularity. The President denounced party switching at a press conference in Hyde Park, N. Y., Tuesday.

Jarecki Won't Comment.

County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, whose renomination is generally believed to have been due to Republican votes in the Democratic primary, had little more to say.

"I don't want to comment at all," he said.

He declined to give reasons for his attitude.

County Chairman P. A. Nash and Mayor Kelly, who last April hoped the Republicans would stay at home, are both out of the city. District Attorney Michael L. Igoe, whose candidacy for the United States senate suffered from the G. O. P. stampede, was not in his office in the afternoon.

President Roosevelt argued that the invasion of one party's primary by voters of another party constitutes a violation of public and political morality. He contended this to be true even when there are no hard and fast legal barriers.

In Illinois, particularly in Cook county, the argument over the right of Republicans to enter the Democratic primary was restricted to the field of the law. No attention was given to the morality of such tactics.

Horner Favored Plan Once.

Toward the close of the campaign before the April 12 primaries, the Horner-Courtney forces centered their fight for victory on appeals for Republican assistance for Judge Jarecki. As is customary, the finish of the campaign was staged in Chicago. But Gov. Horner extended the movement for Republican help throughout the state in an unprecedented way.

Over his own signature, he sent letters to the 102 county clerks in the state notifying them that the law did not prohibit the voter from changing parties this year. That was the whole controversy in Illinois.

Judge Jarecki was considered responsible for a ruling by the Chicago board of election commissioners that the voter was free to take any ballot he chose.

Sues Over Issue.

One of the leaders in the unsuccessful Republican effort to keep party members from deserting G. O. P. ranks, was John F. Tyrrell, who was state chairman at that time. He now is one of the attorneys in a contest of the primary results brought by State Representative John G. Ryan [D., 13th]. The most sweeping issue involved in the case is whether the widespread switching of parties was legal. Defense counsel, by stipulation, conceded that in this one district 1`,000 Republicans were allowed to take Democratic ballots.

On that basis, Tyrrell estimates that in Cook county alone 150,000 Republicans went Democratic on April 12.

"There is no doubt," said Tyrrell last night, "that Republicans determined the most important of the Democratic nominations. We have been satisfied from the beginning that we were right about the law. Now we naturally are pleased to read that the President and the leaders of the Democratic party hold that the Democratic leaders who urged and made possible that wholesale invasion of their own party outraged public and political morality as well as the law."

What Axmen Do on Gambling Raid

The same room after the wreckers had completed their job. Axes in the hands of the policemen made the difference.

for the syndicate. And the prospects of raids have resulted in rent boosts, reports to the state's attorney say.

The gambling house managers have method of evading loss of business through the raids. They have secondary locations. The day after a raid a man is stationed at the door of the raided joint to direct patrons to the secondary spot. The shifting, of course, involves expense. Also, the "spare tire" places as the gamblers refer to them are usually in poorer locations and therefore attract fewer customers. It is the state's attorney's plan to ax these secondary spots as well, keeping the gamblers on the run.

Courtney's campaign so far has been aimed against the books directly operated by the syndicate of which Frank Nitti, Jack Guzik, and Hymie [Loud Mouth] Levin, old Capone lieutenants, are leaders. Capt. Daniel Gilbert of the state's attorney's staf said that the 23d ward place wrecked yesterday was operated by the Skidmore-Johnson combination.

A Move for Better Business.

The prosecutor, it is said, believes that crime will be lessened and business in Chicago will be bettered if the hoodlums' source of gambling revenue is shut off. He has received many letters from business men congratulating him on his efforts and pointing out that the money supporting the gambling gentry is kept out of the ordinary channels of commerce. These have strengthened his determination to proceed with still greater energy. Yesterday he declared, "I know the campaign is effective and it is going to be more so."

In the Pulaski road raid the police seized James Finnegan, who claimed to be the owner. The Devon avenue smash brought the arrest of John Campus and Dan Smith, ostensible proprietors. Capt. Gilbert said the Capone outfit was the real owner.

Forty-nine men arrested in gambling raids by the city police on Tuesday were dismissed yesterday by Judge Eugene J. Holland of the Racket court.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt must have had his tongue in his cheek yesterday when he talked about political morality, according to John Hamilton, chairman of the Republican national committee. Hamilton recalled the President's purge attempts.

Hamilton said today President Roosevelt's remarks at Hyde Park denouncing Republicans for voting in Democratic primaries constituted an indictment of the election laws of state. "If Republicans vote in Democratic primaries, they do so in accordance with state laws," Hamilton said.

"Does Mr. Roosevelt now propose to sponsor some kind of a federal law to compel the states to revise their election laws to suit his views? Can it be that Mr. Roosevelt is not satisfied with merely telling the people of states how they must vote, but that he also must prescribe the rules under which they cast their ballots?"

WAR VETERANS WANT HARRY BRIDGES TRIED AS STRIKE AGITATOR

Columbus, O., Aug. 24.—(AP)—The 39th annual encampment of Veterans of Foreign Wars today urged prompt disposition of the case of Harry Bridges, Pacific coast C. I. O. leader accused of fomenting strikes and conspiracy to cripple the United States merchant marine, and advocated deportation of the labor figure if he is convicted.

Delegates adopted a resolution asking the department of labor to proceed with the prosecution of charges against Bridges, whose trial appears to have been postponed indefinitly.

The encampment rejected resolutions calling for withdrawal of diplomatic relations with Russia and a boycott against Japanese goods and resolved to continue opposition to subversive forces, including Fascism, Naziism and communism, in this country.

EXPECT 50,000 AT G.O.P. RALLY DOWN ON FARM

Crowd to Be Drawn from Eleven States.

Washington, Ind., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Final preparations were being made today for the arrival of about 50,000 persons expected to attend a unique Republican cornfield rally to be held on a farm near here Friday and Saturday.

Homer E. Capehart.

G. O. P. leaders and candidates from eleven states will be among the huge throng invited by Homer E. Capehart to attend the convention on his farm five miles northwest of Washington.

Capehart is a native Hoosier but now resides in Buffalo, N. Y., where he is vice president of the Wurlitzer company, musical instrument manufacturers. He decided to stake the Republican party to a rally expected to cost upward of $25,000 to carry out his belief that business men opposed to the Roosevelt administration should do more than sit around and cuss it.

Chicken Dinners to Be Served.

The industrialist will entertain as his personal guests 8,500 Indiana precinct committeemen and women. Chicken dinners will be served to them Saturday noon in 38 tents that have a canvas spread of 100,000 square feet.

Other guests will eat in restaurants in Washington and nearby towns, in the multitude of refreshment stands opening in a mushroom wave, and from basket lunches many are expected to bring. All hotel rooms in Washington have been reserved.

Willis to Be Speaker.

The cornfield convention will open the nation-wide Republican congressional campaign. Prominent among the numerous speakers, especially to Indianians, will be Raymond E. Willis of Angola, Ind., the state's Republican nominee for United States senator. He will speak at the farm Friday night.

Willis will share the spotlight with Dr. Glenn Frank, former president of the University of Wisconsin and chairman of the National Republican Program committee.

Representative James W. Wadsworth of New York will deliver the principal address Saturday afternoon. His speech will be broadcast over a national radio hookup.

Other Speakers Listed.

Others on the speaking program include John D. M. Hamilton, national Republican chairman; Senator John G. Townsend Jr. of Delaware; Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas; Senator William E. Jenner of Shoals, Ind., Republican floor leader in the state senate; Archie N. Bobbitt, Indiana G. O. P. chairman, and Miss Marion Martin, assistant chairman of the national G. O. P. committee in charge of women's activities.

Preceding the rally, Republican leaders and candidates from eleven states will gather in Indianapolis on Friday for series of conferences with Chairman Hamilton.

PRESIDENT CALLS FARLEY AFTER HE BALKS AT PURGE

Summoned to Hyde Park for Conference.

gated called for the sale of the old war-time vessels on the basis of $1.51 per gross ton for all ferrous and nonferrous scrap obtained, while the domestic price for scrap at that time was $13.75 a ton. Roper also said the scrap was destined for "another country," thus seconding Lewis' charge that it went to Japan.

Senator Tydings said it was true that he opposed abrogation of the contract, because he wanted Maryland workers and a Maryland industrial concern to have the job, but he characterized as "a deliberate lie" Lewis' charge that Morris Shapiro, president of the company, had contributed anything to his campaign.

Farley Refuses to Help.

Roper's entry into the bitter Maryland primary fight illuminates the difficulties being encountered by the purge committee. Mr. Farley, who returned to Washington yesterday from a trip to Alaska, has not turned a hand to help Representative Lewis. Moreover, he let it be known that he would have nothing to do with the purge efforts in any other primary campaigns.

The purge committee counted heavily upon the services of Sumner Welles, wealthy undersecretary of state and a resident of Maryland, but Mr. Welles went off on a vacation that will keep him away until after the Maryland primary on Sept. 12. He even refused, it is said, to make a contribution to Mr. Lewis' campaign.

So far Mayor Howard Jackson of Baltimore and Attorney General Herbert O'Connor, candidates for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in Maryland, have remained neutral in the senatorial fight, despite persistent efforts of the purge committee to form an alliance between Lewis and Mayor Jackson's powerful Baltimore machine.

Amateurs for His Aids.

Other than the support of President Roosevelt, who has denounced Senator Tydings as a "betrayer" and a Republican at heart, Lewis so far has had to rely upon the help of the amateurs of the purge committee.

It is understood in reliable quarters that Mr. Roosevelt will make a Labor day speech in behalf of Lewis' candidacy on the eastern shore of Maryland, where there is great antipathy among the farmers against John L. Lewis' C. I. O. and where Candidate Lewis, consequently, is especially weak. The C. I. O. is crusading for Lewis.

Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland, apparently set the stage for the Roosevelt appearance today when he sent the President a telegraphic invitation from Chicago.

SOUTH BEND GIRL SUES TEACHER FOR $60,000 ON SEDUCTION CHARGE

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Miss Sayka Berich, 16 years old, filed suit today for $60,000 damages from George F. Basker, assistant football coach and science teacher at Washington High school. She charged that he seduced her two years ago and then forced her to marry a man she had never met.

The bill was filed in St. Joseph county Circuit court. Attorneys for Basker termed the charges a frameup. Basker, former prep school football star here, also played on Purdue university teams. He is married.

While a pupil in Washington High school, Miss Berich's suit alleged, Basker seduced her on an automobile ride after calling her his "Venus" and forced her to continue their relations later on threat of death. Later she charged he compelled her to marry Joseph Madden of Gary, whom she divorced in February. She said she had never seen Madden before or after the ceremony.

U. S. PROBES JAP ATTACK ON CHINA AIR LINES PLANE

American Pilot Survives; 14 Dead or Missing.

HONGKONG, Aug. 25.—[Thursday.]—(AP)—The China National Aviation corporation, 45 per cent of whose stock is owned by Pan-American Airways, today asked the United States for protection of its airliners. The Chinese government holds the remainder of the stock.

Pilot Hugh L. Woods. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

The request was the result of the Japanese machine gunning and destruction of one of the company's American made Douglas planes near Canton yesterday. Fourteen Chinese were dead or missing.

Civilian Plane, Clearly Marked.

American diplomatic representatives in China already had been asked for information of the attack by Secretary of State Hull. W. L. Bond, the American manager of the China National Aviation corporation, made his request for protection to Nelson T. Johnson, the United States ambassador.

Bond pointed out that the line steadfastly has refused to accept munitions or other military freight and has insisted upon maintaining a strictly civilian character since the Chinese-Japanese hostilities broke out. The plane was on a regularly scheduled flight and was plainly marked, he said.

Arrow locates point of take-off and cross the point where Chinese airliner was downed.

The American pilot, Hugh L. Woods of Winfield, Kas., and the Chinese radio operator, Joe Loh, survived the attack, as did three Chinese who were wounded.

The dead and missing included the co-pilot and steward, two women, a baby, a small child, and two prominent Chinese bankers.

Attacked by Pursuit Planes.

The plane took off at 8:05 a. m. from Hongkong en route west to Chungking, the present seat of the Chinese civilian government. The line of flight was between Canton and Macao, the Portuguese colony west of Hongkong and seventy miles south of Canton.

Thirty minutes later two Japanese pursuit planes caught up with the airliner and opened fire on it. A little later five pursuit planes attacked, diving and zooming close to the liner so that it was forced down in one of the many small channels between Canton and Macao on the South China coast.

Pilot Woods reported that the Japanese riddled the plane as it sank. Radio Operator Loh said machine gun fire was turned on him as he was swimming ashore. Two wounded Chinese passengers reached the nearby town of Shekki, where they were treated.

Woods, Loh, and another Chinese passenger, C. N. Lou, reached Macao by boat and automobile.

Woods and Loh were taken aboard the United States gunboat Mindanao at Macao and went to the scene of the attack to search for possible survivors. The British gunboat Cicala and Chinese troops from Canton also went to the scene.

Candy Queen

MARY JEANNE DRAKE.

Miss Mary Jeanne Drake, 18 years old, a Chicago bookkeeper, was selected last night as the sweetest girl in America at the national convention of candy manufacturers.

Miss Drake, a petite blonde, competed with thirty-five other beauties at the Hotel Sherman. A committee of artists made the selection. She lives at 5328 School street. Today the representatives attending Chicago's first candy show will help select the national champion taffy pullers.

Candy manufacturers reported yesterday that the average person last year consumed sixteen pounds of candy. This year they hope to raise the rate to twenty pounds per person.

JAPS HEAR CHINA LEASES ISLE TO FRANCE FOR LOAN

PARIS, Aug. 24.—(AP)—The Japanese embassy said today the Tokio foreign office was investigating reports that France had made a loan to China in exchange for a lease on the strategic island of Hainan, near French Indo-China.

Arrows locate island China is reported to have leased to France in return for loan to build railroad [heavy line].

Embassy officials also said work had been under way for several months on a narrow gauge railway between Nanning, Kwangsi province, and the Indo-China frontier at Na Cham with Chinese labor and French equipment, engineers, and money.

French foreign office spokesmen denied the reports.

[In Tokio a foreign office spokesman said if the Hainan report were true it would be necessary for Japan to "take steps." He did not say what the "steps" would be. He also said Japan would object if France made a loan of $4,000,000 to former Finance Minister T. V. Soong's bank for railroad construction in China. The newspaper Asahi said French financial interests already had made such a loan.]

For Munitions Trafic.

Japanese sources in Paris said arms and munitions for China were being landed at the Indo-China port of Haiphong and carried by canal to "Indo-Chinese route No. 1," France's best far eastern highway which runs from Hanoi to the Chinese border.

Near Hanoi, the Japanese said, the arms were transferred from canal barges to trucks and taken to Na Cham where they again were transferred to the old Chinese standard gauge railroad running part of the way to Nanning.

The work now under way, the Japanese asserted, was construction of a meter gauge line from Nanning to Na Cham, replacing the standard gauge, so the French could ship direct from Haiphong by meter gauge railway to Nanning.

Move Closer to Hankow.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 25.—[Thursday.]—(AP)—Japanese forces had fought their way into position today for a two way drive against Hankow, Chinese provisional capital.

A heavily reinforced Japanese army reported it had smashed through the east gate of the town of Juichang in its advance up the south bank of the Yangtze river on Hankow, 100 air miles to the northwest.

From central Anhwei province came Chinese reports that Japanese columns striking westward from Hofei, reached Kwanting and Taokicheh, footholds for an assault on the Peking-Hankow railway, probably at about 100 miles north of Hankow.

28 Dead, 130 Hurt as Result of Japan's Worst Air Crash

TOKIO, Aug. 25 [Thursday].—(AP)—The death total in Japan's worst aviation disaster grew to twenty-eight today with 130 persons still in hospitals, twenty of them in a critical condition. Four flyers were killed yesterday when a transport plane and a training plane collided and plunged into an iron foundry. Flaming gasoline set the plant afire and by today twenty-four workmen had died of burns.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

EASY DOES IT

By CALEB

AN INVENTORS' convention in Cincinnati recently produced a long list of devices with amazing contours and startling variety. Although they were widely different in design, they showed a simple uniformity of purpose—nearly all were intended to make life easier and more convenient.

This purpose is familiar to all of us, a laudable one—but apt to be dangerous as well. Anthropologists, going back beyond the reach of history, have reconstructed the story of peoples on many continents who were inveigled by a life of ease and irresponsibility into a softness that made them easy prey to barbaric but vigorous invaders from localities where one had to scratch steadily and hard for a living.

Historians take up the same theme: Europe, North America, South America—the story recurs with unvarying pattern. A new and hardy tribe forces its way into a land of ease and plenty—where the climate is delightful and food and pasture to be had for the taking. A few generations—and these invaders become the natives. The years pass, and they soften, ultimately to be wiped out by another wave of tough fighters from some less favored locale.

Almost invariably the native peoples involved are unaware of the change. But with the steady tread of fate the old, old pattern is woven again. Lulled by a life of ease, the favored folk begin to lose the picture of what it means to wrest a living from nature. They are no longer in touch with reality and become dependent upon each other until ultimately each looks to the other for a solution of his problems. There comes a time when each sees only his own empty reflection—and no answer. The barbarians follow—and the slate is wiped clean once more.

The problem of halting that inexorable sequence involves far more than the development of conveniences to make life easier. It goes deeper than the determination to join a gym class and get back in condition. The solution lies deep in the spirit and essence of a nation's life. The habit of resourcefulness, self-reliance and determination is closest to the core of it, and becomes the greatest defense against the encroachments of ease and flabbiness. That habit has characterized this nation since its inception and so long as it continues will safeguard its future.

HUNGARY IS SAFE FROM INVASION, HITLER PLEDGES

vertised as the biggest in the history of Nazi Germany. For the first time Germany will display publicly her heavy artillery. Heretofore only guns up to six inch caliber were shown in parades. Three hundred and eight guns, motorized and horsedrawn, will participate.

Six hundred and ninety-eight motorized army vehicles, including motorcycles carrying riflemen and machine gunners, will be exhibited. There also will be 412 tanks, with cannons mounted on the heavy tanks.

One hundred and forty planes will fly overhead. They will include the new heavy pursuit plane BM-110, each equipped with two cannons and four machine guns.

Nazis Attack Morgenthau.

An attack on Henry Morgenthau Jr., United States secretary of the treasury, was launched in today's issue of the Nazi newspaper, Der Angriff.

It spoke of "a series of highly suspicious talks Morgenthau had in the past week-end with Leslie Hore-Belisha, British secretary for war, and a number of international conspirators, as for instance the French colonial minister Mandel, Rothschild, Paul Reynaud, and Walter Lippmann."

"The two powers, America and soviet Russia, which are ruled by Jews, are to be driven into war," the paper said. "With the help of Jewish influence it is hoped then to drag England and France into it."

Morgenthau sailed for New York from Le Havre, France, today.

LOYALISTS' MAIN LINE HOLDS FIRM IN EBRO FIGHTING

HENDAYE, France [At the Spanish frontier], Aug. 24.—(AP)—Reports from the month old Ebro river battlefront in southern Catalonia indicated tonight that Spanish government forces still controlled the west bank.

Concerted attacks by planes, tanks, artillery and troops had given the rebels slight gains since the government's surprise thrust of July 25, government advices acknowledged, but only at a heavy cost and without budging the main government line. The government still was entrenched east of Gandesa, these reports said. The government admitted that Villalba de los Arcos, about five miles northwest of Gandesa, was in rebel hands, but insisted that hills east of Villalba and the Gandesa-Mora de Ebro road were firmly controlled by the government.

On the Tagus river front, a newly active battle area about 90 miles southwest of Madrid, rebels reported their offensive was nearing the Guadiana river after capture of Puerto de San Vicente. The rebels reported conquering 309 square miles of territory in the past three days on the Tagus front.

NORTH SHORE LINE STRIKE SOLUTION BELIEVED NEAR

Negotiators yesterday considered concrete proposals for the settlement of the North Shore railroad strike, which has kept the road out of operation since Aug. 15. Although the company and the striking unions failed to agree, it was said they were nearer a solution than at any previous time. Federal labor conciliators were hopeful further conferences today would be successful.

It was indicated that the proposals centered in a plan for a ninety-day truce, during which the workers would take up to 15 per cent of their present wage scale in receiver's certificates. The strike was called when a 15 per cent wage cut was put into effect by a court order obtained by Col. A. A. Sprague, receiver.

The lack of a recognized bargaining agent for the strikers has been a hindrance to a quick settlement.

He Wins Divorce

COUNTESS OF WARWICK.

EARL OF WARWICK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 24.—The earl of Warwick today won an absolute divorce from the former Rose Bingham.

A conditional decree against the countess of Warwick, a famous beauty, was granted in February on grounds of adultery with Roger Bailey of Los Angeles, Cal., in 1936. She did not defend the suit.

For two years the earl has been trying to win a movie career in Hollywood. His film name is Michael Brooke.

Warwick said his marriage was happy for about a year until his son, David, was born in May, 1934. Then, he said, his wife lost interest in him. The earl won custody of the child.

The earl is 27 years old. Lady Warwick, who is 25, is the granddaughter of the 5th earl of Rosslyn. She acted in several pictures before she was married.

Among other absolute decrees granted today was one to Amy Johnson Mollison, aviator, against her flying husband, Jim Mollison. While the court was giving that decree, another fined her $25 for speeding.

TWO U. S. DOCTORS HELD IN VIENNA ON MONEY CHARGES

VIENNA, Austria, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Two American doctors have been under arrest in Vienna for about a week, it was disclosed today, while the public prosecutor investigated charges that they violated Germany's foreign exchange laws.

Their names were given as Dr. Oscar Lavine of Mount Ranier, Md., and Dr. George Albert of New York City.

The exact nature of the charges was not revealed. The United States consul in Vienna has been in touch with attorneys for the two. The United States embassy has taken no action.

LINDBERGH VIEWS RED CANAL.

MOSCOW, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today went sightseeing on the Moscow-Volga canal, the 79 mile waterway completed in 1937 forming a link in the waterways system which joins Moscow and the Caspian sea.

DEMOCRATS FIGHT NAZI DEMAND FOR CZECH AUTONOMY

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Germans belonging to democratic parties in Czechoslovakia today protested the Sudeten German [Nazi] party's demands for autonomy within the republic.

A delegation from the German Social Democratic party told Viscount Runciman, unofficial British mediator, that autonomy for the Sudeten Germans would force Nazi principles on many inadequately organized and inarticulate Germans who wished to preserve democratic government.

At the same time the German democratic cultural committee, an organization in Bruenn, in a memorandum asked President Eduard Benes and Premier Milan Hodza to resist the Sudeten drive for totalitarianism.

KILLED IN AUTO CRASH.

Evansville, Ind., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Roy Tuell of Poseyville was riding today on the running board of a car driven by Truman Butler when there was a collision between Butler's car and one driven by State Patrolman Russell Cox. Tuell was killed.

BRITISH AID WOUNDED AS 2 GUNMEN INVADE OFFICE IN HOLY LAND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

JERUSALEM, Palestine, Aug. 24.—Two gunmen reported to be Arabs invaded the British district administrative headquarters at Jenin today and critically wounded J. S. Moffatt, assistant district commissioner.

The gunmen fired five shots at Moffatt. He was given several blood transfusions in Haifa, and it was expected he would recover.

A short time before this attack eight gunmen raided a police station in Lydda, overpowered several policemen, and stole a number of rifles and a quantity of ammunition.

Official reports said 14 Arabs were killed in a brush with British troops last night near Kenna, which is identified by tradition with the biblical place of Cana, where Christ turned water into wine.

JEWISH OFFICIALS IN ITALY ADVISED TO RESIGN POSTS

CREMONA, Italy, Aug. 24.—(AP)—The newspaper Il Regime Fascista today gave Jews holding public office in Italy "friendly advice" to resign their posts. The paper is published by Roberto Farinacci, member of the Fascist grand council and former secretary of the Fascist party.

Commenting on the recent resignation of Mario Jona, Jewish vice president of the provincial council of corporations of Ancona, the newspaper said: "He, being a good Fascist, has understood the exigencies of the [Fascist] régime, on which international Jewry and the conquest of the empire has imposed a racial problem."

The paper added that Jona "was in good time and many ought to follow his example." It said that administration of the state was going to be "100 per cent Fascist," meaning there was no place in it for Jews.

The Beer That Made Milwaukee Famous

SCHLITZ

It had to be good!

The thousands of people who come to Milwaukee every year know that they haven't really seen the city until they've visited the great Schlitz Brewery, home of The Beer That Made Milwaukee Famous. In the massive Schlitz Guest Register are names of visitors from all over the earth, drawn to this particular spot by their affection for Schlitz. No city is prouder of its chief product than Milwaukee is of Schlitz, the beer that made it famous. You, too, are cordially invited to visit Schlitz, whenever you are in Milwaukee.

This is a bottle of SCHLITZ. It is a man's drink, that women enjoy. It has a character and personality exactly suited to your taste. For almost a century, it has been America's most imitated beer—yet today as always, millions look only to Schlitz for that famous flavor. If you like the best things in life, you have a natural taste for Schlitz.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait. Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or chew poorly—your stomach pours out too much fluid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over.

Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-ans for Indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in 5 minutes and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans for Indigestion.

BRITISH PREMIER IN A JAM; TORIES WANT A NEW ONE

Insist Duce Has Made a Fool of Chamberlain.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 24.—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain is in a jam as a result of Gen. Francisco Franco's rejection of the British scheme for removing foreign fighters from Spain. There were reports today that Conservative party bosses of the Carlton club had met to consider the question of succession to the premiership.

There was much grumbling about Chamberlain's dallying with Premier Mussolini over the withdrawal of Italian volunteers from the Spanish war. Conservatives declared Il Duce had made a fool of Chamberlain and further damaged British prestige.

The Conservative leaders, the reports said, discussed three subjects. They were: What to do in case Chamberlain's health failed; what to do if his foreign policy got him into a deadlock, and the position of the Conservative party in event of war.

Simon's Name Mentioned.

Sir John Simon's name was mentioned as a possible compromise successor to Chamberlain. Simon now is chancellor of the exchequer.

There was renewed talk of the necessity of reorganizing the cabinet soon. One plan was said to be to strengthen it by taking in some of the right wing labor leaders to stem the rising criticism from the left wing over a gloomy economic situation in Britain.

The Laborites said they were afraid Chamberlain would try to cover up the diplomatic defeat inflicted through Franco's torpedoing of the plan to remove volunteers in Spain by doing some straddling.

The international nonintervention committee approved the British withdrawal scheme. Franco, the rebel commander, in his reply to the proposal, demanded immediate belligerent rights without reservation before the withdrawal of any foreign troops from his side.

The Laborites feel that Chamberlain may seek a compromise between the scheme and Franco's demand. They are opposed to making further concessions to Spain rebels.

FORMER UNION OFFICER GIVES HIMSELF UP IN DUNGAN SLAYING QUIZ

Gustav Fischer.

Gustav Fischer, former financial secretary of local 191 of the painters' union, voluntarily surrendered to police yesterday for questioning concerning the recent murder of James G. Dungan, business agent of that union. Fischer said he was ousted from his union job last month, two weeks before the murder, and had gone to Indiana to live.

He said he had no information regarding the identity of the men who shot Dungan to death in front of 3116 Lowe avenue, where Dungan lived. His job was taken over by Dungan, he said, but there was no basis for a rumor there was a shortage in the union treasury.

In the three years he was financial secretary, he said, he had collected about $75,000 in dues which he turned over to Dungan. The union money was spent through checks jointly signed by Dungan and George Henneman, then secretary-treasurer and now Dungan's successor as business agent. Fischer was released after he made a statement to Assistant State's Attorney Morris G. Meyers.

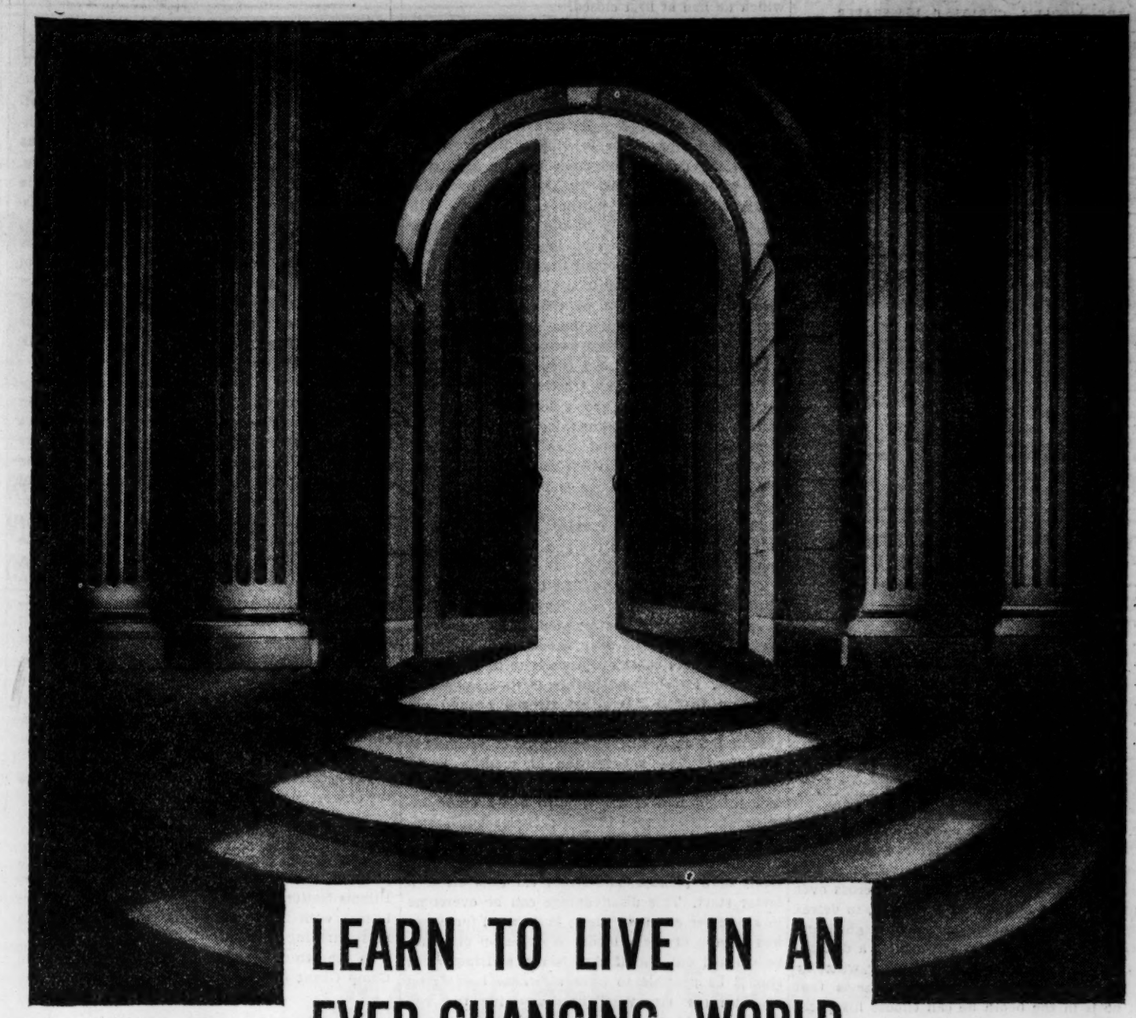
EDUCATIONAL. EDUCATIONAL EDUCATIONAL EDUCATIONAL



LEARN TO LIVE IN AN EVER-CHANGING WORLD

One of the greatest problems in modern life is the adaptation of people to the rapidly changing conditions under which they must live.

To understand and properly evaluate changes in our economic and social life, one should be acquainted with the historical development of the human race, with philosophy, science and the arts. Such a background makes it possible to understand change and to adjust one's life to it.

Plan your education to include this broad, general foundation for living. Every student should, if possible, enjoy the privilege of a Liberal Arts' education before beginning intensive study in a selected field.

THE CHIEF'S POLITICAL MORALITY.

Mr. Roosevelt's comment upon the defeat of his I-Yield-To-None-New Deal Senator Pope in the Democratic primaries in Idaho was that it was politically immoral for Republicans to cross over the party line, as they did in that state, to defeat so great and good a man, 100 per cent good and great. The Idaho law does not require a declaration of party affiliation from the voter when he gets his ballot. Consequently it assumes that when he is in the booth he can choose his party as he cares to at that time.

The Illinois law is different. It recognizes that political parties are legal organizations, that certain public duties are entrusted to them, that as legal organizations they make nominations and conduct the party management, and that therefore there should be definition of party membership. This is done by providing that a voter may not change his party affiliation within a two year limitation. He is not deprived of the right to leave one party and join another and should not be, but he may not switch from one party to another just to serve some political trickery and jobbing and thus interfere in the orderly management of a party's affairs and in the nomination of candidates.

The Illinois New Dealers, New Dealers all of them, had a furious partisan fight in their April primaries. One faction included County Judge Jarecki, himself a candidate for renomination and opposed by the Kelly-Nash organization. Judge Jarecki, as county judge and head of the official election machinery in the Chicago election commissioner's district, ruled that a year for the purpose of party affiliation was not a calendar year but a political year and that consequently the thousands of Republicans who wanted to vote Democratic had a right to ask for Democratic ballots and should not be challenged, although the books showed they were changing their party membership in less time than the law allowed.

In Idaho there was no violation of law. In Illinois the law was given some very tricky construction, in favor of the faction that construed it. This was given the commendation of the New Dealers. It served their purpose. There was no violation of law in Idaho, but the conduct of the voters is characterized by the chief of the Democratic party as having been politically immoral because the results of the primary disappointed him and made him mad. In New York he is counting on the help of Mayor La Guardia, a Republican at least by name, to defeat Congressman John O'Connor in the Democratic primaries.

Still it is encouraging to hear the chief of the party speak of political immorality because it may mean that he will do something to protect the WPA workers who as men dependent upon the money he provides for their pay rolls are being coerced and compelled to take part of their pay and give it to the New Deal politicians to carry out the purge he has ordered. Political morality needs more friends just now in the United States than it ever has needed before and it finds fewer. It has not as yet found one in the chief of the Democratic party or in any of the men who are handling the relief funds or conducting the New Deal campaign.

While Mr. Roosevelt was expressing his indignation his one time friend Senator Berry of Tennessee was filing complaint with the campaign investigating committee that $125,000 had been taken away from WPA workers to defeat him. Mr. Roosevelt has lost interest in Mr. Berry, for whom in happier times he fired Dr. Arthur Morgan from the TVA. Mr. Berry has been found out and Mr. Roosevelt is being found out.

MILITARY DICTATORS HERE.

Gov. Kraschel has withdrawn the last of the National Guardsmen from Newton, Ia. His proclamation ending military rule and restoring civil law was read in the courthouse by Maj. William Gaines and the Iowa incident, if not completely closed, has at least rounded out another stage. Under present day administrative methods the United States has almost as many incidents as China. None has been as prolonged and the foreign pacifier and civilizer hasn't been brought in yet, although some of the world's new culture spreaders must at times look over here and think of the United States as being full of good business openings for their lines of goods.

Gov. Kraschel, in handling the Maytag strike at Newton, revealed himself as a man of all kinds of the open mind. He called out his troops, first, to close the plant and keep the employés who wanted to return to work from going through the C. I. O. picket lines, saying that operations could be resumed when an agreement was reached. Before the C. I. O. and its communist friends had been able to take any advantage of the use of the troops in their favor, the governor got mad at the National Labor Relations board, ordered its examiner to close shop, and for the purpose of keeping it from holding any more hearings put the whole state of Iowa under martial law.

The examiner, confronted with a nullification of the federal labor law, took a forty-eight hour recess to await instructions from Washington. He was told to move his hearing to Des Moines. Gov. Kraschel, saying that the hearing had created nothing but trouble and disorder in Newton, decided to permit it to continue in Des Moines and used the soldiers to reopen the plant which he had at first closed.

The Iowa governor was only one of the busy militarists in the country to use the National Guard as storm troopers in political action. These are new tactics in American affairs. In Rhode Island the soldiers were called out to take a race track away from its owner, in Michigan, Ohio, and Pennsylvania to support insurrections against the law, in Tennessee for use against a Democratic factional leader. In these uses the troops have been put in the contradictory attitude of opposing writs of the courts, exposing property to damage, and keeping men from working instead of keeping the lawless in check. It hasn't been the fault of the Guard, which must obey orders, but of the politicians who want to be Hitlers, Mussolinis, and Lenins.

BUSES FOR STREET CARS.

The draft of the new traction ordinance will require the company to substitute buses for street cars on about one-third of the existing lines. In general, street cars will be retained only on the heavily traveled routes. On the others and on the new lines and extensions buses will be employed. When the provisions of the ordinance have been carried out substantially half the route miles in the city will be served by buses.

That is as it should be. The trolley car had its immense usefulness in its day and the modern street cars such as are found on Madison street are an improvement over the older equipment, but the bus for most purposes is to be preferred to either. Its chief advantage is its maneuverability in trafic. It can be steered around obstructions and it can load and unload its passengers at the curb, where the danger of accident is minimized. The substitution of modern buses should mean more seats, speedier service, and incidentally less obstruction to other trafic because the latest type of bus occupies less street space per passenger than does the street car.

The disadvantage of the bus lies in its relatively slow pickup. The street car gets off to a faster start. This disadvantage can be overcome in a number of ways. There is no need for every bus to stop at every block. A skip-stop plan can be worked out and if that is not satisfactory it should be possible to have alternate buses stop at alternate streets. [The bus with the red marker would stop at the red marked streets and the bus with the blue marker at the alternate blue marked streets.] Limited services which are now operated only from the remoter neighborhoods could be provided for intermediate neighborhoods as well.

The laying of street car tracks requires a heavy capital outlay and a corresponding gamble. Maybe the business will be sufficient over a long period of years to repay the cost and maybe the rapid changes in city neighborhoods will result in a heavy loss. The use of buses obviates the gamble. The bus can be operated where the people require service, without any investment in tracks and trolleys. The higher operating costs about which much has been said are balanced by far lower capital costs.

The street car as we have known it in Chicago has been both a builder and a destroyer. It has helped develop many sections of the city, but in later years it has hastened the depreciation of certain neighborhoods with its noise and its obstruction to the free movement of trafic. The substitution of buses should contribute to the reclamation of sections of the city which have been on the downgrade for many years and to the wholesome development of new residential areas.

THE FUTURE IN ONE JUMP.

The promoters of the festival of jitterbugs, ickies, hopkies, and Flat Foot Floogies, Tuesday night at Soldiers' field, who call themselves the New Century committee, didn't know how good they were at finding a name for their organization until they saw what happened.

The police were much relieved as the gathering made its way home. Lucky that the jitterbug ecstasy is so good natured and harmless. There were over a hundred thousand bugs, completely out of control, on the field and in the stands. If they had started milling around violently there wouldn't have been anything but a hole in the lake east of Michigan avenue. The police would have been found cast up on the beaches at St. Joe and Benton Harbor.

The psychologists haven't yet given the explanation of the effect of swing music upon the modern nervous system or told us why there is such a response to the killer diller, which is the most powerful thing to hit the American consciousness since the days of the primeval forest and the aboriginal Redskin. When the ickies and the hopkies begin to make up with vermilion, ocher, and lampblack we'll know that for some reason or other evolution has taken a sudden jump of about a thousand years into the future and that the climatic influence which is supposed sometime to reproduce the aborigine on these shores has taken its effect in a hurry.

Possibly the evolutionary force, being as wise as it is irresistible, has come to the conclusion that, things being what they are, change must be hustled. This is no time to mess around. We need the future right now. The New Century committee ushered the police and a large section of the populace into a new century with a bang and somebody must pay to get the turf back in shape. It's a break that they don't have to put up new stands and concrete walls.

BRIGHT AND SHINING.

[Baltimore Evening Sun.]

Baltimore's large Negro population imposes some special problems upon the city, but it also contributes a large share of geniality, variety and gayety. For example, the festivities on Halloween night, culminating in the parade along Pennsylvania avenue, show an amazing amount of wit and ingenuity. Indeed, the parade is an event to which a great many white residents look forward with keen interest. Currently, the Negroes of Baltimore are engaged in their clean block campaign, the importance of which could hardly be exaggerated.

This clean block campaign is an annual community effort sponsored by the energetic Afro-American, a newspaper which offers prizes for cleanliness and beautification. This year, with more than 300 blocks competing, the paper has found it necessary to add a new class of entries which would include suburban blocks. Five thousand children have registered for the campaign. The photographs published in the Evening Sun, showing bright and shining blocks in North Gilmor and Dolphin streets, demonstrate what can be done when the coöperative spirit is aroused in a neighborhood. In some instances, where vacant houses threatened to spoil the appearance of a block, those houses have been given beauty treatments by residents in the block.

Here is one campaign which will bore nobody. It is a campaign which, for the general happiness of the city, cannot possibly be too long drawn out. It opened July 1 and will not close until Aug. 31. Many of the entrants began their preparations long before the opening date, and we hope that as many more will continue their efforts long after the prizes have been awarded.

LAST LAIR OF CONSERVATISM.

Modernists, take note: Chevy Chase, the smartest and most aristocratic country club of Washington, D. C., whose guest cards are regarded as passports to the seventh heaven of social rating, where the first families of the Potomac mingle with the macaronis of the embassies, frowns austerely upon shorts for Dianas of the tennis courts; shows its teeth at one-piece bathing suits for nymphs of the pools, and forbids, upon pain of banishment to Alaska, the trunks-and-torso effect for male swimmers. If this information is not correct blame that conservative old buzzard, the ambassador from Ruritania, who jovially whispered it in this column's ear.

The University of Chicago goes in for columning in a comprehensive way by issuing Tower Topics [Reg. U. S. Pat. Office], in mimeographed sheets for campus distribution. "Unique Angles of the Quadrangles" is its subtitle, and four cafés and social centers of the university—the Coffee shop, Hutchinson commons, the Cloister club, and the Reynolds club—appear to be its publishers. These broadsides bristle with quaint and curious lore, ranging from heraldry to bait-casting. The current issue informs us that when Savannah, Ga., wants to tell the government weather bureau at the university what kind of a day it was last Friday [temperature, minimum 76, maximum 96, etc.], it wires:

"Torrid debutantes firings ratio."

We had always believed that winter was the season for torrid debutantes.

"Swing has generally come to mean any rendition of a popular ditty where melody disappears under a tangle of improvised variations."—News Week, Jan. 23, 1937.

"In the case of syncopation, accents are placed off the beat to give an unexpectedness and the exhilaration that goes with the unexpected. Improvisation may be said to consist in ornamenting the basic musical theme, usually by way of runs, cadenzas, and so forth. Extraordinary technical complexity is often found in these improvisations."—Glenn C. Balnum, conductor Northwestern University band.

THE WHY AND WHEREFORE OF ADHESIONS.

In order that we may understand something of the character of the slender, stringy bands called adhesions, which sometimes form within the abdomen, we must first recall that the coils of intestine are overlaid with a thin membrane, the peritoneum. In addition, this material lines the abdominal cavity. Its purpose is to provide, all along the way, a smooth, glistening surface so that movements may take place without friction and with the least possible resistance.

Another reason for the existence of this covering is that should infection occur enough irritation will be set up to glue opposing segments one to the other. In this way an effort is made to pocket or wall off invading bacteria, thus checking their spread. This is what happens in appendicitis if the inflammation is severe or if rupture takes place. Nature endeavors to enclose the infection within a localized abscess pouch which later may be drained.

Whenever the abdomen is opened surgically it is difficult to handle this delicate tissue with sufficient tenderness to prevent some damage. In the removal of a diseased organ, for example, many surgeons will use moist, sterile sheet rubber to protect the parts and to obviate the slightest contact except with the structures to be extirpated. But even these precautions may not be adequate to avoid all irritation, whereupon, at a later date, some sticking together of certain small areas may result. Now and then it is necessary to insert a rubber drain, which acts as a foreign body and may induce a slight injury.

What occurs after recovery? Let us assume that two peritoneal surfaces have become adhered at a particular site. If, because of changes of position, weight of the abdominal contents, pressure on the muscle wall from lifting, etc., these folds tend to pull apart, the points of cohesion will stretch with the formation of what are called peritoneal bands. Fortunately many of these will become so elongated that they will sever themselves, while others will become digested [dissolved] and hence absorbed.

But in a small number of cases symptoms may continue because these ribbons may thicken and become fibrous. This is a situation which every one desires to avoid, inasmuch as a loop of bowel caught within one of these lassolike affairs may become constricted, causing obstruction.

It is absolutely essential that there shall be complete freedom of motion of all portions of the digestive tract within its natural basin. If figurative tent ropes tie down loops of bowel, symptoms of abnormal behavior of the alimentary canal will probably appear.

Again let us suppose that blockage has ensued and, in consequence, the abdomen has to be reopened to free the intestine so that it may function properly. What is to stop the later development of new guy wires? Research workers have suggested that at this stage there should be introduced into the cavity some digestive enzyme such as papain, combined with a weak solution of sodium citrate in distilled water. Enough evidence is not available to recommend the procedure, although some authorities have reported favorably upon its employment. On the whole, however, adhesions between movable portions are of but little moment. It is only when the anchor ropes extend from a fixed region to a contracting one that danger may be encountered.

Among remedial agencies diathermy, gentle abdominal massage, and exposures to X-ray—which should be persisted in for some weeks—have been recommended. All are designed to allay inflammation and stimulate absorption. There are several safeguards which the surgeon may keep in mind to reduce to the minimum this post-operative disturbance. First and foremost is gentle surgery—the kindly handling of tissues. Second, prompt ligation of blood vessels to avoid the necessity of sponging, and third, the complete covering of all denuded surfaces with normal peritoneum.

CLEANLINESS BEST REMEDY.

L. H. writes: Is it possible that some people "draw" bedbugs? By that I mean do bedbugs seem to breed in any bed that such a person sleeps in?

REPLY.

Bedbugs will breed wherever they can obtain food. This includes nutriment which they suck from human bodies. Scrupulous cleanliness is the price of freedom from their presence.

OF DOUBTFUL VALUE.

A. H. W. writes: Having a mild case of gastric ulcer, I keep on a strict diet and have neither pain nor other difficulties. A friend tells me that he cured himself by drinking tea made from linseed. I never heard of linseed in any form being taken internally. Is there any merit in it?

REPLY.

Linseed contains a mucilage which may supply a useful coating for the mucous lining of the stomach. I doubt its value in peptic ulcer, however.

MAY REVIVE LESIONS.

Mrs. R. G. writes: Is it all right for a person convalescing from tuberculosis to expose the back and chest to the sun?

REPLY.

Patients with pulmonary tuberculosis—healed or healing—should not permit direct sunlight to strike the skin. A few years ago a number of British authorities proved that the bathing season was followed by a lighting up of lesions in supposedly healed cases.

ROAD'S SERVICE A NECESSITY.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—The bondholder's letter on the North Shore road situation was all right as far as it went but there is another side to the matter which concerns patrons.

This road carried over 12,000,000 passengers in 1937. A substantial number of people are now inconvenienced. There is much loose talk about substituting buses for this service. The through North Shore trains frequently hit a speed of over 70 miles an hour. Can you imagine buses doing that? Then, too, for a large part of the day you can get a train on the North Shore every 15 minutes carrying one, two, three and four large coaches and making local stops—the middle of the day and later at night a train every one-half hour. Where would buses operate to perform that service—along Sheridan road or Skokie highway? Unthinkable!

I take a North Shore train in Highland Park at 8 a. m. and am in my office in the loop at 8:55. Can you imagine a bus giving service like that? This transportation costs me $9.90 for sixty rides or 20 cents a ride, because I use but fifty rides a month. The distance is 25 miles. Personally I think that is too cheap, but how could a bus come within striking distance of this in comfort, time, convenience, and fare?

This road is a necessity to thousands of north shore suburbanites. J. R. F.

A BOY AND HIS BICYCLE.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—As to bicycles and their use in Chicago: I have an 8 year old boy. He got a bicycle last Christmas, but it stands in the corner, having had little use this summer. I don't believe a child of 8 has any more business on the highways with his bicycle than a child of 10 has in driving an automobile over the roads.

MRS. LOUISE BOWDEN.

FROM AN INSURANCE MAN'S WIFE.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—Am I burned up? Here is my husband, who has been in the insurance business for forty years and never had any help from his father and never failed to pass his examinations from college, maybe due to the fact that he never went to college. He has been telling me all these years how hard he has been working and yet we are still struggling along, just getting by. I've worked hard, too, doing all my own work as well as sewing and raising three children, for whom I never was able to have a nurse, maid, or governess, or whatever you call them.

But Jimmy—just by working hard for three years has been able to make $100,000, walking into big business and just by his genial manner walking out with a nice, big insurance order.

Wouldn't it be in order for Jimmy to share his $100,000 with the one-third of the insurance men who are ill-fed, ill-clothed, and ill-housed? He would at least be doing what his father so vehemently advocates for others able to work hard enough to make $100,000.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—I have been a daily reader of your paper for fifteen years and I enjoy your comic strips a lot, but for the love of Pete, let's put a stop to this silly Floy-Floy in the Harold Teen cartoon. You know, as I do, that it has no meaning, and I feel sorry for the poor artist that can't think of anything better than this type of comedy.

A USE FOR THOSE CHAIRS.

Wheaton, Ill., Aug. 22.—In raiding gambling and bookie establishments, why do the state's attorney's men wantonly destroy the nice modern chairs, desks, and other equipment? It seems to me that the chairs, at least, could be used by sitdown strikers or the WPA workers.

ECONOMICAL CITIZEN.

A WORD FOR MUSSOLINI.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—I have read your editorial entitled "Portrait of a Tyrant as a Young Man."

When I was a young man living in Italy, I belonged to the Socialist party and met Mussolini himself and Angelica Balabanoff, then a leader of the Italian Socialist party, in spite of her Russian birth. I followed their political activity closely.

I think you are wrong in trusting Angelica Balabanoff for what she writes about Mussolini. I know there is no one else in the world who hates Il Duce more than she. He had no sympathy for her, frequently flaying her with whipping sarcasms.

Mussolini even then was a man of strong character who worked hard and despised, a little bit, his uneducated and common comrades. Very studious, seldom laughing, he was deeply interested in the great German philosophers, particularly Hegel. Another outstanding quality: He despised money and was not unhappy with his small revenues as a journalist.

Mussolini was not a neuropathic, but a man of powerful intellectual and spiritual originality which the common people mistook for extravagance.

Your paper is anti-Fascist and I have no objection to that. I, myself, do not approve the too rigid control imposed by Fascism upon public opinion; but after all, you cannot destroy the truth: That Mussolini is a great man and that his soul has but one great purpose—to do for Italy all the good he can. Other nations do not like that, but here, so far away from Europe and its political mess, we should be more objective in judging the European situation and European leaders. ALFONSO PIANI.

A HIGH SALARIED TEACHER.

Chicago, Aug. 19.—Quoting from this week's Collier's: "I wonder," sighed Jimmy [Roosevelt], "if we oughtn't to quit talking about it. When Frank Hale, president of National Grain Yeast corporation, asked me to try my hand at organizing his sales force, I took the job. Our insurance business was doing well and I would have plenty of time to devote to that, too. I enjoyed that brief experience with Hale. . . . But I did give him an organization, put in a new accounting system. And for the privilege of learning something about the business I was being paid at the rate of $25,000 a year."

Now, why would Mr. Hale, president of a large corporation, hire a young man who already had a business of his own, to teach his salesmen about the yeast business? Three guesses! My, you guessed it the first time. A. P. LODDER.

SENN BAND PLAYED IT.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—In last night's broadcast of the Chicagoland Music Festival, Bob Elson announced that the "Rhapsody in Blue" was being played for the first time by a concert band. I wish to say that in the spring of 1935 the Senn High School band of Chicago—national and city champions for many years—presented it in its entirety. We were one of the first bands to do this number. PATSY DARLING.

NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS.

Chicago, Aug. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I borrowed money on a judgment promissory note about two years ago. The note came due a year ago. I paid him three instalments on the note as I could, then he got foolish and turned the note to a collector to make me pay up faster. After the collector got possession of the note he refused to return it to the lawful owner.

1. I have been paying the lawful owner sums of money at various times as I could, and took receipts for same to be applied on balance due. The lawful owner is willing to make a settlement for $50 and call the note paid in full.

2. I want to know if waiver I have drawn up would stand good and protect me from being forced to pay any judgment or costs, etc. The waiver reads: "Received $50 to be applied on balance due on promissory note dated..... in favor of ..... and I hereby waive, release, cancel all claims, judgment clause, or attorney's fees on accounts against.....on above mentioned note."

3. If this is not satisfactory please draw a form that will be satisfactory.

W. C. O.

1. It is unwise for a debtor to make negotiable instrument payments to any person other than the holder of the instruments. If he pays to any other person he may be forced to pay again.

2. This would not protect you if the note turned up in the hands of the holder in due course. If, however, the note is past due, then a present transferee would not be a holder in due course and would take subject to your defense.

3. See preceding answers.

SUBORDINATION AGREEMENT.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My mother and I are equitable owners of a piece of property in Pasadena, Cal. A man holds a first mortgage on it. Last July my mother and I had to sign a renewal of his note, for he said otherwise it would be outlawed by September.

Now he says we have to sign a [1] subordination agreement making him beneficiary and the bank at Los Angeles trustee. Otherwise he will foreclose. He says too, that this must be done soon or his note will be outlawed. These papers sent to me to sign are from the office of the board of supervisors of the county of Los Angeles.

2. In 1935 my mother [not I] signed an agreement with the Los Angeles county for welfare aid. It reads: "Whereas, said premises are subject to a mortgage to said Los Angeles county as mortgagee, executed by . . . dated May 28, 1935," etc.

3. If the first mortgage holder recorded our renewal signatures last year, could he foreclose?

4. Should I sign this subordination agreement? L. M.

1. A subordination agreement is an agreement that one lien is to have priority over another lien. It is not clear what two liens are involved in your question.

2. It is not clear whether you mean that the balance of this instrument was worded as to amount to a second mortgage or equivalent. Even if this were the case, it would be the holder of that lien rather than you who would have to assent to its being subordinated to the renewal of the first mortgage.

3. We cannot construe the renewal to advantage without having its wording before us. If the first mortgage holder agreed to renew for a specified period then presumably he could not foreclose during that period in absence of default.

4. We cannot advise without having the facts more clearly before us.

RADICALS BACK FRENCH PREMIER ON JOB SPEEDUP

Daladier Cites Need for Defenses.

PARIS, Aug. 24.—(AP)—The Radical Socialist [moderate] party today gave its president, Premier Edouard Daladier, full backing for his plan to abandon the forty hour week.

The action was taken after he had warned that German military preparations made necessary a strengthening of France's defense measures.

An abstract of his speech, delivered behind closed doors to the party executive committee, said the "premier exposed in detail the military preparations of Germany, citing the troops now under arms and showing the accelerated rhythm of war industries beyond the Rhine.

Tells Need for Strength.

He compared these impressive figures of this constant intensification of production to results now obtained in France and concluded with the urgent necessity of increasing the potential of France," the abstract said.

"The rudiments of peace require that France be strong," Daladier told his followers.

The executive committee of the party, a conservative unit of the People's Front which is outnumbered only by the Socialists in the house of deputies, then adopted a motion assuring Daladier of its complete confidence and calling for the coöperation of "all parties which seek the safety of liberty, of peace, and of the fatherland."

Principle to be Maintained.

Daladier, who Sunday announced his plan to scrap the forty hour week which now applies to 8,000,000 workers, promised that the principle of the short work week would be maintained, and that the longer hours would be applied only to industries where absolutely necessary.

The Radical Socialist appeal was intended primarily for Socialists and communists, co-partners in the People's Front, whose opposition to overturn of the forty hour week has threatened to split the chamber of deputies and perhaps overthrow the government.

The executive committee of the dominant Socialist party, however, announced it would oppose all attacks on present social legislation and would demand an extraordinary session of parliament to vote on the plan.

Strike Extension Ordered.

Labor leaders at Marseilles ordered the week-end strike movement of French dock workers extended to Corsica and all French North African ports. The strike has paralyzed the port of Marseilles two days a week.

Stevedores in Corsica, Tunis, Algeria, and Morocco were instructed not to work Sundays, at night, or overtime. This was interpreted as labor's answer to Daladier's intention of ending the forty hour week. It also represented a protest against the premier's action last week-end in sending Senegalese troops to the Marseilles docks to unload ships on days stevedores refused to work.

10 RED OFFICIALS GET SENTENCES OF DEATH FOR PLOTTING REVOLT

MOSCOW, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Ten officials of the soviet republic of Azerbaijan, in southwestern Asia, were sentenced to death today for a counter-revolutionary plot to separate Azerbaijan from the soviet union.

They were convicted of belonging to a group of conspirators in the Azerbaijan commissariat of agriculture.

On Aug. 8 the Baku newspaper, Bakinski Rabotnik, reported that fourteen officials had been indicted for the plot. It said they had sought to create discontent and start an armed revolt by spreading anthrax and other diseases among live stock. They also were accused of plotting the assassination of communist leaders and to restore capitalism under an independent bourgeois régime.

MAN ETERNALLY ASKS THE STORK: WHY ARE TWINS?

3,000 Are Coming to Chicago Convention.

BY MARCIA WINN.

If, as the press agents predict, 3,000 sets of twins get to Chicago tomorrow for the first International Twin convention, Chicagoans may view in the mass a subject that has interested man almost since history began.

If 5,000 sets do attend, it will be a remarkable showing, as twins [in the United States] come only once every 87 births. In Colombia, South America, they come only once every 250 births, but in Denmark, where statistics show the most thriving twin industry, they come once every 62 births.

Triplets also have been invited, the officials say, and they come only once every 7,569 births. If any quadruplets arrive, the show will be even better, for their proportion is one out of 658,503. And it might be of interest, since the Dionne quintuplets definitly are not coming, to know that they occur only once in 57,289,761 births.

Parade Is Planned.

The layman's interest—an interest to which the twins will pay obeisance with a grand parade down Michigan avenue Sunday afternoon—doubtless arises from their scarcity.

There are two classes of twins: Identical twins — those developed from the same mother cell—and fraternal twins—those developed from separate cells, who merely happened to be born at the same time.

Identical twins are always of the same sex. They not only look alike, but often ache alike.

Fraternal twins often resemble each other no more than do members of the same family. They may be of the same or opposite sexes. And the tendency to produce fraternal twins, unlike the tendency to produce identical twins, generally is considered hereditary.

Amazing Testimony Offered.

Medical history includes amazing testimony along this line. A Viennese couple, the father a twin, the mother a quadruplet, had 32 children in 11 births. Another writer tells of a man, son of a twin, whose first wife had one set of quadruplets and 10 sets of twins. His second wife also had 10 sets of twins, and three sets of triplets as well. All together, he amassed 63 children.

To breed a pure twinning strain, medical men suggest the marriage of persons whose parents and grandparents were twins. But they scoff at the idea that twins might beget twins. It's very unlikely, they say.

ROBBER GANG FORCES VICTIMS TO LOAD SAFE ON TRUCK; GET $1,600

Four employés of the Mickelberry Sausage company plant at 801 West 49th street were forced to aid in the robbery of their office early this morning by three armed gunmen, who drove away in a company truck with a safe containing $1,600 in cash and checks.

Shortly after midnight one of the gunmen forced a window and held up Harry Palmer, a watchman. At the point of a gun Palmer admitted two other armed robbers. The three gunmen then marched Palmer into the plant and there collected three other workmen, Joseph Drim, Adolph Movel, and Michael Grady.

The robbers forced the four employés to carry the office safe to a company truck in the nearby garage. Then the four employés were tied up and the three robbers disappeared in the truck.

The robbery is similar to one a week ago at the Texas company's bulk oil plant at 3052 Archer avenue. There three overalled gunmen forced two employés to help them carry a 3,000 pound safe to a company truck in which the robbers fled.

GRABS FLAMING CURTAIN; PLUNGES OUT OF WINDOW

Paul Williams, 46 years old, suffered severe burns and cuts yesterday in an accident in the apartment building at 4808 Lake Park avenue, where he is manager. Williams was using a blow torch as an exterminator in a first floor apartment when the window curtains caught fire. Williams jumped on a table to tear down the curtains. The table collapsed, hurling him out the window six feet to the ground. He was taken to the Chicago hospital. Firemen from the 16th battalion extinguished the blaze.

HUSBAND FACES GRAND JURY QUIZ IN LOVE KILLING

Rudolph Sikora, who Monday shot and killed his rival for his young wife's affections, was taken to the county jail yesterday to await a grand jury hearing which may charge him with murder.

Outwardly composed, Sikora, who is 31 years old, refused to discuss the shooting of Edward Solomon, 35, for whose love his wife, Margaret, renounced him. His one remark was, "If there is any justice, I should be given my freedom."

Meanwhile, his wife, brunette and 22, stayed at 2241 Bissell street in the basement flat of Thelma Bader, a friend of Solomon. Regardless of what happens to Sikora, she said, she will not go back to him. "Never!" she cried.

Assistant State's Attorney Leslie Curtis said he hopes to present the case before the grand jury when it is recalled for the end of the summer term Aug. 30. "The state's case," he said, "is obvious. There is nothing to do but try it. It's a jury case."

OUSTS LABORERS TO PLEASE C.I.O.; FARMERS ANGRY

Tomatoes Ready to Pick and No Workers.

Kokomo, Ind., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Farmers of Howard county arose in protest today because a C. I. O. industrial group meddled in their tomato harvesting. Tomatoes provide one of the principal crops in this community and the picking season is at its height.

At the instigation of a Kokomo C. I. O. union, Sherif George Scott has ordered more than 400 Mexican tomato pickers to leave the county. While admitting he was without authority to force out the Mexicans, the sherif warned them they had better move on.

The farmers protested to the sherif that the action will cause them serious losses. They claim they are unable to get local persons to work in the fields despite the fact that about 8 000 persons are on relief here. They expressed the fear that their tomatoes will rot before the few pickers available can take care of this year's large yield.

Stirred Up by C. I. O.

The sherif acted on the report of officials of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, a C. I. O. affiliate. Members of the group, whose number has dwindled in the last year to about 2,000, are employed in Kokomo factories They complained the itinerants are working for cheap wages and are keeping local citizens out of jobs.

Farmers deny both statements. They insist they are paying the Mexicans between 4 and 6 cents a basket for picking tomatoes, the same as they offered to any local persons who would work. They denied the C. I. O. assertion that they paid the Mexicans 2 cents a basket.

"Some of the local citizens who are complaining most," said Perry Cole, a farmer living in Taylor township, "are the ones who won't work themselves, or who won't stay on a job once they start picking.

Come from Michigan.

"Farmers find that these people quit the fields as soon as some other employment turns up. On the other hand, the Mexicans are willing to work straight through the season. They are reliable hands and we pay them the same as other pickers."

About 100 Mexicans left today after the sherif and his deputies toured farms last night and told them to get out. More than 300 were still working, however. The Mexicans came here from Michigan where they had been picking sugar beets.

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 24.—(AP)—A giant flying boat, capable of an estimated 5,000 mile flight to patrol or bomb, was ready for tests today by the United States navy. Manufacturers have flown the million dollar craft to their satisfaction.

Rigid inspection and test flights for the next week lay ahead of the four-motored air dreadnaught before the navy accepts it as perhaps the most powerful unit of the naval airforce.

Specifications of the plane, which resembles the clipper ships, are naval secrets. Officials of Consolidated Aircraft corporation refused to talk about yesterday's test flights.

Observers made the following estimates of the ship's specifications: Four engines, 1,050 horsepower each; wingspread, 115 feet; overall length, 80 feet; height, on beach landing gear, 22 feet; top speed, 240 miles an hour; weight, 30 tons; range, 5,000 miles.

TRUCKS TO ROLL IN PERSONALTY TAX CAMPAIGN

Plan Property Seizure of Delinquents.

Moving vans will rumble forth soon to carry off property of delinquent personal property tax payers, County Treasurer Horace G. Lindheimer warned yesterday.

The vans, he said, will be used as a last resort in his campaign to collect 8 million dollars in overdue 1937 personalty bills. All of the bills exceed $1,000. Seizure of property to satisfy personalty taxes was last resorted to in Chicago by the former Jacob Lindheimer, father of the present treasurer. The method is used with considerable success in many downstate counties.

Launch Drive Against Hotels.

While a special staf was carrying on the personalty collection drive, Treasurer Lindheimer started another collection campaign, against hotels which owe real estate taxes. Hotels and apartment hotels, most of which went through receiverships during the depression, are a principal source of real estate tax delinquency.

While they were in receivership, receivers for a majority of the properties did nothing to clean up delinquent taxes. In many cases they failed to pay current taxes. Lindheimer instructed his staf to make tax searches of 175 hotel properties, determining the amount of money owed, as the first step in the new drive.

The personalty collection drive was started on 4,000 large overdue accounts. Up to yesterday 800 of the delinquent taxpayers had been reached by telephone with requests that they pay their bills. A number of the bills have been paid in part or in full.

As the next step in his drive Lindheimer will send letters to taxpayers who have refused to respond, citing his legal power of collection, and giving them ten days to reply before action is started.

Has Broad Powers.

The treasurer holds broader statutory powers in the collection of personal property taxes than he has in forcing payment of back real estate taxes. Under the statutes, he may seize personal property in satisfaction of taxes without resorting to court procedure.

Such seizures will take place, Lindheimer warned yesterday, in cases of taxpayers who do not reply to collection letters. There are certain legal requirements to be met, principally one that property seized must belong to the delinquent taxpayer, and not be burdened by sales contracts or instalment purchase agreements.

YOUTH DIES AS 2 GO FOR HELP IN MOUNTAIN GALE

Randolph, N. H., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Caught in an icy gale 4,000 feet above sea level while crossing the Presidential range of the White mountains, Joseph Caggiano, 18 years old, of Long Island City, N. Y., died of exhaustion today while two companions struggled through the storm for aid.

His companions, Frank Carnese, 21 years old, also of Long Island City, and Philip Turner of East Bridgewater, Mass., reached the Madison Hut, a mile from the trail on Mount Adams where Caggiano collapsed. They were suffering from exhaustion and exposure.

Members of the Appalachian Mountain club, which maintains a chain of shelters, set out through the sleet storm, which swirled about in a temperature of 38 degrees, and found Caggiano's body. It was about fifty feet from the trail where he had last been seen.

Scouts Pay Last Tribute to Ralph Nodine Today

Chicago Boy Scouts will pay a final tribute this afternoon to their late leader, Ralph H. Nodine, when he is buried in Rosehill cemetery. The scouts will form a guard of honor at the grave. Mr. Nodine, executive of the Chicago Scout council and a leader in scouting for twenty-eight years, died Monday in Newton, Mass. His widow, Margaret, and two children survive.

$6,317,900 PARK PROGRAM GETS WPA APPROVAL

Many Improvements Planned Over City.

Authorization of a $6,317,900 WPA improvement program for 119 small parks and 47 boulevards in Chicago was received from Washington officials yesterday. The program will supplement one in which $1,035,970 already has been expended by the Chicago park district and the Works Progress administration.

The new projects will be increased recreation facilities, buildings, landscaping, and other improvements. The work is to be done within the next twelve months, according to H. K. Seltzer, Chicago WPA director.

Expense Is Shared.

Of the $6,317,900 to be spent, $4,958,279 will be supplied by the WPA and $1,359,622 by the park district.

A tentative list of the improvements includes fifty new tennis courts, forty-nine baseball fields, twenty-one swimming pool filter plants, twenty-five pedestrian subways, and rehabilitation of existing recreation facilities. Thirty-nine miles of lighting system are to be provided for boulevards, and 7,700 trees are to be planted.

49 Parks on North Side.

Forty-nine of the parks and ten of the boulevards in the program are on the north side; thirty-six parks and twenty-three boulevards on the west side, and thirty-four parks and fourteen boulevards on the south side.

The projects will give employment to 5,236 WPA workers, of whom 2,969 are now working on them.

ASKS ACCOUNTING OF ESTATE LEFT BY UNION OFFICER

Suit for an accounting of the estate of Patrick Berrell, vice president of the Teamsters' International union, was filed in Circuit court yesterday by Michael Berrell, a brother. The estate is valued at between $5,000 and $20,000.

Patrick Berrell was slain by gunmen in July, 1932, at a resort in Shawano, Wis. His will provided that his widow, Signe, who has since married Frank Heffern, was to receive the income from the estate for life. On her death her sons Edward and William are to divide the estate. If they die before their mother, however, Michael Berrell and two of his sisters will receive the money.

Defendants in the suit are the widow, her present husband, the sons, Mrs. Margaret Winek and Mrs. Anna Johnson [who are Michael Berrell's sisters], and the Northern Trust company, trustee of the estate. The bill asks an injunction to restrain the defendants from removing contents of a safety deposit box at the trust company.

Fails in Effort to Get Out of Jail for Mother's Funeral

For three months Forrest Webb Holter has stayed in alimony row rather than post a $1,500 bond demanded by his divorced wife, Brenda. He is an advertising salesman. Last week he learned that his mother in Connersville, Ind., was dying. He tried to arrange the bond so he could go to her. But because he had appealed the divorce, the matter was in the jurisdiction of the Appellate court, and other sureties were demanded. Holter's mother died Saturday. The funeral was held yesterday. Holter was in jail, and couldn't be there.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—The body of Frank M. Hawks, noted speed flyer, was cremated here today. Hawks was killed yesterday in the crash of a small sport plane he was demonstrating.

Tomorrow his roommate and flying companion, Mack R. Carlin, will fly the ashes to Hawks' home town, Redding, Conn. Hawks' widow lives there.

ORGANIZE LEAGUE TO COMBAT ALIEN ISMS IN AMERICA

Brig. Gen. John V. Clinnin yesterday announced that a charter has been obtained for a patriotic organization known as the Non-Sectarian League for Americanism, Inc., of which he had been named president.

The charter states the league fosters American principles of human rights, social justice, religious tolerance, and loyalty to American institutions.

"This organization," Gen. Clinnin said, "has been founded to safegard the American form of constitutional government by counteracting the subversive propaganda of Naziism, communism, and Fascism. We propose to use every legal means to prevent anti-American activities and will enlist all religious and fraternal organizations, labor unions, and public spirited citizens to join with us in the fight.

"Our aim is to promote good will among all racial and religious groups in America. In order to accomplish this purpose, Americans must organize to meet all forms of pernicious alien propaganda which is being aimed at our institutions."

PATRICK MILROY DIES; PIONEER OF NORTH CHICAGO

Patrick Milroy, pioneer resident of North Chicago, died there yesterday in his home, 1619 Park avenue. He was 72 years old. Milroy was alderman for the old 3d ward in the first North Chicago city council in 1907. He was a former member of the board of local improvements and of the board of education, district 64. He formerly was superintendent of the engineering department of the Chicago Hardware Foundry company. Surviving are his widow, Catherine, and four children, Dr. John Milroy, Margaret and Marie Milroy, and Mrs. Catherine Giffin. Funeral services will be held Saturday at 9:30 a. m. in the Holy Family church, North Chicago, with burial in Ascension cemetery.

Don't Be Fooled About Constipation!

Many people, when constipation hits them, just reach for the medicine shelf, dose up with a physic, and try to forget it—till the trouble comes back. And come back it usually does—more and more often—till you get at its cause.

If you eat what most people do—just bread, meat, potatoes—chances are just this fact causes your trouble: lack of "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and aids elimination.

If that's the reason for your trouble, what you need is a good dish of crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast. It contains the "bulk" you need plus Nature's great intestinal tonic, vitamin B1.

Eat it every day, drink plenty of water, and join the "regulars." Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

FLORENCE MABEE WINS DIVORCE IN WAUKEGAN COURT

Mrs. Florence Thompson Thomas Mabee won a divorce in the Lake county Circuit court at Waukegan yesterday from Carl F. Mabee. She is a daughter of the late John R. Thompson, founder of the restaurant system. Mrs. Mabee told Judge Ralph J. Dady she married Mabee Nov. 2, 1935, and that he deserted her Aug. 1, 1937. She received permission to resume the name of Thomas. Her first husband was Harry Thomas, former University of Chicago football star. Her home is at 1485 North Green Bay road, Lake Forest. She was represented by Wilbur B. Brazell and her husband by Paul D. Doolen.

Mrs. Hopkins to Give Party for Grandson

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE little rimed invitations that Mrs. James M. Hopkins sent out recently have occasioned much excitement in the hearts of all the very young ladies and gentlemen who received them. The clever riming [lost on the recipients probably, but undoubtedly appreciated by their mothers] bade the friends of Kenneth Sawyer Goodman Dewey to a party at Mrs. Hopkins' home in Lake Forest next Tuesday afternoon.

The occasion is Kenneth's fourth birthday. He is Mrs. Hopkins' only grandson and the elder child of the junior Charles S. Deweys. Their younger one is a girl, Ariane, who celebrated her first birthday last week.

Today is the junior Mrs. Robert J. Dunham's birthday and she and Mr. Dunham will celebrate by giving a small dinner at their home, later taking their guests to the Onwentsia club for dancing.

House Warming Will Be Anniversary Party.

Guests who have been invited to the house warming that Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. Van Steenderen are giving on Sunday from 4 until 7 o'clock in their new home, Wooded Knoll, in Barrington, may be bringing gifts of tin for the new house. It will be Mr. and Mrs. Van Steenderen's tenth wedding anniversary and they have invited friends to see their new home and to celebrate their "tin" wedding anniversary with them.

Mrs. Donald M. Ryerson and her son, Anthony M. Ryerson, will give a small dinner-dance at their home in Lake Forest on Sept. 10.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Sterling Davis will give a dinner in their home in Lake Forest on Sept. 3.

The night after Christmas, a Monday, has been chosen as the debut date for Miss Jane Zimmerman. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earle J. Zimmerman, will give a supper-dance at the Casino to introduce their daughter. The family is spending the summer at Lake Geneva but will be back in town about Sept. 25.

Miss Phyllis Peter Will Bow Sept. 8.

Mr. and Mrs. William Frederick Peter and Miss Phyllis Eleanor Peter have cards out for an at home on Thursday, Sept. 8, from 4 until 7 o'clock, at 990 East Illinois road, Lake Forest. The occasion will mark Miss Peter's formal debut. Mr. and Mrs. Peter had planned to give a dinner that evening at the Onwentsia club for their daughter and her assistants, but they have postponed it because of Miss Edith Olivia Little's debut dinner-dance that night.

Miss Little's party will be given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Little of Evanston, at the Glen View club. Miss Peter's assistants will be the Misses Carolyn Chapman, Edith Farwell, Mary Hale, Jane Harper, Tita Johnson, Betty Mead, Patricia Wilson, and Dorothy Young.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Shea Bulger and Miss Jane Cecile Bulger also will be at home on Thursday, Sept. 8, from 4 until 7 o'clock. Miss Bulger is one of the season's debutantes. The Bulgers live at 400 Sheridan road, Winnetka.

The Misses Marjorie and Patricia Kelly will give a buffet supper for Miss Alice Graff at their home in Winnetka on Sept. 7. Miss Graff will make her debut on Sept. 10.

Pope-Davis Nuptials in Port Huron Today.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pope and their family are in Port Huron, Mich., for the wedding this afternoon of John Waring Pope and Miss Elizabeth Louise Davis, daughter of Mrs. DeWitt Davis of Port Huron. The ceremony will be performed at 4:30 o'clock in the garden of the Davis home, Westhaven-on-the-St. Clair. The Rev. Oliver Black of the Port Huron Congregational church will officiate.

DeWitt Davis III. will give his sister in marriage. The only Chicagoan among the bride's attendants will be the flower girl, Nancy Lou Davis of Evanston, a niece of Miss Davis. William Pope of Winnetka will be best man for his brother and the ushers will be Henry Pope Jr. of Glencoe, Thomas Sanderson of Portage, Wis., Charles Wagner Jr. of Philadelphia,

Guy Stillman Weds Nancy Holbrook

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Stillman just after their marriage yesterday at noon in St. James' Episcopal church in Dundee. Less than a dozen witnessed the ceremony. Outside the church there were dozens of residents of the little town and surrounding countryside. They were anxious to see the youthful bride, who was graduated last June from the Barrington High school, and her young bridegroom, son of James A. Stillman of New York and Mrs. Fowler McCormick of Chicago and Barrington.

Only Families See Ceremony at Tiny Church

In a simple little church in the town of Dundee near the country homes of their parents, Nancy Holbrook, 18 years old, became the bride of Guy Stillman, 19 years old, yesterday. The service was read by the rector of the church, the Rev. Albert Taylor, in the presence of the immediate families.

Those who witnessed the ceremony were the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard C. Holbrook of Barrington, Miss Barbara Holbrook and 12 year old Marilyn, sisters of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Fowler McCormick, mother and stepfather of the bridegroom; his father, James A. Stillman, and Dr. and Mrs. James A. Stillman Jr. and their daughter, Anne. The Stillmans came from New York for the wedding.

Mr. Holbrook gave his middle daughter in marriage and Miss Barbara Holbrook was her sister's only attendant. Mr. McCormick was young Mr. Stillman's best man. Following the ceremony the guests went to the McCormick home, which adjoins the Holbrook one, to drink a toast to the young couple before they departed for a brief honeymoon at Niagara-on-the-Lake in Canada. Mr. and Mrs. Holbrook had planned to have the wedding breakfast at their home, but it was decided late Tuesday afternoon to have it at the McCormicks'.

The bride wore a youthful full skirted white velvet gown of street length. The bodice fitted tightly and the only trimming was rose point lace on the round collar and little cuffs of the short puffed sleeves. Her Watteau hat was of white velvet and she carried a shower bouquet of white stephanotis and valley lilies. The same flowers were used to decorate the church and the porch of the McCormick home, where the breakfast was served in buffet style.

Mr. Stillman and his bride will return to Barrington by Sept. 10 for on that date they will act as best man and matron of honor of the wedding of Miss Barbara Holbrook and David Mojonnier of Oak Park. The Stillmans will live for the next three years in Troy, N. Y., where he will enter his sophomore year at the Rensalaer Polytechnic institute this fall.

Free Ice Fund Gets Two More Gifts to Aid Chicago's Needy

The free ice fund, supported by TRIBUNE readers, to serve the city's crowded areas during the summer months, received two contributions yesterday. They were:

Col. H. L. Butler	$ 2.00
Ann and Sallie Eichengreen	1.00
Total	$ 3.00
Previously acknowledged	1,203.26
Grand total	$1,206.26

A gift of $10, signed B. E. W., raised the total of the Camp Algonquin fund to $1,037.36.

Donations to either fund should be addressed to the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc. Each gift, regardless of its size, will be gratefully acknowledged.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

Barrymores and Jitterbugs.

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 24.—This is the time of year when the major studios start rushing out the pictures made in recent months, for the fall releases. The pictures that are being previewed now represent the accumulation of months upon months of hard work. They represent millions of dollars, and packed in the cans are the hopes and ambitions of bankers, producers, directors, players, and technicians. Upon their success depend the jobs of thousands of workers.

Within the last forty-eight hours, Columbia has previewed "You Can't Take It with You." RKO has previewed "Carefree," the Astaire-Ginger Rogers reunion in tempo which proves that what the fans have put together no studio should tear asunder.

Within the next fourteen days, there will be previews of pictures starring or co-starring Sonja Henie, Ronald Colman, the Marx Brothers, the Ritz Brothers, and Fredric March and Virginia Bruce. Previewed also will be "The Brother Rat," "Three Loves Has Nancy," "The Road to Reno," "Suez" and, after retakes, "Too Hot to Handle," the saga of the newsreel cameras. Most of these already have been sneak-previewed. This means that the studios have sneaked their films to Pomona or San Diego or Long Beach to get audience reaction. From that reaction, expressed audibly in the theater, and complemented by preview cards which the audiences are requested to fill out, the producer and director learn where the film should be trimmed or amended in the editing. The completed product, after a series of sneak-previews, then is exposed to the critics and Hollywood's wise men.

"You Can't Take It With You," was an Event in capital letters because it was directed by Frank Capra from a stage play that cost $200,000. It became more of an event because in it Lionel Barrymore steps up before the Academy Award committee with one of the all-time great performances of Hollywood.

Barrymore, inclined to exaggerations of facial gesture, was happily assigned to Capra. The wedding of the two talents produces a really inspiring performance that never departs from its tone. He overshadows Jean Arthur, Jimmy Stewart, Edward Arnold, Mischa Auer, and a whole army of other fine performers.

And at the close of the year it is entirely possible that he will have overcome every other male performer in this town because it is going to take a heap of playing to outplay the Barrymore of this film. The picture itself is a masterly job, brought off in the best Capra manner.

However, to the jitterbugs of the nation, "Carefree" will be of more importance than Barrymore because Barrymore cannot possibly do the "yam," and Astaire and Rogers do the "yam" what am. It is highlighted by a series of smooth "lifts" in which Fred swings her into the air and sends her flying across his extended right leg. Lionel Barrymore, John Barrymore, or even Ethel Barrymore could not do it.

The "yam," I tell you in all confidence, will ruin those of us who still cling grimly to the waltz and polka. Once this catches on, dancing in night clubs or ballrooms or hotels will be fraught with physical peril. You and I, who do not go in for these new fangled didoes, will be kicked to death, because the air will be full of flying femmes imitating Ginger, and the rooms will be full of guys who think they are Astaires.

Astaire's solo work is best displayed in his dance on the golf course, which comes to a climax with the Omaha hoofer belting five drives down the fairway in dance tempo. It is not only the best dance he's ever done; it's also the best golf he's ever displayed in the wood department.

I have seen him playing at Bel-Air, turning the air purple as he swung and hacked and scrambled. In the picture, however, Astaire, while dancing, steps up and whacks five smart drives down the middle, splitting the fairway. The moral is that Fred should always do a time step when he steps on a golf course.

If Lionel Barrymore's fine work in the Capra picture raps on the door of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, may I suggest that from the standpoint of photography, Cameraman Robert De Grasse also achieves academy distinction in his camera treatment of the dream sequence in "Carefree." De Grasse, with brilliant imagination, suggests the fantastic or distorted quality of dreams by photographing it in slow-motion, with a layer of vaseline blotting out and obscuring the edge of the lens.

Pan Berman let me see the Marx Brothers in "Room Service" the other night, but I can't tell you about that until it is previewed officially. He let me see it because I was going to New York and wouldn't be here for the formal unveiling. I'll tell you about it later.

Smart Styling Marks Annual Rush to Velvet

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Velvet is making its annual fall fashion bid and is being well received. Black velvet hats, even though they manage to arrive during the stickiest weather, have such winning ways that they often take the shopper's last bit of cash. Such hats are the favorite headlines of those shrewd shoppers who realize that nothing can flatter like a sable black halo. Or, if you like, a high crowned, big hat with a wide down turned brim. Either model can be worn with or without a bit of veiling.

New velvet dirndl dresses are alluring bait for the young set. The new fall colors include those that are "winey" in flavor—sherry brown, burgundy red, claret. Then there are the tawny shades of gold, amber, or copper as well as the inky blacks. These velvet dirndls are not only simple in construction, but the front fullness has been reduced to the minimum, and small waistlines are thereby achieved.

Huge velvet ascots and longer scarfs will be muffled down the front necklines of tweed, or woolen suits. Velvet muffs, as large as a pillow are scheduled for an early appearance. Velvet gloves to match hat, bag, or scarf, come in a grand variety of colors. Velvet jackets, cut and fashioned with the same decorative effect as a bandmaster's jacket, will be seen all over town. Plaid, plain or checked, and gaudy striped velvet will make these jackets the most compellingly perfect tops for any sort of skirt or simple dress.

Black or jewel colored velvet suits are on their way. These will be precisely tailored affairs, using the luxurious material untrimmed to give the right amount of swank.

Black velvet dinner dresses are the sleekest, slimmest things in town. Most of them are made with long sleeves and a soul satisfying slinky streamline. Nothing relieves the velvet, unless it is a handsome clip, or the tantalizing swish and contrast color of a taffeta silk petticoat.

The first of the velvet parade is now on the march. The clever first ideas seldom return. So if you're a velveteer in search of a fillup for a drooping wardrobe, shop and buy now!

Maywood Birthday.

Maywood will observe its seventieh birthday with a community celebration the week of Sept. 25 to Oct. 1. John E. McCullough, president of the Maywood Rotary club, has been appointed temporary chairman of arrangements.

The Housewife

Have you seen the practical little gadget for your kitchen stove that saves fuel and time? It is round like the old-fashioned hot plate, but its under surface has two perforated plates which force the heat to circulate evenly under the entire cooking area. On this grid cooker you can bake pancakes, or fry eggs, or chops, or fish, or you can bake anything on it that you can bake in the oven.

It will replace the lower half of a double boiler so that milk, rice, puddings, cream soups, white sauce, cereals, etc., cook without sticking or scorching. Casserole dishes may be cooked on it, too, right on top of the stove. This surface oven is surprisingly cheap.

EDITH WEIGLE.

Fall Flower Show.

The annual autumn flower show of the Garden club of Oak Park and River Forest will take place Friday, Sept. 9, at the River Forest Tennis club. Mrs. Theodore Hoffman has been appointed general chairman.

Tours at Museum.

A guide lecture on minerals and prehistoric life will be presented at the Field museum at 11 o'clock tomorrow. At the same hour next Monday there will be a tour on plant life, and on Tuesday one on primitive and civilized peoples.

Tenderfoot's Inheritance

By Marie De Nervaud

SYNOPSIS.

Anne Claxton arrives from New York at the Wyoming ranch she has inherited, after refusing the last minute proposal of her city beau, Gerald. Steve Hayward, neighbor ranch owner, tells her that Jake Collins, who owns the adjoining ranch, expects to buy her heavily mortgaged ranch, but her uncle never would sell to him. Anne determines to stay and fight. She is immediately attracted to Steve, but Gwen Collins, Jake's daughter, shows a proprietary interest in him. She wins over old Tim Salter, her uncle's foreman, and Whitey, a handsome ranch hand. She finds the house in disorder and a gun missing from the rack. Tim thinks Collins had been there and threatened her uncle with the gun and that her uncle died from a heart attack. Collins calls with Lawyer Bill Jennings and turns ugly when she refuses to sell. When Steve calls and advises her to sell she is cool to him. Steve is offended and jealous of Whitey. To help surmount financial difficulties Anne looks forward to receiving her former boss, Mr. Trainor, and his family, to the ranch as paying guests. Collins serves notice that he is going to fence in the water holes which he claims are on his property. Riding alone Anne is thrown from her horse. Walking back to the ranch she is rescued by Steve from a maddened steer. Whitey, who is secretly in love with Anne, is rude to Steve. That night Anne overhears Tim and Whitey talking over the danger of gunplay. She decides to call on Collins and try diplomacy.

INSTALMENT XVI.

A DIRECT CHALLENGE.

The ranch house of the Triangle Three struck Anne as being distinctly forbidding as she approached it the next morning.

No trees softened its outlines and there was something harsh about its blatant self-sufficiency.

Everything was in perfect repair from the new red paint on the tall barn, to the shiny shingles on the roof of the house.

It had been originally built somewhat along the lines of the X Bar 9, but the roof had been raised at some time to add another story, throwing it badly out of proportion. The addition of an ornate doorway made it seem all the more out of place on the mesa. As Anne rode up to it a wave of thankfulness for the low sprawled buildings of the X Bar 9 swept over her.

There was no response to her knock on the brass knocker at the front door. Anne was cogitating her next step, when she saw Gwen coming up from the corral.

Leading Rocket, Anne walked down to meet her, with a smile of determined friendliness. If it was humanly possible, she was going to make the Collins family into friends instead of enemies.

"I'm sorry to have been so long about returning your call," she answered Gwen's greeting with a gay laugh, "but I had to learn to ride before I could come over, as you may remember!"

Gwen's black eyes had a humorous glint at the thought of Anne as she had seen her in the corral that first day, but she masked it as she joined in Anne's laugh.

"You seem to have won out," she answered, glancing up toward the house. "Did you ride over alone?"

Anne nodded. "I had to wait until Tim and Whitey got out of the way," she explained. "I disgraced myself yesterday."

She gave an amusing account of her adventure with the steer. "It sounds funny to tell about it," she ended, "but it wasn't funny at the time. I wouldn't be telling it at all, probably, if Steve Hayward hadn't happened along."

Anne was conscious of the electric shock that went through Gwen at this announcement, although she made no sign of surprise beyond an involuntary enlarging of the pupils of her dark eyes.

"I'm glad Steve is following orders and looking after you," she observed.

"'Orders'?" Anne echoed. "Whose orders?"

"Mine." Gwen gave the possessive laugh that had so incensed Anne before, but this time she was determined not to be angry.

"That was good of you. I need looking after, all right. Perhaps you could put your father on the job, too!" she added, lightly. "Is he here today? I wanted to see him about that note he sent me."

There was an unwilling flash of admiration in Gwen's eyes at Anne's boldness.

"He'll be back for lunch, you'll stay, won't you?"

Anne's every instinct was against accepting the hospitality of the Collins family, but her desire to establish good feeling with them outweighed her premonitions against it.

"I'll be glad to," she accepted, "if you're sure it won't be inconvenient. I do want to see him."

"Let's wait on the porch, then," Gwen led the way with her quick graceful stride.

During the hour that lapsed before lunch the two girls talked with a surface friendliness, that had a wary undercurrent of watchfulness.

Anne drew Gwen out on the subject of her life on the range and her interests. In spite of her instinctive distrust of Gwen, she was held by a fascinated admiration for her prowess in all the things in which Anne so longed to excel.

"If I could only ride the way you do!" she sighed enviously. "You see, I just have to make good, because this ranch is all I have. I've cut myself off from my connections in the east. But even if I am a tenderfoot, I can learn, can't I?"

Gwen's eyes clouded at this direct appeal.

"I won't pretend that I don't think you're making a mistake," she said slowly. "It's a lot harder than it sounds. Unless you have capital behind you, you can be wiped out almost any time. Why don't you sell out and go back east? Now, before it's too late? I might be able to get dad to jack up his price a couple of thousand."

"It's probably a case of 'fools rushing in'" Anne answered, "but I'm going to stay. You would, too, if you were in my place!" she challenged.

For a long minute the two girls took each other's measure. Again there was a flash of the same unwilling admiration that had shone in Gwen's eyes before.

"Perhaps I would," Gwen admitted, "but I still think I'd be a fool if I did. O, I know you think I'm playing dad's game of advising you to sell out," she brought the thought that was in both their minds out in the open. "In a way, I am, but I also think that it would be much better for you in the long run if you did sell now."

Anne felt more genuine liking for Gwen at this frank statement than she would have believed possible.

"Nothing but failure will drive me out," she said.

A clatter of hoofs saved Gwen from answering. The next minute Jake Collins rode up. He made no effort to conceal his astonishment at seeing Anne. His look of surprise was immediately changed to one of crafty satisfaction.

"Welcome to the Triangle Three." Anne found that she disliked the forced heartiness of his tone as much as she had his burly threats of the other day. One look at his hard brown eyes made her wish vehemently that she had followed her instinct, and not stayed for lunch, but it was too late to change now. "I hope you've come over to strike a bargain with me," he ended.

"I hope so, too." Anne deliberately pretended to mistake his meaning. "I thought the only thing to do was to answer your note in person. I didn't exactly understand it."

Jake Collins' eyes narrowed. "I reckoned it was clear enough," he said dryly, "but I stand ready to explain anything you want to know about it."

"Why not leave that until after lunch?" Gwen suggested. "It's all ready, and you can talk business later."

Anne looked from the father to the daughter. A sudden resolve to force the issue now, and not accept their hospitality if they were her avowed enemies swept over her.

"I think it would be better to clear up one point first," she said slowly. She looked straight into Jake Collins' eyes with a frank smile. "You see, what I really want to know is whether you are to be my friends or my enemies? If we are to be friends, I'd be happy to stay for lunch, but if we are to be enemies, I'd rather not."

Anne was conscious of a quick intake of Gwen's breath at this direct challenge.

Jake Collins swayed slightly toward Anne, and peered at her as though measuring her strength of purpose. With the same revulsion of feeling that she had had when she first saw him, Anne noted the abnormal length of his arms. His knotty sinuous hands were slowly opening and closing as he deliberated his answer.

Obvious Effort to Attract Proves a Barrier to Charm

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

The subject of charm was under discussion. The comparative charm of two women was the dominating theme.

"But," said a self-appointed critic, "she never could be called charming because she strives too hard for attention. Everything she does is brazenly to attract. What she wears has the same motive. Charming—bah—she's not charming. She's common."

And that, my dears, is a fair enough appraisal of certain women familiar to us all. They would be charming did they not strive too obviously to attract attention.

A certain amount of propaganda has got about on the need of each individual projecting herself boldly. If she doesn't, the theory is, no one else will. She must be aggressive, bold in her remarks, bold in the sense of barging in and letting some wisecrack break the ice. Perhaps there is need for a certain amount of aggressiveness at that. Certainly to hang back fearfully lest one do or say the wrong thing profits one little.

But, when you sit back and review the real successes of an evening the old formula seems to hold good even in this lively age of competition. It is the girl or woman who holds herself with a nice serenity, talks with a softly modulated voice, isn't guilty of too bright remarks whose evening registers the real conquests.

Innsbruck Alumni Will Be Guests of Mundelein

The Innsbruck University Alumni Association of America, composed of about 500 bishops and priests of the Catholic church who are graduates of the Tyrolean university, are holding a three day convention at the Edgewater Beach hotel. About 150 members from various sections of the country are attending. Yesterday's sessions were held at St. Benedict church, Irving Park boulevard and Leavitt street. The pastor, the Rev. Walter Fasnacht, is the national president of the association. Today the meeting will be held at St. Mary of the Lake seminary, Mundelein, where the delegates will be guests of Cardinal Mundelein.

Museum Opens Hall of Far East; Attendance Up

A new exhibition hall displaying objects from the far east was opened in the Field museum yesterday. The exhibit attracted more than 2,000 persons, a 20 per cent increase over attendance a week ago. Wednesday is a pay day. Larger crowds are expected over the week-end.

BY MARY MEADE.

A "fowl" or a "stewing hen" is a chicken a year old or over that, and may weigh 2½ pounds to 5 pounds. This type of poultry is less tender than the broiler, fryer or roasting chicken, and requires moist heat to transform its flesh into good eating.

Fowls and stewing chickens cost less and, in most cases, go farther than the younger poultry. The cooking process is simple, whether it means fricasseeing or stewing, by one of which means most elderly fowl get to the table.

FRICASSEED CHICKEN.

To fricassee chicken is to braise it. Dip the pieces in flour and brown in a small amount of fat. When the chicken is as brown as you want it to be, add a small quantity of liquid, about ½ cup. Milk, cream or water may be used. Add salt in the proportion of ¼ teaspoon per pound of poultry. Cover the utensil and reduce the heat. Let simmer very gently until the chicken is tender, from 30 minutes to 2 hours, depending upon the age and size of fowl used. After browning, the chicken may be baked in a moderately slow oven, 325 degrees. Vegetables may be added during cooking.

STEWED CHICKEN.

Stewed chicken is chicken simmered until tender in water. The meat may be used for creaming, chicken a la king or a la Newburg, salad, sandwiches, shortcake, timbales and like dishes, or it may be served as a stew, with or without vegetables and dumplings.

Select a 3 to 4 pound fowl for stew. Put the cleaned pieces into water to cover, about 6 cups. Add 1½ teaspoons salt, a small carrot and a small onion, a stalk of celery, 1 clove and two or three peppercorns. Cover and simmer very gently until the meat is tender and may be easily separated from the bones. This may require from 2 to 4 hours. The meat will absorb more flavor and be more juicy if it is left to cool in the stock before it is prepared in any other way.

To make jellied chicken salad or pressed chicken, remove the pieces of chicken and boil the stock down to a third of its original volume, 2 cups in this case. Strain out vegetables first, if they are used in cooking. Thus cooked down, the stock should become jellied when cold.

CHICKEN MARENGO.

This is a version of fricasseed chicken. After browning the chicken in fat, add, instead of water, the contents of a No. 2 can of tomatoes, thickened with a little flour and butter, plus a cup of fresh or canned mushrooms which have been sautéed in butter. Cover and bake in a 325 degree oven until the chicken is tender. Add 1 cup grated cheese about 20 minutes before removing from the oven, and remove the cover for that last baking period. Chicken marengo may be served on toast.

Chicken Croquettes.

1½ cups finely chopped, cooked chicken
1 small onion, minced
Salt, pepper, celery salt
Grated rind of ½ lemon
1 cup thick white sauce
1 beaten egg
Fine cracker crums

Mix chicken, onion and seasonings and pour over them the hot white sauce. Sauce is made from 2 tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons flour, and 1 cup milk, without additional salt. Cool mixture and then shape into balls. Dip in beaten egg and roll in fine crums. Shape into cutlets, pyramids, or rolls. Fry in deep fat heated to 375 degrees until well browned. Serve with white sauce, and garnish with parsley. Chopped mushrooms or cooked peas may be added to the white sauce served with these croquettes.

Perfect for Busy Women

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

This is a simple dress you can wear anywhere during a busy day in town. It's a grand model for "dates," too, if you're one who likes to wear something to the office which will be suitable for social life after work. There is nothing to this dress. A V neckline may have a soft rolled collar, and a slide fastener may do duty on the bodice. The waistline is rather high, allowing a long, slender line for the skirt, which is paneled for flare. The sleeves are squared slightly at the shoulders, and may be either long or short. The neckline may be built up higher, too, just hugging the throat, and no collar used.

You may like a touch of embroidery on this simple dress, and we suggest a particularly nice pattern for it, No. E-11185, which is available for 10 cents extra.

Style No. 3348 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3⅝ yards of 39 inch material.

CLOTILDE PATTERNS ARE 10 CENTS EACH

Mr. Pope and his bride will be at home in Cambridge, Mass., where he is attending the Harvard business school.

Mrs. Charlotte Picher Purcell sailed yesterday on the Normandie for America. She will spend a couple of days visiting her sister, Mrs. Charles Robert Arnold, in Syracuse, N. Y., before coming home to Glencoe. Her mother, Mrs. Oliver S. Picher, expects her to arrive here early in September. Mrs. Purcell spent last winter and this summer in Paris studying at the Sorbonne.

Henry L. Newmans Have Daughter.

A daughter was born on Sunday in Colorado Springs, Colo., to Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Newman III. [Antoinette Dangler]. The baby has been named Mary Margaret. Her maternal grandmother is Mrs. Charles H. Boissevain of Colorado Springs.

Miss Emily Larned has gone to Nantucket, Mass., for a vacation.

Miss Harriet Welling will return to Lake Forest tomorrow from a week's visit in Cotuit, Mass. She went east to be maid of honor Tuesday at the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Hitchcock of St. Louis to Edward Love, also of St. Louis. The young women were schoolmates at the Milton academy.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore A. Shaw Jr. have left for a fishing trip at Minaki, Canada. They will return about the middle of September.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Conscientious parents too often have an idea that they must "train" their children at every step of the way, right up through the years. This is a mistake—a fundamental mistake. And my advice is: Don't!

After yesterday's article on the importance of the skilful management of your child as you're with him hour by hour, perhaps that sounds like contradictory advice. But it isn't.

You see, there are a great many parents who are so conscientious that they bend over backward. They are eager to have perfect children. They are so afraid some small trait like a slap at another child, a bad word brought home, or heedlessness, will develop into a bad character trait that they think every small thing must be corrected as soon as it shows itself. They think any behavior that doesn't measure up to their standard must be treated as important.

Or if they're not this too conscientious type of mother, they're the dominating kind who just have to talk to and direct some one all the time, and who get the habit with their children.

Now, I know that one of the ways to get best results with your boys and girls is to overlook small things as much as possible, and also to refrain from a constant "do this" and "do that," or "do it this way or that way."

For one thing, constant admonition is likely to make your child "mother-deaf." The other point is that there are certain things which practically all children do until: [1] They learn that other children won't stand for them; or [2] that they have unpleasant consequences; or [3] until they get sense enough to know better.

Don't think that dire will be the result unless you train your children and manage your children all the time.

This is only one of the many exciting hairdresses that will be shown, together with clothes suitable for them, at the annual fall fashion show of the Chicago and Illinois hairdressers. The combined coiffure and fashion show, open to the public, will be held next Wednesday evening at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

Next Wednesday evening the Chicago and Illinois Hairdressers association will hold its annual fall fashion show for the public at the Edgewater Beach Hotel. This is one year when you should make it a point to attend. Admission is free, but by a ticket from the association.

The new high hair dress is one of the most controversial fashion subjects of the day. At the show next week you'll see several versions of it and you'll see exactly how important it is to the new ensemble. You'll see, too, that upswept hair isn't really a trend to be afraid of.

The millinery showings in Paris cinched the question of high hair versus page boy. With the new hats it's just about impossible to wear your hair dangling down around the shoulder blades. What you can do, if you insist, is adopt a compromise coiffure [you'll see some of these at the show] that gives you the high line in front but is not completely upswept in the back. If you want some fullness there you can have it—but it shouldn't go beneath the natural hair line.

The high hair dress is nothing to fear on the basis of impracticality. If you have the length in back you'll find it easy to hold the towering coiffure up—and there are plenty of small, non-slippable combs to help you.

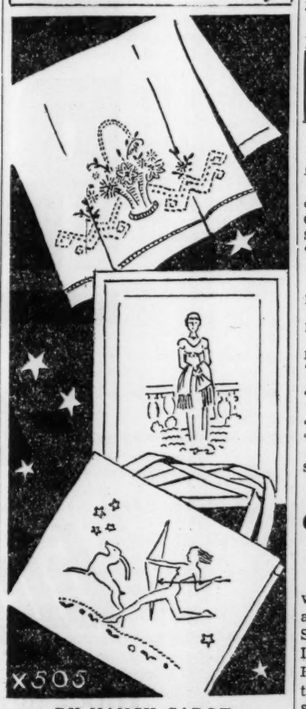
Group of Three Transfer Patterns Provides Variety



BY NANCY CABOT.

Every housewife likes to have a few hot iron transfer patterns on hand for the moment when she has no needlework pending, and is in the mood to start anew. The group of three hot iron transfer patterns, illustrated today, offers any number of suggestions for beautiful embroidery, and the three subjects afford a wide variety. The lovely flower basket is ideal for hand towels or pillow tops; the dignified and beautiful Grecian goddess, embroidered in white against a blue or green background, creates an unusual wall hanging. Diana of the Chase is suitable for the front of a knitting bag, a chair set, or tea towels.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

One of the marks of an expert is to be able to correct his partner's errors. In so far as the bidding is concerned, this is virtually impossible. No one but a mind reader can be sure that partner's bidding is not justified by his holding. The play of the cards, however, is another matter. When one defender, through inexperience or lack of imagination, adopts a futile plan, it often is possible for his partner to save the ship.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	1 spade	Double	Pass
2 diamonds	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
Pass	Pass

North's opening bid was pretty light, but not greatly to be censored, since he was not vulnerable. He could not, however, stand South's penalty double of one spade and properly ran out to his other five card suit. South, probably disgusted at being robbed of his prey [he had expected a juicy set], took the bit in his teeth and jumped to three no trump. This undoubtedly was a slight stretch. Two no trump would have been strong enough and would have given North a little leeway.

West, naturally impressed by the penalty double of his partner's spade bid, chose to open his own club suit. The five spot was taken by East with the king and the nine was returned, declarer covering with the ten. West won with the jack and banged down the ace in the hope of dropping the queen [there was no point in waiting for another club lead from East, because if East had another club to lead the queen would fall on the ace]. A low diamond was discarded from dummy on West's third club lead, but apparently West took no significance from that fact. A diamond lead at this point would have put an early end to the proceedings, since it immediately would have established East's diamond king. This, with the spade ace, would total five tricks. But for unknown reasons West chose to make a heart shift, this despite the fact that dummy still had its five hearts but had been reduced to four diamonds. [Surely declarer would not have discarded a diamond from dummy if he himself had had the king.] Dummy won the heart lead in his own hand, cashed his other high honor and the club queen, then overtook the heart ten with dummy's ace. The fourth and fifth hearts then were cashed. East had let go one low spade on his partner's third club lead and another on declarer's club queen. On the fourth heart he reduced to the K-J of diamonds blank, and on the fifth let go the spade ten.

Now, when the singleton spade was led from dummy, East hopped up with the ace and made the logical return of the diamond king. He realized that South must have the king and jack of spades for his double of one spade. The only chance, then, was that West had the ten of diamonds to guard dummy's nine spot. Since that condition existed, declarer had to be satisfied with the ace and queen of diamonds. He could not win a single spade trick.

CENTER CURBS TESTED AS ROAD SAFETY DEVICE

Movies Show Results in Slow Motion.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lansing, Mich., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—The Michigan highway commission today began field tests of center curbs designed by Dr. Miller McClintock, head of the Harvard university trafic research bureau. Engineers of the General Motors corporation are coöperating. Slow motion movies will be shown as records of some of the tests.

Half a mile of U. S. 16 pavement, closed to trafic since a relocation of the roadway to flatten a curve, has been converted into a proving ground for the safety equipment. The original installations consist of two types of medial fins, both to separate opposing streams of trafic.

Painted Lines Not Enough.

"Experience has proved that a painted center line is not enough to eliminate the head-on collision," said Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner.

"A year or so ago we tried building up the center line two or three inches with asphalt for a low, rounded curb on a couple of sections of U. S. 10 between Pontiac and Flint. Accidents continued on these sections.

"I understand Indiana had similar results from higher, metal curbs installed on U. S. 31 north of South Bend.

"These new experiments are to be conducted without risk to the public. The tests will continue with modifications of Dr. McClintock's designs until we have found a practical center curb that will save lives on the highway."

The first of the two types now being tested consists of an iron plate about two feet wide bolted to the center line of the concrete for the length of the slab. The top of the plate has longitudinal ridges one and three-fourths inches high and four and one-half inches apart and set slightly askew.

Warned When Plate Is Touched.

I rode this section with Dr. McClintock. In addition to his national reputation, he is known in Chicago for his 1933 survey which determined that elevated highways afford the only hopes for a substantial relief from the delays and hazards of surface street congestion.

Our car, traveling twenty-five miles an hour, was eased to the left, imitating the meanderings of an absent minded road hog. When the left front wheel touched the metal, there was an audible and perceptible warning that we were on the center line. The ridges, set askew, tended to deflect our course back into the proper lane. Yet this trespassing didn't threaten control of the car.

The other type under test consists of a tapered iron curb 18 inches high on a 26 inch base. The sides are concave at angles calculated by physicists to deflect a tire impact without endangering the car. Higher the sides become steeper, in such a manner as to act as a definite barrier to an automobile wheel.

POLICE TRACE WOMAN DRIVER BY CRASH CALLS

Paul Blum, 3432 Roosevelt road, got out of his automobile last night at Diversey and Clybourn avenues because a woman motorist had rammed it. As he started to talk to her she sped away.

Blum went to the Sheffield avenue station to report. While he was there the telephone buzzed with reports of her progress. The police went over to the 3000 block of North Ashland avenue. There they found she had smashed into four parked cars, eventually wrecked her own, and then dozed off behind the steering wheel.

Awakened, the woman said she was Mrs. Della Kranz, 29 years old, of 3006 North Racine avenue. Police locked her up on a charge of drunken driving.

SEEK 2 IN CRASH OF INVESTMENT SECURITIES FIRM

Jury Decides Official's Death Is Suicide.

Two directors of the Fort Dearborn Securities corporation were sought for questioning yesterday in the financial collapse of the company. A shortage of $30,000 is estimated in the company's accounts.

Offices of the concern at 176 West Adams street were raided Tuesday by investigators from the blue sky division of the state's attorney's office. A few minutes before the raid the body of Leslie B. Krumsick, vice president of the corporation, had been found in his automobile in the forest preserve at Higgins and Arlington Heights roads, west of Des Plaines. He had been killed by motor exhaust fumes.

One Director a Woman.

Directors sought for questioning are Mrs. Mary Ford and William L. O'Brien. Mrs. Ford lives at Oshkosh, Wis. She is the corporation's representative in that state. O'Brien lives on the south side.

Another director, Maj. John Prosser, 325 Kedzie street, Evanston, appeared at the blue sky division office yesterday and was questioned by Assistant State's Attorney John Phillips. He said the company was organized in 1934 after the old Donoghue, Krumski & Co. went into bankruptcy.

Prosser was allowed to leave after he told investigators that he knew little of the company's operations. Phillips planned further questioning of Attorney Floyd E. Britton, president of the corporation, and Herman J. Holle, the secretary.

Decide Death Is Suicide.

A coroner's jury yesterday decided Krumsick committed suicide while temporarily insane over financial difficulties. Krumsick, who was 45 years old, left his home at 440 Drexel avenue, Glencoe, Monday morning.

Investigators had little hope of recovering any of the shortage from Krumsick's personal accounts. He had no assets beyond a $1,000 insurance policy, of which his wife is beneficiary. The Glencoe home, valued at about $12,000, is owned by Mrs. Krumsick.

Autoist Flees Accident; Sent to Jail for 10 Days

John De Mario of 2237 Taylor street was sentenced to 10 days in jail by Judge John V. McCormick in Safety court yesterday. He was convicted of leaving the scene of an accident in which his car injured a pedestrian.

HIT-RUN DRIVER ARRESTED AFTER CAR KILLS MAN

When a pedestrian was killed by the automobile of a hit and run driver at Austin boulevard and Ohio street early today, witnesses caught the license number of the car. Within a few hours the driver was under arrest and had confessed the fatality. The victim was George McClay, 25 years old, 1519 Warren boulevard, who was a student in the Coyne Electrical school and whose home address was 4422 Sycamore street, Dallas, Tex. The driver was Robert LaMar, colored, 219 West Walton street.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hobson, 38 years old, 1415 Madison street, was killed early today when she was struck by an automobile while crossing at the intersection of Bishop and Madison streets. Police arrested the driver of the car, Jack Smith, 21, 1115 South Kedzie avenue, a WPA worker.

Mrs. Sophie Scharringhausen died early yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Jean Miers, 737 Pearson street, Des Plaines, of injuries suffered Sunday in an automobile accident. The victim was 78 years old.

Charles Sears, 65 years old, 111 South Oakley boulevard, died in the Marine hospital from injuries received June 27 when he was struck by an automobile at Lake Shore drive and Hawthorne place. The driver was M. Otie Robins, 3735 Giles avenue.

An unidentified man, about 55 years old, died in the Lutheran Memorial hospital of injuries suffered Monday when he was hit by a truck at Springfield and North avenues.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 517 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 396 were killed in Chicago, where 12,367 were injured in the same period.

Conductor Balks at 4th Holdup, but Gets Slugged

During the last year Thomas O'Brien, 8457 South Ada street, a street car conductor, has been robbed three times. Last night two masked youths held him up on a Roosevelt road car near Wood street. O'Brien seized one of the robbers, who shouted to his companion to shoot. Unable to do so for fear of hitting his pal, the robber slugged O'Brien. Both thieves then jumped from the car and escaped.

ORTMAN SPEEDS 255 M. P. H. IN AIR RACE TUNEUP

Earl Ortman of San Diego, Cal., arrived at Chicago airport yesterday afternoon in his racing plane 1 hour and 35 minutes after leaving Kansas City, Mo. The 405 mile trip was made at an average speed of 255.6 miles an hour without the aid of tail winds.

Ortman is on the way to the National Air Races at Cleveland in the same plane in which he set a record of 265 miles an hour around a closed course at Oakland, Cal., in May. Since then he has modified his Twin-Wasp engine to gain 50 more horse power, so that it now delivers 1,200 horse power when wide open. He also has changed the streamlining of his fuselage.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25 cents. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

LOOK AT THIS RUGGED TIRE

-at a price that's big ECONOMY news!

JUDGE this husky Goodyear Speedway on its points and you'll see why it is big news to thrifty tire buyers everywhere.

Big news—because that wide thick tread is tough enough to stand steady driving and deliver honest-to-goodness mileage.

Big news — because those sharp-edged arrowhead blocks in the center of the tread give road-holding grip that insures positive non-skid safety.

And speaking of grip, those sturdy gear-toothed shoulders provide plenty of extra pull in deep ruts and mud.

But the biggest news of all is the price. Only $6.15 for the 4.40-21 size—and you're getting a genuine Goodyear built to the high quality standards of the world's largest tire maker.

Speedways GRIP better because they have anti-skid teeth of sturdy rubber blocks in the center of the tread where grip is needed most.

Supertwist cord, the backbone of a Speedway, can take more strain and stand up longer than the cord in ordinary tires.

LIFETIME GUARANTEE

Every tire of our manufacture, bearing our name and serial number, is guaranteed by us to be free from defects in workmanship and material, without limit as to time or mileage, and to give satisfactory service under normal operating conditions. If our examination shows that any tire has failed under the terms of this guarantee, we will either repair the tire or make an allowance on the purchase of a new tire.

ALL-STARS SCORE 3 TIMES BY AIR IN LAST SCRIMMAGE

BENTON, WOLFE, HACKNEY COUNT IN 14 TO 13 GAME

Perry Schwartz's Thumb Broken.

Players on Air

BO McMILLIN, head coach of the College All-Stars; Elmer Layden of Notre Dame, one of McMillin's assistants; Arch Ward, sports editor of The Tribune, and several members of the college squad will speak on the blue network of the National Broadcasting company at 9 o'clock Chicago time tonight. Station WENR will be the Chicago outlet. The players include Vic Markov of Washington, captain of the team; Whizzer White of Colorado, Joe Routt of Texas A. & M., Jack White of Princeton, and Cecil Isbell of Purdue. Ransom Sherman will conduct the program.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The All-American Reds defeated the All-American Blues, 14 to 13, yesterday afternoon in Dyche stadium in the final scrimmage game before the battle with the Washington Redskins, professional football champions, in Soldiers' field next Wednesday evening.

Beginning today the All-Stars will work out in uniform only once each day. They will continue to have contact drills in various phases of offense and defense until Sunday, but yesterday's two hour game, played under game conditions, with 15 minute periods, was the final test for the All-Americans.

The game revealed [1] that the All-Stars who participated are in splendid condition, [2] that the squad has balanced offensive strength, and [3] that, in particular, these All-Americans will have a passing attack which may force Sammy Baugh and his Redskins to the limit to match it.

Vanzo Blocks Punt, Scores.

Three of the four touchdowns, all of which were scored in the first and second periods, were scored on passes. The fourth was the result of a blocked kick when Fred Vanzo of Northwestern, who backed up the Blues' line, broke through to step in front of one of Whizzer White's punts on the Reds' 25 yard line, recover the ball and race to the goal.

The Reds scored first, marching sixty-eight yards immediately after receiving Lou Midler's kickoff. The touchdown was an eleven yard pass from Cecil Isbell to Jim Benton. Frank Kinard of Mississippi placekicked the point.

In the same quarter Jack Robbins, the Blues' starting left half back, shot a pass in the flat to Honey Boy Hackney, and the Duke half back raced down the east sideline for sixty-two yards and a touchdown. That the Blues didn't eventually finish on even terms with their rivals was the result of Hackney's failure to placekick the point.

Davis Smashes Line.

The Reds set up their second touchdown in the second quarter, when Pinky Rohm of Lousiana State intercepted a pass by Robbins and returned forty-four yards to the Blues' 21 yard line. Here Corby Davis, Indiana's smashing full back, who had replaced Frank Patrick at the start of the period, hit the line for eleven yards, five yards, and three yards. He failed to gain on the next play, but Whizzer White, the Colorado star who seems to be the best passer on the squad, shot the ball to Hugh Wolfe, Texas end, for the touchdown. Jim McDonald, Ohio State quarter

Monsky's 185 Pounds Are All-American

BY HOWARD BARRY.

When the spectators at the All-Star game glance at their program notes next Wednesday night they may be surprised to see that Leroy Monsky of Alabama, a guard on the college team, weighs only 185 pounds. Some of the fans may feel sorry for the young man after they take a look at a few of the Washington Redskins, such as 260 pound Turk Edwards and 245 pound Willie Wilkin. But they'll be wasting their sympathy on Monsky. He can take care of himself and the job on any football field.

He's been doing it for three years at Alabama and doing it so well that the nation's football fans elected him to a place in the starting lineup on the All-Star team.

You Have to Be Quick.

The layman may wonder what Monsky will do when the big fellows in the opposing line start charging him and when the husky pro back field men try to run over him. Here's the answer in his own words:

"If you're quick you can get away with a lot. The only way to get along is to outsmart the big fellows. A little man shouldn't have any particular trouble tackling a big man if he does it right. It's mostly a matter of getting under a stiff arm and tackling low.

"The big problem is getting through the opposing linemen to make the tackle. Unless the light man gets the jump, the big ones will block him out every time. I have to be all set to go on a split second schedule as the ball is snapped.

It's the Same on Defense.

"On defense the same holds true. If you get the jump on the opposition and hit very low it's possible to throw your men off balance. But you've got to be quick."

Those who go to Soldiers' field for the All-Star game will do well to give part of their attention to Monsky's work against the Washington linemen. It may be just as interesting as watching the back field men carry the ball. If Monsky is on the same side of the line as Turk Edwards, he will have to put over a David and Goliath act to get away with his assignment.

Monsky isn't a bit worried, however, because he's been up against plenty of big fellows during his career at Alabama. In his three years of competition, the team lost only three games and two of those were in his sophomore year. The other was the Rose Bowl game against California last New Year's day.

EYSTON DRIVES AUTOMOBILE 347 MILES PER HOUR

Salt Lake City, Utah, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Capt. George E. T. Eyston drove his ponderous automobile nearly six miles a minute over the Bonneville salt flats today, but a blazing desert sun threw the delicate timing device out of gear, depriving him of an official record.

The tall, lean Englishman flashed his Thunderbolt once through the measured mile at 347.155 miles per hour, faster than man has ever traveled before on land. On the return trip, required to strike an average and make the mark official, the glare caused a failure in the electric eye that measures the speed. On this run, officials said, he reached the unprecedented mark of almost 360 miles an hour.

If that speed were sustained, he could travel the 3,111 airline miles between New York and Los Angeles in about eight hours and a half.

Certain to Break Record.

Eyston said he would try again as soon as American Automobile association officials can fix the timing machine, probably in the next few days. His performance indicated he can easily eclipse his own record of 311.42 miles established here last year.

To spectators, herded far back from the black line down the 13 mile straightaway, the passage of the Thunderbolt was just a flash of flame from the exhausts and a cloud of salt.

That the record will fall soon seemed certain, for waiting to do his bit is another Englishman, John Cobb, who has proclaimed his shark-shaped machine as faster than anything on wheels, which includes Eyston's car.

Car Weighs Seven Tons.

To give an idea what salt can do to the Thunderbolt when it is churned up, there were foot long, jagged slits over the rear wheel cowlings. Salt thrown from the wheels tore through the eighth of an inch thick aluminum as if it were paper. The cowlings must be replaced, but all the materials are here for the repairs.

Smoke from the brakes forced Eyston to use a gas mask, which was connected with a small oxygen tank.

Eyston's Thunderbolt weighs seven tons, has eight wheels, the special tires for which must be changed after each run [and they are reputed to cost several hundred dollars apiece], and develops 3,250 horse power from two 12 cylinder engines.

Ferebee Cool to Challenge from Woman

J. Smith Ferebee, whose 144 holes of golf between dawn and dusk started a wave of similar feats, was coldly analytical yesterday about a challenge issued by Mrs. Josephine Baltrusis, golfing housewife.

Mrs. Baltrusis went Ferebee one better by completing 154 holes on the Maywood golf course Tuesday. And, as her last putt rattled into the cup, she said she would like to race Ferebee over the links.

Ferebee said yesterday in his La Salle street brokerage office: "If I accept I get no credit whether I win or lose. If I beat her—well—a man is supposed to be able to beat a woman; but if she beats me, why, they'd laugh me off the street!

Thinks She's Got Something.

"Sure I'd like to do it. I think it would be fun. But there were a few unpleasant reverberations after the last one. After all, business is my first concern. I don't want to surround the thing with too much circus atmosphere."

He paused, smiled, then added:

"That's a remarkable feat of hers, though. I really think she's got something there. You know she must be a real golfer, those were pretty nice scores she got. But I think if I'm a smart young man I'll let well enough alone."

After apparently deciding to reject the challenge, Ferebee said he'd think it over. If some of his friends told him they thought the idea was all right he'd do it, he said.

Rain Hampered Effort.

"You know," he said, "I think I could have played a lot more myself if it hadn't rained so much. I would have been done about 4:30 and could have gotten in a lot more holes.

"If I play her it will have to be at Olympia Fields. I think it would be a great thing for the club. Besides, it's really more difficult to play a number of courses than to play the same 18 over and over again. Not that I mean to take anything away from her feat, I think it was really great."

Mrs. Baltrusis, who is 35 years old and lives at 502 South Laramie avenue, breezed through her marathon in apparently effortless fashion. She used ten caddies but stopped only once herself, for lunch and a rubdown. When it was all over she was eager to go dancing. Her only apparent hurt was a small blister on

Stratton Scores No. 13; Gabler Fails.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 24.—The White Sox, who at present are specializing in double-headers, had a good time for themselves but also suffered a little misery today. The pleasure of the Chicagoans is represented by an 8 to 5 trimming inflicted on the world champion Yankees in the first portion of a twin bill. Later on in the afternoon the title holders indulged in some fun of their own, winning by 11 to 1 and satisfying 13,781 customers, who earlier had barked their disapproval.

To win the first the Sox adopted a style of attack which netted them six runs in the opening inning and eventually developed into Monty Stratton's thirteenth favorable decision of the year. This six run splurge was simple as well as startling. Spud Chandler, whom the Sox haven't forgiven for hitting a homer against them to win a 1 to 0 affair for himself early in the race, was pounded for four singles. That, however, was only half of the scoring enterprise. The other half was Jim Dykes' homer with two on bases.

Monty Has to Leave.

Despite the big edge given him at the outset, Stratton was unable to complete his assignment. The ever menacing power of the Yankees, made evident on this occasion by two home run contributions from Bill Dickey, finally wore the Texas sliver down to a shadow in the eighth and Manager Dykes didn't delay readjusting his defense. He summoned Thornton Lee, and the big southpaw who trimmed the champions yesterday carried his mates through to a happy conclusion.

Having handed one beating to the American league's next world series entrant, Mr. Dykes felt he was entitled to conduct a noble experiment, which worked out swell for the Yankees in the second game. The experiment was Frank Gabler, a gift from the National league. Garrulous Frank was hammered for seven runs in the first inning, three on a homer by Joe Gordon. Later there were three more homers off Frank.

FIRST GAME

The sniping that netted the Sox six runs off Chandler in the opening inning of the first engagement began with Kuhel's single to right. He was forced by Owen. Gordon tried to force Owen on Walker's grounder, but the throw was late. Radcliff poked a single past Gehrig to score Owen. Appling's drive caromed off Chandler's shin into right field for a single, Walker counting. Kreevich shot a single into center, scoring Radcliff. And then Mr. Dykes slammed his second homer of the year.

The Yanks got under way after

The Man with the Spade.

Who placed within your outstretched hands this spade—
Your hands that once toiled honorably—and made
Of it a sign of penury and despair,

Your fathers, boldly plying it, fulfilled
Their visions of an empire, vast and free—
A symbol, then, of thrift and industry.

Wages were earned and no one dared to shirk;
Wages were earned, and not a sort of alms
Dispensed by politics to itching palms.

Who placed within your hands this spade, and said
"We are your masters and your daily bread
Depends not on your work, but on our will:
Obey and we will clothe and feed you still"?

My boy friend is also a sneezer,
Just like that poor boy friend of yours;
He, too, has an aqueous beezer,
Despite many nostrums and so-called cures.
My maidenly heart's full of sorrow
When he calls—as he's wont to do;
For if I offer to wed on the morrow
The answer I get is " ker-choo."

I've urged him to leave the big city,
Whose weeds are unkind to his nose;
I've been hoping 'twixt longing and pity
That he'll take me along if he goes.
But I seem to perceive no reaction
To my offer or e'en to my plea.
It's driving me plumb to distraction—
I fear he's becoming allergic to me.

Beware the Big X

A big X blocks out the $3.30 seats for next Wednesday's game between the College All-Americans and the Washington Redskins in Soldiers' field. They're all sold.

Good seats remain in other price ranges, but it won't be long before these will be X-ed out, too. The annual All-American game is always a sellout.

Tickets may be obtained at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Both offices are open until 9 p. m. Mail orders, accompanied by checks or money orders payable to the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., should be directed to the All-Star Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower, Chicago.

PAGE BREEZES TO VICTORY ON YIELD OF 4 HITS

Five Runs in Fourth Clinch Game.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Vance Page, only replacement to date under the Hartnett purge program, yesterday stood the Giants on their heads as the Cubs won the New Yorkers' farewell to Wrigley field, 6 to 1. The ripe rookie from Indianapolis held the defending champions to four hits, including a safe bunt and a triple in the first inning which gave the Giants their only run of the afternoon.

Besides the highly spurious hits in the first inning, the bunt by George Myatt and the triple by Mel Ott, Jimmy Ripple socked a double in the fourth and Johnny McCarthy a double in the fifth. Some extra special outfielding by Augie Galan kept the Giants from adding at least two more extra basers.

Make Ten Hits.

The Cubs contributed ten hits to Page's success, eight of them in the two scoring innings. It took three hits to tie the score in the second inning and five were hammered out in the production of five runs in the fourth.

Rip Collins was an outstanding figure, negatively and positively, in the Cub offense. Rip at the start of the game had been tamped down to eighth place in the bating array, the niche reserved for gents of extreme docile disposition in the matter of applying the wood to baseballs.

In the second inning Rip came up with the tying run home and two fellows on base. Rip found, and it made him unhappy, that he could be just as spectacularly helpless in the meek man's batting spot as in his former No. 3 assignment. Rip in the second inning tapped, ever so gently, into a rally ending double play.

Ripper Is Undaunted.

The next time Rip came up he was even more in the spotlight's focus. Stan Hack, who had walked, Carl Reynolds, who had singled, and Ken O'Dea, who had been given an intentional pass, were on the bases. This time Rip had to supply only one out to end the inning. But he crossed up his hecklers. He missed two strikes, the second by several feet. The Ripper was undaunted; almost lionhearted, you might say. Anyhow he drove a single to right center to score the first two runs of the five run inning and provide all the insurance Page needed.

The contest was an even upper in two aspects. It evened the Cubs-Giants season series at ten games apiece and it restored Hartnett's new broom régime to a .500 status.

Break Out in Fourth.

The score was tied at 1-all when the Cubs busted through in the big fourth. The Giants scored in the first inning on Myatt's bunt and Ott's blooper triple to short left. The Cubs tied it in the second. Galan opened with a single and, after Reynolds had flied to Ripple, Cavarretta singled to right, putting Galan on third. O'Dea singled to left, Galan scoring. Collins then tapped into a double play.

There were two out when Collins put the punch in the Cubs' fourth inning rally. Hack started the pleasing session with a walk. Galan flied to Moore, but Reynolds singled to center, Hack reaching third. Cavarretta bounced to McCarthy, Hack holding third. O'Dea was given an intentional pass, filling the bases. Collins then smashed a single to right center, Hack and Reynolds scoring and O'Dea taking third. Page bounced a single off Bartell's chest, O'Dea scoring. Jurges singled to left, Collins scoring, and Page also got home when Herman smacked a single to left. Brown replaced Lohrman and Hack grounded out to Bartell.

HAPPY OWNER CHANGES IN JIFFY; TWO HORSES FAIL

Witan and Wise Barrister Forget to Run.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Billy O'Toole arrived at the Washington Park track yesterday anticipating a few hours of joy and profit on his turf investments. His mud runner, Witan, was to perform in the third race and Wise Barrister, the star 3 year old of his stable, was to go into action in the day's feature.

Both, indeed, looked like "money from home" regardless of how short the odds against them might be. But things went wrong.

Old Witan faded in the third race after enjoying a lead of two lengths heading into the stretch. Wise Barrister acted the same way after he had rounded the stretch bend enjoying a lead of a length and a half. He finished fifth in the six horse race.

Thus the O'Toole picnic was spoiled. Some one had run away with the refreshments.

Her Reigh Wins.

Her Reigh, the horse that was a selling plater until Trainer Ridley Allen discovered early in the summer that the son of Reigh Count would run if his jocky did not carry a whip, tore past Wise Barrister so swiftly that he quit running. He continued his terrific pace to win by five lengths and pay $15. Dnieper skidded past the faltering Wise Barrister to be second, and Bel Espoir got up in time to take third money.

Witan was at 8 to 5 when he paraded to the post. When he opened up his long lead he appeared to be the best investment of the day. No wonder Owner O'Toole started cheering.

Then all of a sudden Witan, as he has often done before, shortened his strides. China Boy and Drombo went past him and in the final strides Drombo got the verdict over China Boy. It was the first victory for Drombo since last spring. He paid $26.60 to win.

Wise Barrister was cut about the hind legs during the running of the race and that might have been responsible for his defeat.

The O'Toole forces were further routed when Reelaway was beaten by Wayaloft in the seventh race at a mile and a furlong. But that made no difference. The fun had been spoiled hours earlier.

Mud Suits Manie O'Hara.

Manie O'Hara, the gray daughter of The Satrap, gave further evidence yesterday that few selling platers can beat her on a muddy track. She was in to be claimed for $3,000 and met a half dozen others of that class in a seven furlong dash.

All the way down the back stretch Manie O'Hara ran next to last. She appeared to be lumbering in the going, but instead she was just fooling those on the front end of the parade.

When the field hit the turn, Manie O'Hara began to move forward with her customary rush. In just a short distance she made up eight lengths. Soon after she had been straightened out for the run down the stretch she splashed past Gato, the early pacemaker. She gradually drew away to win by five lengths at a $5.20 payoff.

Charlotte G. Lets Lawyer Down Hard

"Come eleven, baby needs shoes," didn't do a bit of good in the first race at Washington park yesterday for Mrs. Dorothy Miller and her attorney, John R. Kotlar. No. 11 was Charlotte G. and Charlotte G. had been recommended by Attorney Kotlar before a master of chancery on Tuesday as "ready to win tomorrow." The 2 year old filly was to win for her owner, Lester Miller, and help pay the arrears of $30 for the support of his and Dorothy Miller's child.

But Charlotte G. failed either to qualify as a good provider for little Grace, also 2 years old, or build up Attorney Kotlar's status as a horse expert. Charlotte G. ran ninth in an eleven horse race.

Old Skalkahoe, once a stake horse, continues to show his heels to cheap selling platers despite his crippled legs. He made his second start of the Washington park season yesterday and he was an easy winner. He also won his first start.

Dixiana stable's first time starter, Torch Stick, gave his hundreds of backers heart palpitations before he finally got up to win yesterday's first race. A wild tip was out on him and he was the favorite at post time.

Koy's Bunt Is Dodgers' Only Safety.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Curt Davis, the former Cub who was tossed into the Dizzy Dean deal just for good measure, came within a bunt and a couple of inches of a no hit, no run game today as he pitched the Cardinals to a 5 to 0 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers. The only hit off Davis came on a drag bunt which Ernie Koy beat out by inches in the second inning. Only one other man reached first base. He was Cookie Lavagetto, who walked in the fifth. He was trapped off the bag. In all, Davis faced only 28 men in scoring his tenth victory of the season.

Athletics Win Two Games from Tigers

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Pounding six pitchers for 25 hits, the Athletics defeated the Detroit Tigers twice today, 10 to 5 and 11 to 2, to end a nine game losing streak. Wally Moses of the Athletics made two triples and two singles in the first game and a triple and single in the second. He has now reached first base in his last twelve times at bat, having either hit or walked.

INDIANS BEAT RED SOX.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Bruce Campbell's hitting and Mel Harder's hurling gave the Cleveland Indians a 5 to 3 victory over the Boston Red Sox today, but the Red Sox retained a percentage hold on second place in the American league. Campbell hit two home runs and a double to drive in three runs. It was Harder's twelfth victory of the season.

Montanez Stops Drouillard; 6,500 See Bout in Garden

New York, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Pedro Montanez, Porto Rican lightweight, tonight stopped Orville Drouillard of Windsor, Ont., in the fifth round of their ten round bout before 6,500 in Madison Square Garden. Weights were 138¾ for Montanez and 137 for Drouillard. Referee Arthur Donovan halted the fight after 2:14 of the fifth round had elapsed to save the Canadian from further punishment.

MILLS PLAY SHEBOYGAN.

The Chicago Mills and the Sheboygan Chairs will battle for second place in the Tri-State league in two games at the Mills stadium Sunday afternoon.

Sox Win from Yankees, 8 to 5; Lose 2d, 11 to 1

two were out in the first and chiseled two runs from Stratton's healthy lead. Henrich singled to right and went to third on Di Maggio's two bagger to left. Both registered on a single by Gehrig. The next disturbances against Stratton arose in the fourth. After Di Maggio had opened with a high bounding single, Dickey drilled his twenty-second home run into the right field seats.

Radcliff Lends a Hand.

Radcliff, always a nuisance to the Yankees, was responsible for starting Chandler into retreat in the fifth when the Sox recovered a four run lead. Rip singled with one out and Appling walked. Kreevich singled to left center, Radcliff scoring and Appling going to third. This completed Chandler's term. In came Sundra, and from the bat of Dykes came a looping single into center, Appling scoring but Kreevich was nipped trying for third.

After the fourth Stratton didn't see Dickey again until the seventh and the result was the same, except that homer No. 23 occurred with none on base, leaving the Sox with a three run lead. Dickey was back again in the eighth and there was more trouble. Henrich singled and after two were gone Dickey drew an intentional pass. Stratton threw two wide pitches to Selkirk and promptly informed Dykes he was weakening. Lee came in and completed the pass and the bases were filled. Lee then fanned Gordon.

SECOND GAME

There isn't space enough to go into detail covering the sufferings of Gabler in the first inning of the second game when seven runs were scored. Crosetti singled and Rolfe walked. Di Maggio singled them home. Dickey walked and Selkirk singled, Di Maggio scoring. Gordon hit his seventeenth homer for three more runs. Pearson singled and scored the seventh run with the assistance of a pass to Crosetti and a single by Rolfe.

Gabler's troubles mounted in a mild way in the second inning. Dickey rapped No. 24 into the seats in right. Walker became the next clouter of consequence. He hit his twelfth homer to left in the fourth, reducing the Yankees lead to a mere seven runs. The Yanks didn't threaten again until the sixth, which Gabler opened with a pass to Rolfe. Henrich immediately hit his thirteenth homer. The only run hereafter was Henrich's second homer, in the eighth.

PLAY BOSTON TWICE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 24.—The White Sox went to Boston tonight to face three more double-headers in as many days. John Whitehead and Jack Knott will work the opening pair tomorrow. The Red Sox will counter with Joe Heving and Jack Wilson.

Lee, Carleton to Pitch Pair with Dodgers

Bill Lee and Tex Carleton, who performed so nobly in the Cubs' double triumph over the Pirates last Sunday, will try to do as well against the Brooklyn Dodgers in this afternoon's double-header in Wrigley field. Van Mungo and Forrest Pressnell are slated to work for the Dodgers.

The Giants left late yesterday afternoon still entertaining some thoughts of winning their third successive pennant despite the incapacity of Carl Hubbell and several other outstanding members of their championship cast.

One of the reasons J. J. Gleeson, Newark outfielder purchased by the Cubs on Tuesday, will not report at once is because the young man has a broken finger.

Y., and a twenty yard forward pass, Dave Smukler to Jay Arnold, tonight gave the Philadelphia Eagles two touchdowns and a 14 to 7 victory over the Eastern College All-Stars before a crowd of 30,000 in Temple stadium. The All-Stars scored in the last period on a sixty-

HOT WINDS HURT CORN OVER WIDE AREA IN WEST

Much Being Cut Green for Silage and Fodder.

Dry weather accompanied by hot winds has damaged the corn crop over a wide area west of the Mississippi river, according to the weather bureau's weekly crop summary. In some sections there is said to be little hope of recovery. In the dry western districts much corn has been cut for silo filling or fodder.

Some early corn is being gathered in the southwest, and denting has extended to the northern border of the belt except for late planted grain, the report said. East of a line extending from western Kentucky to northern Minnesota, as well as in parts of eastern Kansas, the corn crop is in generally good to excellent condition.

Temperatures Above Normal.

Outlook by States.

ILLINOIS—Condition of corn generally fair to good; much near maturity in south. Soy beans average to very good. A yields of about 340 million bushels of corn in Illinois is predicted by C. A. Hughes, farm adviser in Cook county, and several other grain experts, unless early frosts or excessive rains reduce present prospects.

IOWA—Corn seriously damaged by hot winds in Missouri river counties. Elsewhere corn made good progress, except in southern areas where already damaged. Considerable progress in cutting soy bean hay and in fall plowing.

Ohio Corn Excellent.

OHIO—Corn excellent and earing rapidly. Ground too dry for plowing in some sections.

INDIANA—Condition of corn fair to very good; considerable denting. Oats threshing almost completed.

MINNESOTA—Threshing of small grains nearing completion; yields variable. Progress and condition of corn good to excellent, except in dry areas.

WISCONSIN—Corn progress delayed by wet weather; early denting; late in milk stage. Grain threshing much delayed by rain; considerable loss.

Seed Wheat in Kansas.

KANSAS—Corn improved in most of eastern third of state. Elsewhere much injured. Preparation for seeding of winter wheat nearing completion; some being drilled in extreme west.

NEBRASKA—Corn continued to deteriorate; damage serious; much past help, especially late corn, which is not earing.

MICHIGAN—Wheats, oats, barley, and hay have shown good yields; corn, potatoes, sugar beets, and beans continue to make excellent progress.

NORTH DAKOTA—Threshing made excellent progress. Corn ranges from fair to excellent. Rain needed.

SOUTH DAKOTA—Damage to corn rather serious; drying rapidly. Much harvested for silos and feed. Threshing completed in south and two-thirds completed in north.

Missouri Crops Damaged.

MISSOURI—Crop deterioration continued in south central and west portions of state. Much late corn beyond recovery. In southeast corn made good growth.

OKLAHOMA—Rain urgently needed in much of western and extreme south portions of state. Progress and condition of corn fair, except poor in dry areas. Early corn being harvested.

COTTON

Cotton prices in American markets declined .05 to .10 cent a pound yesterday because of scattered commission house and southern selling. Speculative interest was restricted. Brokers both here and abroad are awaiting announcement of the government crop loan program.

Spot cotton closed .05 to .07 cent lower, with New York, 8.32 cents; New Orleans, 8.24 cents; Galveston, 8.15 cents, and Houston, 8.16 cents a pound. Prices follow:

U.S. AND BRITAIN SOON TO REVEAL NEW TRADE PACT

Stage Set in Capital for Announcement.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—The keystone for the arch of reciprocal trade agreements which Secretary of State Cordell Hull has been building for more than four years is about to be swung into position by the publication of the terms of the agreement with Great Britain, it was learned today.

Secretary Hull.

The drafting of the pact has been completed after more than a half a year of work by the trade section of the state department and a British trade mission. The fruits of the labor are to be released simultaneously within a month to the people of the United States and the British empire.

May Be Staged Dramatically.

It is expected that the release of the pact will be dramtically staged by the White House, not only because of its importance in the trade treaty program and its leveling of tarif barriers, but also because of its importance in shifting international alignments.

The conclusion of the British pact will further emphasize the close and friendly relationship between this country and Britain, which many administration figures believe has been solidified in a secret alliance for mutual aid in the event of war. It will serve, it is believed, to answer the alliance concluded within the year by Italy, Germany, and Japan, and other alliances being forged by totalitarian states.

It is believed likely that President Roosevelt will release the terms of the pact at a press conference with some 300 newspaper men, possibly as early as Sept. 5.

Cabinet Officers to Attend.

Secretary Hull probably will sit at the President's right hand to draw praise for the achievement of a goal which he set for himself at the outset of the reciprocal trade treaty program. Other interested cabinet officers probably will be asked to attend to answer any questions which may be asked. These probably will include Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, and Secretary of Commerce Roper.

The release may come Sept. 5, because the President will be in Washington at the end of the month. He will come to the capital from the eastern shore of Maryland, which he will visit in his determination to purge Senator Millard E. Tydings, who is engaged in a heated primary contest wtih Representative David J. Lewis.

Document Reported Bulky.

The document is reported to be nearly as bulky as the Smoot-Hawley tarif bill, 1930, the last tarif act negotiated by congress, which contained some 3,000 odd items. The Anglo-American treaty may approach this total because, under it, the administration completes its trade treaty objective-revision of the protective system.

In the British treaty negotiations virtually every trade group covered by tarif law was affected. Representatives of the following trade groups were heard: Chemicals, oils, and paints, spirits, wines, and other beverages; earths, earthenware and glassware; cotton manufactures; metals and metal manufactures; flax, hemp, jute, and manufactures; wood and wood manufactures; wool and wool manufactures; sugar, molasses, and sugar manufactures; silk manufactures, tobacco and tobacco manufactures; papers and books; agricultural products and provisions; manufactures of rayon or other synthetic textiles; sundries.

Treaty Covers Wide Range.

The wide range of the treaty is regarded as of importance because, as in the case of the eighteen existing reciprocal trade treaties, the concessions in the British pact will be generalized to other nations entitled to unconditional most favored nation treatment. Any tarif reduction given Britain automatically will be given any other nation that does not discriminate against American exports.

The scaling down of the American protective tarif to be accomplished with the publication of the British treaty is virtually the single handed work of Secretary Hull. As representative and senator from Tennessee, Hull battled protection year after year.

American history is spotted with tarif revisions as a result of political change. When Republicans took over control they set about to boost the tarif. When Democrats came in they began, with equal industry, to tear down the wall of protection.

Favorable to Protection.

However, at the outset of the present administration Democrats showed no disposition to revise the Smoot-Hawley tarif of the Hoover administration. Democratic protectionists swelled by the growing industry of the south, had helped put the measure over.

Roosevelt had a tender regard for protection. He feared the economic consequences of wholesale downward revision. For the first year of the administration the single voice of Hull was lifted against protection. After a year he sold his reciprocal trade program to the President.

Stock Prices Set New Peak, but Slip Later

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 24.—Stocks turned downward in the last hour of trading to chop off most of their earlier gains today. Leading industrials, a number of which pushed to new 1938 peaks as they led a first hour rally, suffered most in the relapse. The list, as a whole, finished slightly higher, however. Trading rose to 1,235,160 shares.

Weakness in the wheat market and the situation abroad were said to have influenced the reaction.

Such headliners as Chrysler, General Motors, United States Rubber, Goodyear, Du Pont, Radio, and United States Gypsum closed with fractional losses or unchanged after touching new high marks.

Auto Shares Lead Market.

Automobile shares again assumed leadership of the market. Motor accessory stocks kept pace with them, both on the early rise and the later sinking spell.

Chrysler went to a high of 77 only to close at 75½ for a ⅛ loss. Others fluctuated less widely but followed a similar course. Borg-Warner and Electric Autolite were able to hold major fractional gains, but Bendix closed unchanged. All three touched new tops for the year.

Rails made the best showing, managing to hold fractional advances or closing unchanged. Norfolk and Western advanced 2½. Santa Fe, Pennsylvania, and Union Pacific, however, were off fractions. General American Transportation rose 1⅝.

Bethlehem Under U. S. Steel.

In finishing at 60¼ for a ⅛ loss after touching 61⅜, Bethlehem sagged behind United States Steel again. The latter showed a gain of ⅝ at the close after rising 1¾ at one time. Republic gained ⅛. Inland and National Steel each went ahead a point or more.

Phillips was a weak spot among the oils, losing 1¼. The Standard group gave up fractions. Rubbers followed motors, United States Rubber ended ⅛ lower, and Goodyear and General Tire were unchanged after all three had made new tops. Metals held minor gains for the most part. Phelps Dodge was a strong spot with an advance of 1¼.

BOARD OF TRADE CUTS FEE IN CASH WHEAT TRADING

Members of the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday voted to reduce the commission charge on the sale and purchase of cash wheat from 1½ to 1 cent a bushel. The new rate goes into effect today.

The cut in commission rates was made to permit exchange members to compete with non-member firms which have been increasing their business by bidding higher prices for grain in the country. The non-member firms are under no obligation to charge a fixed commission rate and used the 1½ cent margin to outbid exchange firms. The step was directed chiefly at Cargill, Inc., whose representatives were expelled from the exchange last March. Since its expulsion the company has been getting a larger share of the cash grain business.

Opposition to the reduction came from some brokers who believe that it will prove a step toward a reduction in commission rates on grain futures. The change was approved by a narrow vote margin, 158 to 149.

Wallace May Tell Wheat Export Plans This Week

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Secretary Wallace said today that the agriculture department may announce late this week how it expects to stimulate the export of 100,000,000 bushels of surplus American wheat during the next 10 months. He indicated the government would offer to subsidize sales in world markets. The export program, he said, will have the state department's approval. He would not amplify this statement when reporters pointed out that Secretary of State Hull had expressed opposition to export subsidies.

Everyday Economics

Copies of the booklet, "Everyday Economics," may be purchased at the Chicago Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street, Chicago. The price is 25 cents per copy—30 cents if sent by mail. This eighty-four page booklet contains simple explanations of financial and business terms and is a convenient guide to a fuller understanding of current economic and business news.

World Oats Crop.

The United States' oats crop, like our corn crop, far outranks that of any other nation in the world. According to reports of the United States department of agriculture the American oats crop for 1937 totaled 1,146,258,000 bushels. This was 38.56 per cent of the world total of 4,429,000,000 bushels.

In the drouth year of 1936 the United States produced 785,506,000 bushels, or 19.4 per cent of the world crop of 4,043,000,000 bushels. In the preceding year domestic production reached 1,194,902,000 bushels, or 39.4 per cent of the world crop of 4,715,000,000 bushels.

Other leading oats producing countries last year were Germany, with 404,304,000 bushels; France, 313,987,000 bushels; Canada, 291,622,000; Poland 166,034,000; United Kingdom 165,000,000; Czechoslovakia, 94,545,000; Sweden, 86,475,000; Argentina, 48,915,000, and Finland 46,159,000. Accurate figures on the Russian oats crop are not available but it is generally considered to be among the largest.

In bushels produced the oats crop last year ranked second to corn, which totaled 5,050,000,000 bushels. The other principal crops were wheat, barley, and rye in that order.

Ask Exchange to Let Firms Incorporate

New York, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—A proposal that member firms be allowed to incorporate was submitted to the new management of the New York Stock exchange today. It was also suggested that "allied memberships" be created for present non-member partners of exchange firms.

The incorporation proposal was submitted by a special committee suggested to investigate the subject. During the 146 year history of the exchange, only individuals and partnerships have been eligible for memberships.

Incorporation Not Mandatory.

Incorporation would be permissive, not mandatory, according to the proposal. Member corporations would be required to have a paid-in capital of at least $250,000 and a paid-in surplus of not less than 20 per cent or more than 50 per cent of the capital.

Every director and principal officer of a member corporation would be required to own at least $10,000 par value of its stock. Member corporations could have up to 35 stockholders.

Backers of the incorporation idea claim it would aid member firms in raising and preserving adequate capital.

Would Give More Control.

The "allied memberships" were designed, according to sponsors of the move, to give the exchange more control over non-member partners in disciplinary action. Such members would be subject to fine or expulsion for violation of exchange rules. They would have none of the previleges of regular members.

Members of the exchange will consider both proposals at a series of hearings to start soon.

STEEL OUTPUT CLIMBS TO 43%; BUYING RISES

Steel mills in the United States this week stepped up their production to 43 per cent of capacity on the strength of a broadening demand from miscellaneous consumers, Iron Age said yesterday. At Pittsburgh new business early this week was running 18 to 25 per cent ahead of July bookings, the publication stated. Orders last week were approximately 10 per cent better than in the preceding week.

The production rate this week shows a gain of 2 points over last week's rate of 41 per cent of capacity.

Operations in the individual steel making centers are 1 to 6 points higher than last week. Chicago output is up 2 points to 38 per cent.

In line with the general trend in steel production, the steel scrap market is on the upswing again after several weeks of uncertainty. Pittsburgh quotations on steel scrap are 25 cents a ton higher, bringing the Iron Age scrap composite price up to $14.50, 9 cents above last week's average.

Bondholders of Utility Approve Sale to Knoxville

New York, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—The National Power and Light company announced today that 82 per cent of the bonds of Tennessee Public Service company had been deposited in assent to the plan to turn the latter company over to the city of Knoxville, Tenn. The Tennessee Valley Authority will supply the power starting Aug. 31, provided Knoxville has completed plans for the financing of $6,000,000 of revenue bonds with which to reimburse the TVA for funds advanced to foster municipal ownership.

French Wheat Price Fixed at $1.50 a Bushel

PARIS, Aug. 24.—(AP)—The national wheat office today fixed the price for France's 1938 crop at 204 francs per quintal [about $1.50 per bushel at current exchange rates]. In 1937 it was 180 francs per quintal [about $1.35 per bushel]. The price is based on cost of living indices.

FACTORY WAGE RISE IS MORE RAPID THAN OUTPUT INCREASE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Factory wages increased faster than output from 1935 to 1937, census figures indicated today. This was contrary to the trend of most previous years.

In the first twenty-two industries for which figures are available from the 1937 census, manufacturers increased wages, excluding salaries, 27 per cent during the two years. Production increased only 22 per cent.

The number of wage earners, except salaried persons, increased 7.3 per cent. The average annual earnings for each worker was raised from $950 in 1935 to $1,125 in 1937.

Employment, wages, and output increases from 1935 to 1937 were much smaller than from 1933 to 1935. In that two year period the number of wage earners increased 23.2 per cent, wages 45.8 per cent, and production 46.6 per cent.

B. & O. OPERATING INCOME IN JULY BELOW YEAR AGO

July net operating income of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad was $1,850,142, compared with $1,933,438 in July, 1937. Gross revenues for the month totaled $11,325,313, against $14,420,491 in July, 1937. For the first seven months of this year net operating income totaled $4,364,462, against $15,697,298 in the like 1937 period.

The Rock Island's July net operating income amounted to $1,285,145, compared with $1,653,489 for July, 1937. However, the July figure represented a sharp gain over June, 1938, when the net operating income was $76,941.

Net operating income is income after taxes and expenses of running the railroad but before payment of bond interest and other fixed charges.

Railroads reporting yesterday included the following:

N. Y. JUDGE CALLS NAZI EXCHANGE LAW 'REPUGNANT'

New York, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Saying that German devisen foreign exchange laws were "highly repugnant to our sense of honor and decency, and a reflection of financial sadism at its worst," State Supreme Court Justice Meier Steinbrink ruled in favor of Pan-American Securities corporation today. He granted a summary judgment for $188,947, with interest and costs, against Friederick Krupp, Inc., German munitions manufacturers.

Plaintif sought in the action to recover the principal amount of bonds issued by the defendant German company which came due Feb. 1, 1937. The defendant, through counsel, contended devisen laws had prevented it from making payment.

Electricity Output Up 0.2% in Week Ended Aug. 20

Electricity produced in the United States during the week ended Aug. 20 totaled 2,138,517,000 kilowatt hours, the Edison Electric institute reported yesterday. This was an increase of 0.2 per cent over the preceding week's output but was 7.2 per cent under the same week last year. Output of the Commonwealth Edison group of companies declined last week to 131,901,000 kilowatt hours from 131,913,000 the preceding week.

Federal Butter Buying Lifts Price Slightly

A million and a half pounds of butter were bought in the Chicago and New York markets yesterday by the Dairy Products Marketing association, a federally financed agency.

The purchases had a steadying influence on future market quotations which had slumped to the lowest level since 1933 in Tuesday's trading. Butter for delivery in November sold at 22⅞ cents a pound early in the day, duplicating its low of the preceding day. It then recovered to close an eighth cent above Tuesday's close at 23⅜ cents.

Futures Volume Falls.

The government financed agency is making its purchases in the cash market in an effort to remove surplus supplies. Its purchases have steadied spot prices on butter but the futures market prices have weakened. As a result some grades of cash butter are selling higher than the November future contract. Traders believe that the government cannot continue to maintain prices in the face of growing supplies.

Less Butter Offered.

The amount of butter offered for sale on the cash market yesterday was smaller than the preceding day but receipts are still running above current trade demand. The government agency is absorbing the surplus offered. Dealers reported that cream is being diverted from cheese plants into butter manufacture.

Including yesterday's purchases, the Dairy Products Marketing association has accumulated about 54,500,000 pounds of butter since it began operations a few weeks ago. It was authorized last Saturday to purchase 25,000,000 pounds in addition to the 50,000,000 pounds authorized earlier.

Eggs for delivery in October dropped ½ cent a dozen on yesterday's trading. The market opened ¼ cent higher and then sold off. Cash prices were steady.

RECIPROCAL TAX ON U. S. AND STATE LOANS PROPOSED

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Chairman Brown [D., Mich.] of a special senate committee studying tax exempt securities said today he favored enactment of a simple statute permitting reciprocal taxation of federal and state obligations and salaries.

Brown expressed the opinion the Supreme court may reverse its previous ruling barring federal taxation of state securities and that in any event such a statute would permit a quick constitutional test.

Incomes of federal employés now are exempt from state taxation and state salaries are not subject to federal taxes.

Brown said that if the Supreme court ruled again that the federal government cannot tax incomes from state obligations, several alternatives, including the submission of a constitutional amendment, were available.

Dollar Value of Stock Sales Up 92.5% in July Over June

Washington, Aug. 24.—(AP)—The Securities commission reported today the dollar value of sales on all registered securities exchanges in July totaled $1,778,734,356. This was an increase of 84.9 per cent over June and of 25.6 per cent over July, 1937.

BUSINESS GAINS REPORTED BY 2 BIG COMPANIES

Expect Further Rise This Fall.

Business is better than it was earlier this year and further improvement is indicated for the fall, the heads of two large corporations reported yesterday.

Charles E. Speaks, president of the Fisk Rubber corporation, said that the company's business has recorded a substantial pickup since April. August business, he said, promises to show an improvement over July.

Melvin H. Baker, president of the National Gypsum company, reported that the company's business indicated that building is definitly gaining. July business, he said, was 10 per cent higher than in May, the reverse of the usual seasonal trend. August volume, he added, is running ahead of last month.

July and August Sales Rise.

Sales and production of the Fisk company since the beginning of the year are still behind the corresponding 1937 period, Speaks said, but July and August showed improvement over a year ago. The gains recorded in the two months were not large enough to offset the losses in the earlier months of the year.

"August looks as if it is going to be a little better than July and we are encouraged in looking forward because of the low inventory position of most our dealers and the prospect of satisfactory fall business," he said.

Lower earnings were reported in interim earnings statements issued yesterday by several corporations. Crown Zellerbach corporation had net profit of $970,055 in the three months ended July 31, equal to 13 cents a common share. Net profit was $2,507,711, or 81 cents a share, on the common stock in the corresponding quarter of 1937. The company manufacturers paper and paper products.

Packing Company Loses.

Phillips Packing company operated at a loss of $289,475 in the six months ended June 30 contrasted with a profit of $20,211 in the first half of 1937.

Symington-Gould corporation, manufacturer of railroad equipment, incurred a loss of $173,160 in the quarter ended July 31. In the corresponding 1937 period loss was $246,070.

The statement of the Bath Iron Works for the first half of 1938 showed a gain over last year, contrary to the general trend. Net profit was $139,921 against $69,737 last year.

Reporting for the fiscal year ended June 30, Sparks-Withington company listed a loss of $60,581 against a profit of $466,067, or 49 cents a common share, in the preceding year. Products of the company include radio receiving sets and parts and electric refrigerators.

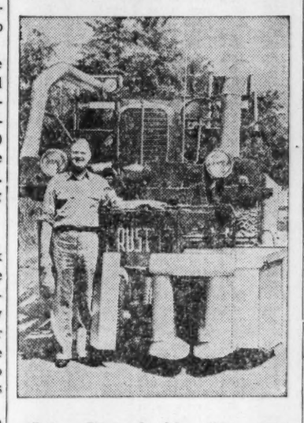
Cotton Picker Inventors Plan to Aid Worker

Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 24.—(AP)—John and Mack Rust, co-inventors of a mechanical cotton picker, today announced formation of the "Rust Foundation." The foundation will be used, they said, to apply a large part of their personal profit on the invention to uplift agricultural workers of the south.

"We think the idea of limiting the spread in income to ten to one would make an interesting experiment," the Rusts said in a statement in which they announced a charter of incorporation would be sought at Nashville today.

Limit Own Incomes.

Under the ten to one experiment, the Rusts propose to limit their own incomes from the pickers to ten times that received by the lowest paid employé. They could earn up to $8,320 a year each and still pay the lowest paid employé the wage minimum of 40 cents an hour set in the wages and hours bill.



John Rust beside the cotton picker which he and his brother, Mack, invented. It is equipped with powerful headlights to permit 24 hour a day operation.

They said all income they personally realize from their invention above the limited income set for themselves would go to the foundation, in an effort to make the picker "a blessing instead of a curse" to displaced labor.

The articles of incorporation said the foundation would "aid in rehabilitation of disemployed sharecroppers and farm laborers of the cotton growing states . . . and carry on experiments, research and educational work with a view to finding a permanent solution to our problems of poverty and unemployment, and above all to preserve and extend our civil liberties."

Begin Mass Production Soon.

The Rust Cotton Picker company, in which the Rusts retain a controling interest, is a profit corporation, the brothers said. It will be operated as such in the manufacture and marketing of pickers.

The Rusts plan to acquire a manufacturing plant here about the end of the year for production of machines on a commercial scale for the 1939 picking season. Assembling of half a dozen pickers for operation in the fields this year is being completed in the present plant.

NEBRASKANS SAY "NO" STRONGLY TO POTATO PACT

Scottsbluff, Neb., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Potato growers of western Nebraska voted 670 to 53 against the proposed federal potato marketing agreement. This plan was designed to improve prices to growers by keeping cull and other low grade potatoes off the market in years of large crops.

The ballots counted here were cast at Gering, Merrill, Lyman, Scottsbluff, Mitchel, and Minatare. At Minatare the vote was 85 to 0 against the agreement, and at Lyman it was 89 to 1 against. The vote was a part of a national referendum.

TWO UTILITIES PUT 53 MILLION LOANS ON SALE

Largest Is Edison's $33,000,000 Issue.

Utility bonds totaling $53,000,000 will be offered publicly today. These include $33,000,000 of 3½ per cent first mortgage bonds, series I, of the Commonwealth Edison company, due June 1, 1968, and $20,000,000 of Lone Star Gas corporation 1- year 3½ per cent sinking fund debentures, due Aug. 1, 1953. The offering prices are 103½ and 102, respectively.

Commonwealth Edison also will announce to its stockholders the terms for the purchase of convertible debentures. The minimum amount of the convertible debentures to be offered is $39,251,600. Debentures not taken by stockholders will be sold by an underwriting group.

Simplifies Its Structure.

The purpose of the recent financing operations has been to simplify the corporate structure of Commonwealth Edison and to cut interest charges by retiring higher coupon issues. When the present operation is completed the funded debt of the company and its subsidiaries will total $410,720,700.

The bonds are being offered by a nation-wide banking group headed by Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc.

A group of underwriters headed by the Mellon Securities corporation is offering the Lone Star Gas debentures.

Net proceeds together with $11,300,000 in bank loan notes dated Aug. 22, will be used to redeem 79,770 shares of Lone Star Gas corporation 6½ per cent cumulative preferred stock at $110 a share, make advances to subsidiaries, to redeem securities, and pay bank loans. The financing will leave the Lone Star system free of any other funded debt. The bank notes will be paid in instalments to and including Aug. 22, 1945.

Debentures Are Convertible.

The Edison debentures will be convertible into four shares of Commonwealth Edison stock, $25 par, for each $100 of debentures. Stockholders of record Sept. 2 will have the right to subscribe for $5 of debenture for each share of stock held. Rights to buy will be evidenced by subscription warants which will be mailed to stockholders on Sept. 3.. The warants will expire on Sept. 21. The debentures will not be issued in denominations of less than $100.

Accompanying the two offerings of Commonwealth Edison bonds and debentures are two formidable prospectuses, one for each issue, as required by law. Each contains 95 pages.

Each prospectus sets forth the history of the Commonwealth Edison company. It was incorporated in its present form in 1913. Commonwealth Edison is an outgrowth of a number of Chicago electric companies, the first of which was incorporated in 1887. The propectuses present details of the acquisition of shares giving greater control over subsidiaries operating in the Chicago district. These operations knit more closely the operations of Commonwealth Edison in the Chicago district and paved the way for the financing operations of which present offerings are part.

Mentions Chicago Subway.

Discussing the technical operation of the company, the prospectuses mention Chicago's proposed subway. They say that if the subway is constructed it will compel the company to relocate a part of its underground electric distribution facilities in the downtown section of the city.

On June 30, 1938, the company had 946,791 customers, a small reduction from the 956,859 total at the end of 1937. However, there were small gains in commercial and industrial users, both in the large and small classifications.

New York Bonds.

New York, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Rails led an upturn in the bond market today. Trading was lively, chiefly prompted by gains in stocks. Selected rail liens climbed 1 to more than 3 points. Other groups followed, but the close was slightly below the day's best levels.

Rail gainers of more than 2 points included: Baltimore and Ohio 1st 5s of 1948 at 44 and 4s of 1948 at 44; Boston and Maine 5s at 33; Central Pacific 1st 4s at 73½; Big Four 4½s of 1977 at 18½; Alleghany 5s of 1949 at 63, and Southern Pacific 4½s of 1968 at 51.

The foreign dollar list was mixed. Abitibi Power and Light 5s jumped 5 points to 70. Milan 6½s dropped a point to 57.

United States government obligations also were irregular, changes ranging from 3-32d rise to an equal decline.

Volume reached $6,458,450, face value, largest since July 27. Yesterday's total was $5,121,450.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks advanced on a broad front yesterday. There were thirteen new highs for the year reached during trading. Trading expanded, the volume totaling 44,000 shares. This was the largest since July 27, when the total was 60,000 shares. THE TRIBUNE'S average closed at 11.63. This was the second highest closing for 1938. The closing average of 11.70 on July 25 set the record for this year.

Of the ninety-five issues traded, forty-seven advanced, nineteen declined, and twenty-nine closed unchanged. Among the issues that touched new highs were Houdaille Hershey B, Borg-Warner, and Bendix Aviation.

Volume leader was Chicago corporation, which closed at 2, down ¼, on a turnover of 9,200 shares.

Bank Stocks.

Trading in Chicago bank stocks was light yesterday, dealers reported. Shares of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company gained 50 cents to close at $72 bid, $73 asked price. First National bank stock closed $2 higher at $236 bid, $240 asked. Other leaders closed unchanged.

TREASURY MOVES TO STOP DOUBLE TAX, TAX SAVING

Magill Explains New Rule on Old Claims.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—New treasury regulations to prevent double taxation or double tax saving in income tax disputes were announced today by Acting Secretary Roswell Magill.

Roswell Magill.

The new regulations will apply when the taxpayer or the government contends an item of income or a deduction should be recognized three or more years after it has already figured in an income tax return. It will thus be possible to adjust the earlier return although the three year period of the statute of limitations has expired.

Magill, who will return Sept. 15 to teaching tax law at Columbia university, explained the new regulations at his last press conference as acting secretary of the treasury.

Resignation Is Accepted.

When Magill became undersecretary a year and a half ago an understanding was made that he would return to his regular teaching work. During Secretary Morgenthau's vacation Magill has been acting secretary. President Roosevelt accepted his resignation today.

Under the old regulations, Magill explained, a taxpayer might have deducted in 1933 a debt he believed became worthless in that year. In 1937 the taxpayer might say he was mistaken in 1933 and the debt written off did not become worthless until 1937. If the taxpayer could prove this he would get the reduction twice because the statute of limitations prevented the reopening of his 1933 income tax return.

Reopen Old Return.

The new regulations provide that if the taxpayer proves his right to the deduction in 1937 his 1933 return may be reopened and additional tax collected.

The new rules work to the taxpayers' advantage as well in disputes, Magill said. If the government proved a taxpayer should pay on capital gains in 1937, although he already had paid taxes on the same item in 1933, collection of another tax for 1937 was permitted under the old law.

Now, however, the taxpayer will be permitted a refund for 1933 if he is required to pay for the same item in 1937.

Magill said that there were regularly 4,000 or 5,000 cases a year involving the statute of limitations.

Secretary Morgenthau, who will return next Monday from a holiday in France, has designated Assistant Secretary John W. Hanes to succeed Magill in supervising the treasury's tax research and administrative work. The title of undersecretary will be vacant.

National Tea.

Investors' Guide: Will you please give me a report on National Tea company, and why it stays so low. —J. L. N.

Answer: This $17,029,018 retail food merchandising concern grew from a $5,400 business originally founded in 1899. National Tea was incorporated in Illinois in 1902. Period of most rapid growth was between 1921 and 1928, during which it acquired stores formerly operated by the Coöperative Society of America, the John R. Thompson company, Pigly-Wiggly Stores company, Red Ball Chain Stores, Consumers Wholesale Grocers, and the Great American Stores company.

Operations are concentrated mostly in Chicago, Milwaukee, and Minneapolis. Stores are also located elsewhere in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, and Wisconsin. Some stores are owned outright, but most are leased and some are only partially used by the company. National Tea in recent years has closed several of its unprofitable units. On July 16 this year the company had 1,113 stores in operation, compared with 1,241 stores a year earlier.

Sales have declined almost steadily since 1929 and profits have fallen since 1928 except for a spurt upward in 1933. The poor showing last year was blamed by the new chairman, John McKinlay, on "higher taxes, higher labor costs, ineffective merchandising and the difficulty of management and ownership to agree on important operating policies."

Sales for the 32 weeks ended Aug. 13, 1938, totaled $34,099,630, a decline of 12.6 per cent from a year ago. Net loss for the 24 weeks ended June 18 this year was $383,437, compared with net loss in the same period last year of $9,473. Earnings in recent years follow:

1936	62,485,320	226,750	0.23

*Net loss.

Funded debt consists of $544,250 real estate mortgage notes, due serially to July 1, 1947, and $131,024 in notes due May 31, 1939. There were 147,880 shares of 5½ per cent cumulative preferred stock of $10 par value and 628,250 shares of no par common outstanding at the end of 1937. The last dividend paid on preferred stock was on Nov. 1, 1937. None have been paid on common stock since April 1, 1937.

MEN WANTED

NEW AMAZING PRODUCT THAT ENJOYS THE SAME POSITION IN ITS FIELD TODAY AS THE ELECTRIC LIGHT DID TO THE KEROSENE LAMP YEARS AGO.

Under our unique merchandise plan men who qualify will be set up in business for themselves and assisted in getting started successfully.

Under this co-operative plan, branch dealers get phenomenal results, earning as high as $20 daily.

Permanent; no investment necessary; no lean season. We can train any intelligent, clear thinker to sell this electric unit and assure him at least $40 commission his first week.

If you are wide awake and want a business that pays big earnings, investigate this unusual opportunity. Apply 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

NEW FIELD OF ENDEAVOR

for the ambitious man who would like to be in business for himself but does not have the capital to start.

If you are married, over 25 years of age, have an established residence in Chicago, and can furnish good character references and record of past employment we will be glad to talk with you regarding this new business. We will give a complete outline of our plan and a thorough presentation of our electrical unit. We furnish stock and finance your business for you. Percentage earnings can run from $2,500 to $5,000 per year, increasing with experience.

Apply to Mr. Cerny, 2714 South 52d-avenue, Cicero, Thursday, 10 a. m. sharp.

THE ELECTROLUX CORPORATION AT ITS Waukegan office at 28 North Genesee-st. Room 11, can place a few alert and ambitious men.

Percentage earning possibilities unlimited. Qualifications: good character references, over 25 years of age, married men with car preferred. Must reside in Waukegan or Lake county.

Apply Thursday the 25th at 11 a. m., no other time. Be prepared to spend at least two hours.

No Merchandise to Sell.

We need the service of several men between 25 and 45 years of age to explain our unique plan to future furniture customers. Some direct sales experience helpful but not necessary. Must be satisfied with about $30 a week to start, on bonus and percentage basis. Drawing account privilege can be arranged if desired.

834 W. 63D-ST. 3318 LINCOLN-AV.

The navy's $1,000,000 "flying battleship" dwarfs the mountainous terrain around Lake Hughes, near San Diego, Cal., during acceptance test flight. The ship is said to be the world's heaviest armed seaplane.

A typical American political scene. These farmers and townsfolk are assembled on the grass under trees at Laurens, S. C., to hear three candidates for Democratic senate nomination assail each other from same platform. It's an old rule in South Carolina that candidates must appear together at meetings.

The seven ton Thunderbolt in which Capt. Eyston sped over Utah salt flats at fastest clip man ever traveled on land. It has 8 wheels and twin aero engines.
